Truman's Name Removed From Louisiana's Ballot

Committee Votes Thurmond, Wright Party's Nominees

[By The Associated Press]

And in the President's home state of Missouri, the pro-Wallace Progressive Party yesterday won a place on the November ballot.

The Louisiana move, taken by the Democratic State Central Committee, technically throws the state's 10 previously unpledged presidential electors to States' Rights candidates.

Democratic National Chairman J. Howard McGrath would not comment but it is expected that the pro-Truman forces will take steps, probably in the courts, to counter the Louisiana move.

McGrath said he wanted to study the legal aspects of the case further.

The Louisiana action was by a unanimous vote of the state committee. Its chairman said that although the electors were not pledged officially to Gov. J. Strom Thurmond, of South Carolina, for President and Gov. Fielding L. Wright, of Mississippi, for Vice President, that was what the move meant in reality.

States' Righters Jubilant

Also, the only way a Louisiana voter may cast his ballot for President Truman would be by writing in his name.

States' Righters were jubilant, and claimed they now have 45 electors in six states pledged to Thurmond and Wright. (There are a total of 531 national electors, and 266 are needed to win.)

Four southern states which have pledged their full slate of regular Democratic electors to the new party are Louisiana (10), Alabama (11), Mississippi (9) and South Carolina 8). Also, four of Florida's eight electors and three of Tennessee's 12 are pledged to Thurmond and Wright.

States' Righters have qualified to appear on tickets in four other states—Kentucky, Virginia, North Carolina and Texas with a total of 59 electors.

Efforts are being made to get on ballots in Arkansas, Georgia, North Dakota, Minnesota and Indiana.

However, Indiana seems out of the picture for States' Righters after yesterday's ruling by Judge Lloyd E. Claycombe that permanently enjoined the state election board from giving the southern Democrats a place on the ballot.

Meanwhile, President Truman and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey today are scheduled to begin the last weekend of rest either may enjoy for a long, long time.

Truman Plans Cruise

Next week both will swing into their presidential campaigns, and from then until November the two candidates will be involved in work that will allow little relaxation.

Mr. Truman planned to find his weekend of quiet on the presidential yacht Williamsburg on a leisurely cruise down the Potomac. It won't be all rest, however, for he plans to work on his campaign speeches.

Dewey expects to hold a morning conference with Gov. Robert F. Bradford, of Massachusetts, in New York, then later today go to his farm home at Pawling, N. Y. Yesterday he and Mrs. Dewey went from Albany to New York to register for the November election, and to chart more campaign strategy.

Gen. Groves Hints A-Bomb Secrets Slipped To Russia

Did Not Send Any Uranium To Soviet

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP) — Lt. Gen. Leslie R. Groves brought out of a two-hour meeting with congressional spy investigators today a hint that wartime atom bomb secrets may have been slipped to the Russians.

The House Un-American Activities Committee says it has evidence of the existence of an atomic espionage ring.

Groves directed the vast atomic project during the war. And he told reporters that everybody in an organization of 600,000 people couldn't be of "the utmost integrity."

That was in answer to a question whether atomic scientists had leaked secret information to Soviet agents. The committee says it has testimony to that effect from a former Army intelligence officer.

Shipped No Uranium To USSR

Rep. McDowell (R-Pa) says evidence also has been obtained that during the war Russia got from this country more than a ton of uranium compounds and 25 pounds of refined uranium metal.

On that, Groves told reporters that he didn't ship any and wouldn't have done so under any circumstances. And he said he had no recollection of any shipments whatever.

"I can't imagine it being shipped," he said.

But he said, too, the authority for such shipments would not have rested with him and he didn't know who did have it.

The committee called in several other witnesses today in preparation for open hearings later on.

Chairman J. Parnell Thomas (R-NJ) said one witness was a scientist who was brought in to examine certain documents the committee has obtained.

Scientist's Name Withheld

"These documents," he said, "were in connection with the atomic bomb, also in connection with this espionage case. I am not free to give out the name of the scientist."

He said the scientist may testify at the open hearings.

Both Groves and Chairman Thomas had a crisp "no comment" as to what went on at the spy inquiry today.

The General now is retired and vice president of Remington Rand in charge of advanced research.

As to whether there have been leaks of atomic information to the Russians, Groves advised newsmen to read the report on the Canadian atomic spy case and draw "the obvious conclusions."

Divorcee Will Marry Father Of Her Quads

PARIS, Sept. 10 (AP) — Louise-Marise Dore said today she is going to marry the father of her quadruplets as soon as she leaves the hospital. Mrs. Dore, a divorcee, gave birth to two boys and two girls last Saturday in a Versailles hospital.

Following the publicity resulting from their birth it was revealed that Mrs. Dore had never gone to the altar with Juan Leal, 46, with whom she had been living since 1943.

"We plan to get married as soon as possible," Leau told reporters today.

"Axis Sally" Is Indicted On Charges Of Treason

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP) — An American-born woman accused of broadcasting a series of "Home, Sweet Home" programs over the German radio to American troops in Europe was indicted for treason today.

Known to wartime GIs as "Axis Sally," the defendant is Mildred Elizabeth Gillars, 47, a native of Portland, Me.

A federal grand jury charged that Miss Gillars aided Hitler's Nazi German government in its psychological warfare against the United States not only to weaken the resistance of Americans at home but also "for the purpose of x x x weakening the fighting powers and the morale" of United States troops overseas.

The 10-count indictment further accused her of violating her allegiance to the country of her birth and said she "knowingly, intentionally, willfully, unlawfully, feloniously and treasonably did adhere to the enemies of the United States."

Besides her "Home, Sweet Home" broadcasts, allegedly designed to whet the homesickness of American soldiers serving in North Africa, Italy and on the western front in Europe, the grand jury said Miss Gillars helped produce a radio drama entitled "Vision of Invasion."

The indictment said the "invasion" broadcasts, beamed from Berlin to United States troops abroad and to Americans at home, occurred between January 1 and June 6, 1944. June 6 was D-Day in the Normandy invasion.

The jury's charge disclosed no details of the "invasion" drama, but United States war correspondents who heard the broadcasts in England recalled that they conjured a picture of inevitable and frightful lalamity which would strike Allied invasion forces.

According to the indictment, Miss Gillars broadcast for the Germans from December 11, 1941, through May 8, 1945.

N. Y. Wallace Rally Draws 45,000 Fans

Nominee Says He Had "Taste" Of Fascism

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace came back to the friendly confines of Yankee Stadium tonight to open his New York State campaign before 45,000 cheering, shouting, paying customers.

Wallace told the "Yankee Doodle" rally, held after a 24-hour postponement because of rain, that on his recent southern tour—punctuated by egg and tomato throwing—he had tasted "the ugly reality" of Fascism.

"I have tasted it neither so fully nor so bitterly as millions of others," he said. "But I have tasted it."

"And in tasting it I have reinforced my solemn resolution to fight it wherever and whenever it appears as long as I live."

Deafening Ovation

As the third party presidential nominee strode from the visiting team's dugout behind third base to the speaker's stand over second base he was greeted by a deafening ovation which lasted for some six minutes and ended only on a plea by Rep. Vito Marcantonio (ALP-NY).

There he stood under the full glare of the stadium's night lights, waving his arms and grinning broadly, while wave on wave of cheers rolled across the arena and clouds of torn bits of paper floated from the stands.

Then Wallace called upon President Truman and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey "to pledge with he that whosoever shall be elected, he will enforce the Second Section of the 14th Amendment no less than the other provisions of the Constitution.

"That section of our Constitution calls for the reduction of the number of congressmen for each state where the right to vote is abridged."

70,000 Crowd Was Predicted

Rally sponsors had predicted that the huge ballpark would be filled to its capacity of 70,000.

Last night's rally was washed out when a sudden thunderstorm broke over the stadium a few minutes after proceedings got underway.

Wallace is running in New York State under the banner of the American Labor Party.

Before the speaking got underway the crowd was entertained by a musical program.

One song, making reference to Dewey's White House aspirations, declared: "He'll be awfully crowded with Wallace in there."

President Truman's civil rights program and piano playing ability was mocked in a song whose lyrics said: "He plays on the white keys but not the black keys: He's afraid of offending the South."

Action To Compel Evacuation Of U. S. Cemetery Is Taken

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Sept. 10 (AP) —Two real estate companies have taken court action to compel evacuation of the American cemetery in Neuville-en-Condroz within eight days. Twelve thousand American war dead are buried there.

Belgium government spokesmen said the government may expropriate the land in order to make sure American military authorities remain in undisputed possession of the cemetery.

Belgian Prime Minister Paul-Henri Spaak was known to be seriously concerned and a government investigation of the affair already has been ordered.

"One thing is certain," a spokesman said. "In eight days time nothing will be changed at the cemetery. The government may settle the matter once and for all by expropriating the land from its present owners. The wording of the legal process was most unbecoming under the circumstances, but of course they were the usual legal terms."

Actress Still In Coma Following Operation

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 10 (AP) — Beauteous Rita Johnson lay near death today from head injuries which police said apparently were caused by a hair drier falling on the 35-year-old film actress Monday.

The actress, once considered as a successor to the late Jean Harlow, underwent a delicate brain operation by three physicians last night to remove a clot. Today she was still in a coma.

Her brother, William, flew from Chicago to be at her bedside. He asked for "a police investigation of this whole matter." Detectives already were on the case, however.

GRANTED DIVORCE—Actress Susan Peters, who is paralyzed from the waist down as the result of a hunting accident, is sworn in before testifying yesterday in trial of her divorce suit against Richard Quine, actor and producer. She was granted the decree after testifying she and Quine had frequent arguments and disagreed on almost everything.

Queuille Is Confirmed As France's Premier

Radical Socialist Expected To Form His Cabinet Today

PARIS, Sept. 10 (AP)—The National Assembly tonight confirmed Henri Queuille, a veteran Radical Socialist (centerist) as Premier of France by a comfortable margin.

The vote was 351 to 196, with the Communists casting most of the negative ballots. The required majority is 311.

Queuille is expected to form his Cabinet sometime tomorrow, ending a two-week-old government crisis. Many foreign obesrvers expressed the belief the cabinet would be weak and were skeptical of its chances of living long.

While the Assembly was in session, Gen. Charles DeGaulle—its bitterist critic—was campaigning in Southern France. He said in Avignon:

DeGaullists Back Queuille

"I am ready to assure the nation's destiny. I am sure of the nation's reply the day when it will be asked to give it."

DeGaulle and his Rally of the French People, a rightist party, believe they can win if the Assembly is dissolved and a national election held.

In spite of their desire for such an election, however, the DeGaullists gave their support to Queuille who was associated with the General in the Free French movement during the war.

Queuille also was backed by the Socialists, Popular Republicans (MRP) and his own Radical-Socialists. Active in French politics for more than 28 years, Queuille has served as a Cabinet minister 22 times since 1920 but never before has been Premier.

Fears "Disorders In Streets"

He was Minister of State in the Andre Marie Cabinet, the fall of which touched off the government crisis, and was Minister of Public Works and Transport in the Cabinet organized by Robert Schuman which lasted just 64 hours.

Before the vote was taken Queuille told the Assembly he feared widespread "disorders in the streets" of France unless the wage and price problem is solved. He conceded, however, that he now had no clear-cut solution to advance.

He took a stand against general wage increases, which the Socialists have demanded. He also came out for $260,000,000 in new taxes between now and the end of the year.

Crop Production This Year Will Shatter Record

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP) —The Agriculture Department reported today the nation's farmers this year will produce the biggest volume of food in history. In return, they may get more dollars than ever before.

A quick unofficial computation, using latest available farm prices or government support prices, indicated the farm value of the six basic crops—wheat, corn, cotton, tobacco, peanuts, and rice—may reach $13,388,000,000 in 1948, outstripping the banner $12,287,517,000 value of these crops last year.

The production of all crops this year is nine index points above the record set in 1946 and 135 per cent of the 1923-32 average.

U. S. Ship Reaches Stricken Island

MANILA, Saturday, Sept. 11. (AP) —A big United States Army transport reached stricken Camiguin Island today amid warnings that the 14,000 huddling Filipino refugees there faced a violent new volcanic eruption.

A dispatch from the scene said thundering landslides plugged Hibokhibok's main crater Friday. Geologists feared the pressure of pent up gases might produce a major explosion.

The refugees, burned by a rain of acidic ash and menaced by chlorine gases from the mile-high mountain, crowded the water's edge. They carried in bundles all the possessions they could get together quickly.

Capt. Walter Williams, of the Army transport Gen. William Weigel, radioed that his ship had reached the South Philippines Island and would begin loading refugees at daylight.

The 17,812-ton ship, big enough to accomodate all 14,000, was en route to Manila from Guam when it received frantic distress calls from the little island 450 miles southeast of Manila.

German-Led Spy Ring Smashed, Soviets Say

Russian Attempt To Snarl Berlin Airlift Is Swiftly Blocked

BERLIN, Sept. 10 (AP)—American authorities today swiftly blocked a Russian attempt to snarl with red tape the joint United States-British airlift supplying Berlin.

A Soviet note to the four-power air safety center demanded detailed flight information concerning the supply planes, but United States officials replied that the Russians already were getting adequate information. The huge transports have been carrying supplies to Berlin since the Russians blockaded the city last June.

In this atmosphere of East-West tension, the Russian-licensed news agency, ADN, reported that a German-led spy ring "supported" by United States and British authorities had been smashed in Eastern Germany with the arrest of 15 agents.

The report followed an announcement in Frankfurt that an American court had sentenced Count Heinrich Von Einsiedel, great grandson of Bismarck, to six months in jail for carrying false papers. He had been arrested as a suspected Communist contact man in the United States zone.

Schumacher Called Leader

The ADN report said all the arrested agents were under orders from Kurt Schumacher, one-armed Social Democrat leader in Western Germany, and had "the fullest support of American and British occupation authorities." The report suggested that Schumacher's Socialists had an organized network of underground cells throughout the Russian occupation zone.

Railway officials in Hannover said the Russians allowed eight railway cars of mail to travel from blockaded Berlin to the British zone of Germany during the day, but a British transport official in Berlin said it had "no significance as far as the blockade of Berlin is concerned."

The British official said the westward movement of mail posted in the Soviet sector of Berlin has been going on all summer "in dribs and drabs." He pointed out that the trains carrying it do not move over the blockaded international Helmstedt line, but along a northerly route on which there never had been any stoppage of such traffic. There was no sign of resumption of traffic on the Helmstedt line.

Detailed Information Demanded

The information which Soviet authorities demanded on airlift flights was that one hour before every flight, they be given information on: The type of plane, the pilot's name, altitude, takeoff time, radio details and the object of the trip.

A senior American air officer described the Soviet move as "just another attempt to muscle in on us." He said the real aim was to get "control over our flights and we can't afford to let them interfere with the airlift."

(In Moscow, an informed source said at least one of the three western envoys had received instructions on the next step in the four-power talks on the Berlin crisis. The American, British and French envoys have been standing by awaiting instructions from their governments. The four military governors of Germany reached a pause in their negotiations after seven meetings.

(After receipt of the instructions the three western diplomats in Moscow met informally. It was not known immediately whether they would seek another meeting with Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov or Prime Minister Stalin).

Mine Union Shop Clause Challenged

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP) — Government attorneys today asked the National Labor Relations Board to order John L. Lewis to drop the union shop clause from his contract with the steel industry's "captive" coal mines.

The NLRB attorneys made the demand in a brief filed with NLRB Trial Examiner William R. Ringer in a case which challenges the union shop proviso as illegal.

The Taft-Hartley labor law permits a union shop only after workers agree to one in an NLRB election. Lewis obtained his, after a week-long mine shutdown in July, without such an election.

Ringer received briefs today from both the NLRB attorneys and counsel for Lewis' United Mine Workers Union, summing up arguments made at hearings several months ago.

The NLRB brief said Lewis succeeded in getting the allegedly illegal union shop arrangement in "complete and obdurate disregard of the law of the land." Under a union shop all employes must be union members.

The union's brief contended the Taft-Hartley law's union shop election requirement is unconstitutional. It also pointed out the hearings lacked any evidence that the disputed union shop clause fostered any discrimination against non-union miners.

PRAGUE, Sept. 10 (INS) — The body of Dr. Eduard Benes, former Czechoslovakian president, was interred today in a simple mausoleum on his estate at Sezimovo Usti.

USSR Agreeable To Big 4 Parley In Paris Monday

LONDON, Saturday, Sept. 11 (AP)—The Soviet news agency Tass said today Russia "will not object" to a four-power conference in Paris Monday on the fate of Italy's prewar colonies. The agency's dispatch quoted a Soviet note addressed to the United States.

The Russian note, distributed by Tass in London, accused the United States of a "quite arbitrary and inadmissible" act in suggesting in a note to Russia September 8 that a session of the four foreign ministers themselves would not be of great use in the Soviets had no new proposals to put forward.

The Russian note charged that the United States note of September 8 was "not in conformity with the peace treaty with Italy" in implying that Secretary of State Marshall would not attend the foreign ministers' conference, but would send one of his representatives.

Ferdinand, First King Of Modern Bulgaria, Dies

Abdicated At Close Of First World War

COBURG, Germany, Sept. 10 (AP) —Ferdinand, first king of modern independent Bulgaria, died peacefully today at the age of 87 after a lifetime as the object of assissination plots and revolutions.

Czar Ferdinand, as he was known during his reign, long had had a superstition he would die on Friday the 13th. He died on Friday, but not the 13th.

He cast his lot with Germany in the First World War and abdicated in 1918 when the Allies defeated Bulgaria and the Central Powers. The act saved the dynasty for his son, King Boris, who died during the Second World War. The grandson, Boy King Simeon II, went into exile in Egypt in 1946 when Bulgaria voted to become a republic after the Second World War.

Born In Coburg

A German prince, son of Prince Augustus of Saxe-Coburg and Princess Clementine of Bourbon-Orleans, Ferdinand was born in Coburg on February 26, 1861 without any prospect of becoming a sovereign

His ambitious mother educated him for the role of a ruler, however, and when Prince Alexander, of Bulgaria, had to flee because of Balkan intrigues he was offered the throne.

Turkey and most of the European powers refused to recognize him for nearly five years. He finally won Russian recognition by having Boris baptised in the Greek Orthodox Church.

In 1908 he proclaimed Bulgarian independence from Turkey and himself King Ferdinand the First.

Kept Pistol In Desk

In fending off attempts of Macedonian plotters, revolutionists, foreign coalitions and would-be assassins to remove him from the throne he found it advisable to keep a pistol in his desk for his personal protection.

After his abdication in 1918 he returned to his palace at Coburg where he devoted himself to his hobbies of collecting minerals, rare birds, tropical fauna and gems. He donated many of his collections to the Coburg Museum.

Calif. Imports Gasoline

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 10 (AP)—California today reversed the normal movement of oil refinery products and started importing gasoline as the seven-day refinery strike began to pinch western motorists.

United America Won't Retreat, Senator Says

Top GOP Spokesman On Foreign Affairs Confers With Dewey

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (INS) — Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, America's top Republican spokesman on foreign affairs, served flat warning "on the world" tonight that the United States will not retreat anywhere in is battle for freedom and justice.

Vandenberg's momentous statement was issued as he emerged from a special conference in New York City with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and the Republican presidential nominee's adviser on foreign affairs, John Foster Dulles.

The Michigan Senator, who said his statement was issued with the full approval of Dewey and Dulles, made it unmistabable that he was referring to the East-West crisis in Berlin as well as to international developments elsewhere.

Though addressed to "the world," Vandenberg's statement in the view of newsmen present, was directed primarily to the Soviet Union.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee chairman said at the outset of his written statement that he, Dewey and Dulles in their one-hour conference had "canvassed the foreign policy problems which confront our country, including the situation in Berlin."

Then, emphasizing to newsmen the need for the most careful quotation, Vandenberg stated:

"Regardless of political differences at home, we are serving notice on the world that America is united to protect American rights everywhere, and to firmness in the right to seek justice for ourselves and the other peace-loving peoples of the world."

"It is of the greatest importance that other nations which do not understand our political system should not be misled by our political campaign at home.

"We shall be in eternal controversy regarding many phases of foreign policy.

"But we shall not be in controversy over the basic fact that America is united against aggression and against the foes of freedom.

"I am happy to say that Gov. Dewye and I have discussed these matters many times, and one of the reasons I confidently look forward to his election as President of the United States is the fact that he deeply believes in this concept and will stoutly maintain it over the years that lie ahead."

Vandenberg pointed out to newsmen that his statement, and tonight's conference, were timed with the fact in mind that Dulles departs next Friday for Paris and his "critical responsibilities" at the United Nations General Assembly. The Assembly convenes on Tuesday, September 21.

Neither Dewey nor Dulles had anything to add to the Vandenberg statement. Both left the clear impression with newsmen that they agreed fully with it.

In his encounter with reporters who had been awaiting the end of the Dewey-Dulles-Vandenberg conference, the Michigan Senator, by the gravity of his "off the record" remarks, emphasized that he considered his statement of major import.

He issued the statement after earlier refusing to permit himself to be quoted in ad lib style. The subject, he told the newsmen, was too important to permit casual comment.

Flexible $15,000,000,000 Limit On Military Budget

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP)—The Truman administration formally disclosed today it has set a flexible $15,000,000,000 limit on next fiscal year's military budget. This is about $3,000,000,000 more than was set aside for this year.

Budget Director James E. Webb emphasized that the proposed outlay will be subject to "adjustment" later if changes in the international situation warrent such action.

Three Ex-ATC Officers Indicted In Bond Case

BOSTON, Sept. 10 (AP) — Three former Air Transport Command officers and a Boston broker were indicted today by a federal grand jury for an alleged international, airborne traffic in American bonds valued at $500,000 which were stolen by the Nazis in Holland.

United States Attorney William T. McCarthy, who described the bonds as "gilt-edged blue chip" securities of American industries, said they were stolen during German occupation of the Netherlands.

Later they appeared in the French black market at prices much below their actual worth. Trading in the bonds, McCarthy said, had been forbidden by the Treasury Department.

The indictments charge the three fliers, Edward R. Ashton, Enfield, Conn., and Seymour Lerner and Gerald A. Rowland, both of Brooklyn, N. Y., flew the bonds to this country and that Wendell M. Weston, the broker, disposed of many of them.

In purchasing and transporting the securities, according to the indictments, the fliers violated the Trading with the Enemy Act.

McCarthy said the government believed the trio conducted "a considerable business" in securities, banking some of the proceeds in Swiss banks to have American dollars available for additional purchases. The alleged violations occurred between November 1946 and July 1947.

Weston, whose home is in Weston, conducts a stock brokerage as Weston and Company, in the Boston financial district. He is 48 and a veteran of the First World War.

McCarthy said that soon after cessation of hostilities in Europe, a "black market" in American securities started operating.

Gen. Groves Hints A-Bomb Secrets Slipped To Russia

On that, Groves told reporters that he didn't ship any and wouldn't have done so under any circumstances. And he said he had no recollection of any shipments whatever.

"I can't imagine it being shipped," he said.

But he said, too, the authority for such shipments would not have rested with him and he didn't know who did have it.

The committee called in several other witnesses today in preparation for open hearings later on.

Chairman J. Parnell Thomas (R-NJ) said one witness was a scientist who was brought in to examine certain documents the committee has obtained.

Scientist's Name Withheld

"These documents," he said, "were in connection with the atomic bomb, also in connection with this espionage case. I am not free to give out the name of the scientist."

He said the scientist may testify at the open hearings.

Both Groves and Chairman Thomas had a crisp "no comment" as to what went on at the spy inquiry today.

The General now is retired and vice president of Remington Rand in charge of advanced research.

As to whether there have been leaks of atomic information to the Russians, Groves advised newsmen to read the report on the Canadian atomic spy case and draw "the obvious conclusions."

N. Y. Wallace Rally Draws 45,000 Fans

Nominee Says He Had "Taste" Of Fascism

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace came back to the friendly confines of Yankee Stadium tonight to open his New York State campaign before 45,000 cheering, shouting, paying customers.

Wallace told the "Yankee Doodle" rally, held after a 24-hour postponement because of rain, that on his recent southern tour—punctuated by egg and tomato throwing—he had tasted "the ugly reality" of Fascism.

"I have tasted it neither so fully nor so bitterly as millions of others," he said. "But I have tasted it."

"And in tasting it I have reinforced my solemn resolution to fight it wherever and whenever it appears as long as I live."

Deafening Ovation

As the third party presidential nominee strode from the visiting team's dugout behind third base to the speaker's stand over second base he was greeted by a deafening ovation which lasted for some six minutes and ended only on a plea by Rep. Vito Marcantonio (ALP-NY).

There he stood under the full glare of the stadium's night lights, waving his arms and grinning broadly, while wave on wave of cheers rolled across the arena and clouds of torn bits of paper floated from the stands.

Then Wallace called upon President Truman and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey "to pledge with he that whosoever shall be elected, he will enforce the Second Section of the 14th Amendment no less than the other provisions of the Constitution.

"That section of our Constitution calls for the reduction of the number of congressmen for each state where the right to vote is abridged."

70,000 Crowd Was Predicted

Rally sponsors had predicted that the huge ballpark would be filled to its capacity of 70,000.

Last night's rally was washed out when a sudden thunderstorm broke over the stadium a few minutes after proceedings got underway.

Wallace is running in New York State under the banner of the American Labor Party.

Before the speaking got underway the crowd was entertained by a musical program.

One song, making reference to Dewey's White House aspirations, declared: "He'll be awfully crowded with Wallace in there."

President Truman's civil rights program and piano playing ability was mocked in a song whose lyrics said: "He plays on the white keys but not the black keys: He's afraid of offending the South."

Action To Compel Evacuation Of U. S. Cemetery Is Taken

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Sept. 10 (AP) —Two real estate companies have taken court action to compel evacuation of the American cemetery in Neuville-en-Condroz within eight days. Twelve thousand American war dead are buried there.

Belgium government spokesmen said the government may expropriate the land in order to make sure American military authorities remain in undisputed possession of the cemetery.

Belgian Prime Minister Paul-Henri Spaak was known to be seriously concerned and a government investigation of the affair already has been ordered.

"One thing is certain," a spokesman said. "In eight days time nothing will be changed at the cemetery. The government may settle the matter once and for all by expropriating the land from its present owners. The wording of the legal process was most unbecoming under the circumstances, but of course they were the usual legal terms."

Actress Still In Coma Following Operation

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 10 (AP) — Beauteous Rita Johnson lay near death today from head injuries which police said apparently were caused by a hair drier falling on the 35-year-old film actress Monday.

The actress, once considered as a successor to the late Jean Harlow, underwent a delicate brain operation by three physicians last night to remove a clot. Today she was still in a coma.

Her brother, William, flew from Chicago to be at her bedside. He asked for "a police investigation of this whole matter." Detectives already were on the case, however.

GRANTED DIVORCE—Actress Susan Peters, who is paralyzed from the waist down as the result of a hunting accident, is sworn in before testifying yesterday in trial of her divorce suit against Richard Quine, actor and producer. Queuille Is Confirmed As France's Premier

PARIS, Sept. 10 (AP)—The National Assembly tonight confirmed Henri Queuille, a veteran Radical Socialist (centerist) as Premier of France by a comfortable margin.

The vote was 351 to 196, with the Communists casting most of the negative ballots. The required majority is 311.

Queuille is expected to form his Cabinet sometime tomorrow, ending a two-week-old government crisis. Many foreign obesrvers expressed the belief the cabinet would be weak and were skeptical of its chances of living long.

While the Assembly was in session, Gen. Charles DeGaulle—its bitterist critic—was campaigning in Southern France. He said in Avignon:

DeGaullists Back Queuille

"I am ready to assure the nation's destiny. I am sure of the nation's reply the day when it will be asked to give it."

DeGaulle and his Rally of the French People, a rightist party, believe they can win if the Assembly is dissolved and a national election held.

In spite of their desire for such an election, however, the DeGaullists gave their support to Queuille who was associated with the General in the Free French movement during the war.

Queuille also was backed by the Socialists, Popular Republicans (MRP) and his own Radical-Socialists. Active in French politics for more than 28 years, Queuille has served as a Cabinet minister 22 times since 1920 but never before has been Premier.

Fears "Disorders In Streets"

He was Minister of State in the Andre Marie Cabinet, the fall of which touched off the government crisis, and was Minister of Public Works and Transport in the Cabinet organized by Robert Schuman which lasted just 64 hours.

Before the vote was taken Queuille told the Assembly he feared widespread "disorders in the streets" of France unless the wage and price problem is solved. He conceded, however, that he now had no clear-cut solution to advance.

He took a stand against general wage increases, which the Socialists have demanded. He also came out for $260,000,000 in new taxes between now and the end of the year.

Crop Production This Year Will Shatter Record

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP) —The Agriculture Department reported today the nation's farmers this year will produce the biggest volume of food in history. In return, they may get more dollars than ever before.

A quick unofficial computation, using latest available farm prices or government support prices, indicated the farm value of the six basic crops—wheat, corn, cotton, tobacco, peanuts, and rice—may reach $13,388,000,000 in 1948, outstripping the banner $12,287,517,000 value of these crops last year.

The production of all crops this year is nine index points above the record set in 1946 and 135 per cent of the 1923-32 average.

U. S. Ship Reaches Stricken Island

MANILA, Saturday, Sept. 11. (AP) —A big United States Army transport reached stricken Camiguin Island today amid warnings that the 14,000 huddling Filipino refugees there faced a violent new volcanic eruption.

A dispatch from the scene said thundering landslides plugged Hibokhibok's main crater Friday. Geologists feared the pressure of pent up gases might produce a major explosion.

The refugees, burned by a rain of acidic ash and menaced by chlorine gases from the mile-high mountain, crowded the water's edge. They carried in bundles all the possessions they could get together quickly.

Capt. Walter Williams, of the Army transport Gen. William Weigel, radioed that his ship had reached the South Philippines Island and would begin loading refugees at daylight.

The 17,812-ton ship, big enough to accomodate all 14,000, was en route to Manila from Guam when it received frantic distress calls from the little island 450 miles southeast of Manila.

German-Led Spy Ring Smashed, Soviets Say

Russian Attempt To Snarl Berlin Airlift Is Swiftly Blocked

BERLIN, Sept. 10 (AP)—American authorities today swiftly blocked a Russian attempt to snarl with red tape the joint United States-British airlift supplying Berlin.

A Soviet note to the four-power air safety center demanded detailed flight information concerning the supply planes, but United States officials replied that the Russians already were getting adequate information. The huge transports have been carrying supplies to Berlin since the Russians blockaded the city last June.

In this atmosphere of East-West tension, the Russian-licensed news agency, ADN, reported that a German-led spy ring "supported" by United States and British authorities had been smashed in Eastern Germany with the arrest of 15 agents.

The report followed an announcement in Frankfurt that an American court had sentenced Count Heinrich Von Einsiedel, great grandson of Bismarck, to six months in jail for carrying false papers. He had been arrested as a suspected Communist contact man in the United States zone.

Schumacher Called Leader

The ADN report said all the arrested agents were under orders from Kurt Schumacher, one-armed Social Democrat leader in Western Germany, and had "the fullest support of American and British occupation authorities." The report suggested that Schumacher's Socialists had an organized network of underground cells throughout the Russian occupation zone.

Railway officials in Hannover said the Russians allowed eight railway cars of mail to travel from blockaded Berlin to the British zone of Germany during the day, but a British transport official in Berlin said it had "no significance as far as the blockade of Berlin is concerned."

The British official said the westward movement of mail posted in the Soviet sector of Berlin has been going on all summer "in dribs and drabs." He pointed out that the trains carrying it do not move over the blockaded international Helmstedt line, but along a northerly route on which there never had been any stoppage of such traffic. There was no sign of resumption of traffic on the Helmstedt line.

Detailed Information Demanded

The information which Soviet authorities demanded on airlift flights was that one hour before every flight, they be given information on: The type of plane, the pilot's name, altitude, takeoff time, radio details and the object of the trip.

A senior American air officer described the Soviet move as "just another attempt to muscle in on us." He said the real aim was to get "control over our flights and we can't afford to let them interfere with the airlift."

(In Moscow, an informed source said at least one of the three western envoys had received instructions on the next step in the four-power talks on the Berlin crisis. The American, British and French envoys have been standing by awaiting instructions from their governments. The four military governors of Germany reached a pause in their negotiations after seven meetings.

(After receipt of the instructions the three western diplomats in Moscow met informally. It was not known immediately whether they would seek another meeting with Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov or Prime Minister Stalin).

Mine Union Shop Clause Challenged

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP) — Government attorneys today asked the National Labor Relations Board to order John L. Lewis to drop the union shop clause from his contract with the steel industry's "captive" coal mines.

The NLRB attorneys made the demand in a brief filed with NLRB Trial Examiner William R. Ringer in a case which challenges the union shop proviso as illegal.

The Taft-Hartley labor law permits a union shop only after workers agree to one in an NLRB election. Lewis obtained his, after a week-long mine shutdown in July, without such an election.

Ringer received briefs today from both the NLRB attorneys and counsel for Lewis' United Mine Workers Union, summing up arguments made at hearings several months ago.

The NLRB brief said Lewis succeeded in getting the allegedly illegal union shop arrangement in "complete and obdurate disregard of the law of the land." Under a union shop all employes must be union members.

The union's brief contended the Taft-Hartley law's union shop election requirement is unconstitutional. It also pointed out the hearings lacked any evidence that the disputed union shop clause fostered any discrimination against non-union miners.

Benes' Body Interred

USSR Agreeable To Big 4 Parley In Paris Monday

LONDON, Saturday, Sept. 11 (AP)—The Soviet news agency Tass said today Russia "will not object" to a four-power conference in Paris Monday on the fate of Italy's prewar colonies. The agency's dispatch quoted a Soviet note addressed to the United States.

The Russian note, distributed by Tass in London, accused the United States of a "quite arbitrary and inadmissible" act in suggesting in a note to Russia September 8 that a session of the four foreign ministers themselves would not be of great use in the Soviets had no new proposals to put forward.

The Russian note charged that the United States note of September 8 was "not in conformity with the peace treaty with Italy" in implying that Secretary of State Marshall would not attend the foreign ministers' conference, but would send one of his representatives.

Ferdinand, First King Of Modern Bulgaria, Dies

Abdicated At Close Of First World War

COBURG, Germany, Sept. 10 (AP) —Ferdinand, first king of modern independent Bulgaria, died peacefully today at the age of 87 after a lifetime as the object of assassination plots and revolutions.

Czar Ferdinand, as he was known during his reign, long had had a superstition he would die on Friday the 13th. He died on Friday, but not the 13th.

He cast his lot with Germany in the First World War and abdicated in 1918 when the Allies defeated Bulgaria and the Central Powers. The act saved the dynasty for his son, King Boris, who died during the Second World War. The grandson, Boy King Simeon II, went into exile in Egypt in 1946 when Bulgaria voted to become a republic after the Second World War.

Born In Coburg

A German prince, son of Prince Augustus of Saxe-Coburg and Princess Clementine of Bourbon-Orleans, Ferdinand was born in Coburg on February 26, 1861 without any prospect of becoming a sovereign

His ambitious mother educated him for the role of a ruler, however, and when Prince Alexander, of Bulgaria, had to flee because of Balkan intrigues he was offered the throne.

Turkey and most of the European powers refused to recognize him for nearly five years. He finally won Russian recognition by having Boris baptised in the Greek Orthodox Church.

In 1908 he proclaimed Bulgarian independence from Turkey and himself King Ferdinand the First.

Kept Pistol In Desk

In fending off attempts of Macedonian plotters, revolutionists, foreign coalitions and would-be assassins to remove him from the throne he found it advisable to keep a pistol in his desk for his personal protection.

After his abdication in 1918 he returned to his palace at Coburg where he devoted himself to his hobbies of collecting minerals, rare birds, tropical fauna and gems. He donated many of his collections to the Coburg Museum.

Calif. Imports Gasoline

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 10 (AP)— California today reversed the normal movement of oil refinery products and started importing gasoline as the seven-day refinery strike began to pinch western motorists.

United America Won't Retreat, Senator Says

Top GOP Spokesman On Foreign Affairs Confers With Dewey

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (INS) — Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, America's top Republican spokesman on foreign affairs, served flat warning "on the world" tonight that the United States will not retreat anywhere in is battle for freedom and justice.

Vandenberg's momentous statement was issued as he emerged from a special conference in New York City with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and the Republican presidential nominee's adviser on foreign affairs, John Foster Dulles.

The Michigan Senator, who said his statement was issued with the full approval of Dewey and Dulles, made it unmistakable that he was referring to the East-West crisis in Berlin as well as to international developments elsewhere.

Though addressed to "the world," Vandenberg's statement in the view of newsmen present, was directed primarily to the Soviet Union.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee chairman said at the outset of his written statement that he, Dewey and Dulles in their one-hour conference had "canvassed the foreign policy problems which confront our country, including the situation in Berlin."

Then, emphasizing to newsmen the need for the most careful quotation, Vandenberg stated:

"Regardless of political differences at home, we are serving notice on the world that America is united to protect American rights everywhere, and to firmness in the right to seek justice for ourselves and the other peace-loving peoples of the world."

"It is of the greatest importance that other nations which do not understand our political system should not be misled by our political campaign at home.

"We shall be in eternal controversy regarding many phases of foreign policy.

"But we shall not be in controversy over the basic fact that America is united against aggression and against the foes of freedom.

"I am happy to say that Gov. Dewye and I have discussed these matters many times, and one of the reasons I confidently look forward to his election as President of the United States is the fact that he deeply believes in this concept and will stoutly maintain it over the years that lie ahead."

Vandenberg pointed out to newsmen that his statement, and tonight's conference, were timed with the fact in mind that Dulles departs next Friday for Paris and his "critical responsibilities" at the United Nations General Assembly. The Assembly convenes on Tuesday, September 21.

Neither Dewey nor Dulles had anything to add to the Vandenberg statement. Both left the clear impression with newsmen that they agreed fully with it.

In his encounter with reporters who had been awaiting the end of the Dewey-Dulles-Vandenberg conference, the Michigan Senator, by the gravity of his "off the record" remarks, emphasized that he considered his statement of major import.

He issued the statement after earlier refusing to permit himself to be quoted in ad lib style. The subject, he told the newsmen, was too important to permit casual comment.

Flexible $15,000,000,000 Limit On Military Budget

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP)—The Truman administration formally disclosed today it has set a flexible $15,000,000,000 limit on next fiscal year's military budget. This is about $3,000,000,000 more than was set aside for this year.

Budget Director James E. Webb emphasized that the proposed outlay will be subject to "adjustment" later if changes in the international situation warrent such action.

Divorcee Will Marry Father Of Her Quads

PARIS, Sept. 10 (AP) — Louise-Marise Dore said today she is going to marry the father of her quadruplets as soon as she leaves the hospital. Mrs. Dore, a divorcee, gave birth to two boys and two girls last Saturday in a Versailles hospital.

Following the publicity resulting from their birth it was revealed that Mrs. Dore had never gone to the altar with Juan Leal, 46, with whom she had been living since 1943.

"We plan to get married as soon as possible," Leau told reporters today.

"Axis Sally" Is Indicted On Charges Of Treason

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP) — An American-born woman accused of broadcasting a series of "Home, Sweet Home" programs over the German radio to American troops in Europe was indicted for treason today.

Known to wartime GIs as "Axis Sally," the defendant is Mildred Elizabeth Gillars, 47, a native of Portland, Me.

A federal grand jury charged that Miss Gillars aided Hitler's Nazi German government in its psychological warfare against the United States not only to weaken the resistance of Americans at home but also "for the purpose of x x x weakening the fighting powers and the morale" of United States troops overseas.

The 10-count indictment further accused her of violating her allegiance to the country of her birth and said she "knowingly, intentionally, willfully, unlawfully, feloniously and treasonably did adhere to the enemies of the United States."

Besides her "Home, Sweet Home" broadcasts, allegedly designed to whet the homesickness of American soldiers serving in North Africa, Italy and on the western front in Europe, the grand jury said Miss Gillars helped produce a radio drama entitled "Vision of Invasion."

The indictment said the "invasion" broadcasts, beamed from Berlin to United States troops abroad and to Americans at home, occurred between January 1 and June 6, 1944. June 6 was D-Day in the Normandy invasion.

The jury's charge disclosed no details of the "invasion" drama, but United States war correspondents who heard the broadcasts in England recalled that they conjured a picture of inevitable and frightful lalamity which would strike Allied invasion forces.

According to the indictment, Miss Gillars broadcast for the Germans from December 11, 1941, through May 8, 1945.

Three Ex-ATC Officers Indicted In Bond Case

BOSTON, Sept. 10 (AP) — Three former Air Transport Command officers and a Boston broker were indicted today by a federal grand jury for an alleged international airborne traffic in American bonds valued at $500,000 which were stolen by the Nazis in Holland.

United States Attorney William T. McCarthy, who described the bonds as "gilt-edged blue chip" securities of American industries, said they were stolen during German occupation of the Netherlands.

Later they appeared in the French black market at prices much below their actual worth. Trading in the bonds, McCarthy said, had been forbidden by the Treasury Department.

The indictments charge the three fliers, Edward R. Ashton, Enfield, Conn., and Seymour Lerner and Gerald A. Rowland, both of Brooklyn, N. Y., flew the bonds to this country and that Wendell M. Weston, the broker, disposed of many of them.

In purchasing and transporting the securities, according to the indictments, the fliers violated the Trading with the Enemy Act.

McCarthy said the government believed the trio conducted "a considerable business" in securities, banking some of the proceeds in Swiss banks to have American dollars available for additional purchases. The alleged violations occurred between November 1946 and July 1947.

Weston, whose home is in Weston, conducts a stock brokerage as Weston and Company, in the Boston financial district. He is 48 and a veteran of the First World War.

McCarthy said that soon after cessation of hostilities in Europe, a "black market" in American securities started operating.

Fascist Nations Get No Aid Funds

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP) — Foreign Aid Administrator Paul G. Hoffman said today he would halt recovery aid to any European country that should set up a Fascist government.

And almost in the same breath he said Gen. Charles DeGaulle, making a new bid for power in France, "most certainly" is not a Fascist.

Hoffman, drawn into political waters by questions at a news conference, said the Economic Co-operation Administration must, under the law, shut off recovery help to any country which goes Communist.

"If a Fascist counterpart of a Communist government took office anywhere I would take exactly the same position," he stated.

Reporters promptly swung the questioning to France where DeGaulle is attacked by Communists as a Fascist.

Hoffman said the question of France going either Communist or Fascist is "academic." There is not "the remotest possibility" of a Fascist regime emerging he said.

One prime item of controversy — the dispute at Paris on how big a share of ECA's $5,000,000,000 first annual recovery program should go to the British-American bizone of Germany — meanwhile was apparently settled.

The 16 Marshall Plan nations comprising the Organization for European Economic Co-operation (OEEC) decided that the bizone of Germany should get $364,000,000, plus an additional $50,000,000 which was taken from funds allocated to Britain, France, Italy, Holland and Sweden.

The extra $50,000,000 is one half of the additional funds Gen. Lucius D. Clay, United States commander of the bizone, had been insisting upon.

NEW DELHI, Sept. 10 (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru said today that Indian troops will march into the princely state of Hyderabad regardless of opposition.

"We do not expect an easy march to Secuderabad (75 miles inside Hyderabad)", Nehru told newsmen. Asked what India would do if the Nizam of the big state opposes the entry of troops, he said:

"We will march."

India has asked the Nizam to faciliate posting of Indian troops at Secunderabad "to restore order." No answer has been received.

N.Y. Truckers' 'Divide And Conquer' Strategy Meets Immediate Success

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—New York' striking truckers today modified their wage demands and adopted a "divide and conquer" strategy which met immediate success in signing up some trucking firms.

Local 807, of the AFL Teamsters Union, announced two hours after the membership had approved the new policy that about 60 firms employing 1,400 men had met the terms and signed contracts.

Included were the A. & P and Bohack food chains which announced deliveries were being resumed to their stores at once. These were the two big retail food chains most affected by the strike.

The employers labor committee, representing many trucking firms, announced that it "rejects flatly the reported new demands."

But the union leadership remained confident it would be able to sign up the concerns one at a time until all had capitulated, as happened two years ago. Bohack was the first to break away from the employers' front at that time.

The union program was adopted at an afternoon mass meeting of 4,000 of the approximately 9,400 strikes. It calls for a 17½ cents an hour wage increase and welfare benefits including payments in case of sickness, accident or death.

Prisoner Is Officially Released--By Mistake

CHICAGO, Sept. 10 (AP) — Cook County officials today were pondering the case of a prisoner who traded identities with his cellmate and walked out of the House of Correction officially freed—by mistake.

John Connors, 30, had until December 13 to serve on a six-month sentence for contributing to the delinquency of a minor. His cellmate, Harold Johnson, 30, was to have been released August 23 after serving a 17-day sentence for vagrancy.

But on August 23 it apparently was Connors—using the name of Johnson—who was released, Superintendent William J. Milota said today.

Milota said Connors apparently was released while posing as Johnson and answered all the clerk's questions satisfactorily.

Today Milota obtained warrants from Judge Charles S. Dougherty, of Felony Court, charging Johnson with aiding a prisoner to escape and Connors with conspiracy. Johnson will appear in court Tuesday on the charge.

Connors? They'll have to find him first.

Six Indicted For Failure To Pay Md. Income Tax

BALTIMORE, Sept. 10, (AP)—Six Baltimoreans were indicted by the grand jury today for failing to pay their state income tax.

The action was part of the State Comptroller's campaign to tighten up enforcement of Maryland income tax laws. The state has had only a meager system of checking up on returns and going after violators.

The comptroller has been putting out warnings every week or so that his agents are going down the list "A" to "Z".

The names of those indicted today were not made public, in line with a court policy that they may not be listed until they are in custody or have been put under bail.

Truman's Name

National Committee chairman, in an address in Chicago yesterday said a sound currency can not be restored in the United States until "subversives whose first allegiance is to the Kremlin" are weeded out of Washington.

Scott promised that the Republicans would see that they were ousted.

In a joint statement, Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt) and Rep. Clifford R. Hope (R-Kas) blasted at what they called the President's "campaign of fear."

They said it has now been carried to the nation's farmers by Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan who, the two Republicans charged, has declared the Republican Party "aims to destroy the farmers' price supports."

Man Whose Name Once Hated In Ireland Dies

LONDON, Sept. 10 (AP)—Viscount Greenwood of Holzourne whose name was once one of the most hated in Ireland, died today. He was 78.

He held the post during the stormy days of the "Black and Tans," the police force sent into Southern Ireland to combat the underground Irish Republican Army.

Soviet Plan Rejected

VIENNA, Austria, Sept. 10 (AP)—Russia urged today that concentration camps be established for all Nazis, war criminals and war profiteers whose cases are not disposed of in three months by Austrian courts.

The Soviet proposal was rejected in the Allied council by France, Britain and the United States.

States' Rights Democrats Launch Maryland Drive

BALTIMORE, Sept. 10. (AP)—The States' Rights Democrats tonight launched a petition campaign to get the names of their presidential and vice-presidential candidates on the Maryland ballot.

The petition forms were circulated at a campaign get-together at the party's Baltimore headquarters, and leaders of the organization planned a system for circulating them throughout the state.

State law provides that 2,000 voters must sign the petitions before the party can appear on the ballot —but there is another hitch.

The law also says the petitions must be filed with the Secretary of State before the primaries in the spring preceding general elections.

The States' Rights Democrats plan a court test of that section of the law, since the Secretary of State is expected to turn down their plea for a place on the ballot.

Fascist Nations Get No Aid Funds

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP) — Foreign Aid Administrator Paul G. Hoffman said today he would halt recovery aid to any European country that should set up a Fascist government.

And almost in the same breath he said Gen. Charles DeGaulle, making a new bid for power in France, "most certainly" is not a Fascist.

Hoffman, drawn into political waters by questions at a news conference, said the Economic Cooperation Administration must, under the law, shut off recovery help to any country which goes Communist.

"If a Fascist counterpart of a Communist government took office anywhere I would take exactly the same position," he stated.

Reporters promptly swung the questioning to France where DeGaulle is attacked by Communists as a Fascist.

Hoffman said the question of France going either Communist or Fascist is "academic." There is not "the remotest possibility" of a Fascist regime emerging he said.

One prime item of controversy — the dispute at Paris on how big a share of ECA's $5,000,000,000 first annual recovery program should go to the British-American bizone of Germany — meanwhile was apparently settled.

The 16 Marshall Plan nations comprising the Organization for European Economic Co-operation (OEEC) decided that the bizone of Germany should get $364,000,000, plus an additional $50,000,000 which was taken from funds allocated to Britain, France, Italy, Holland and Sweden.

The extra $50,000,000 is one half of the additional funds Gen. Lucius D. Clay, United States commander of the bizone, had been insisting upon.

Open Headquarters

BALTIMORE, Sept. 10 (AP) — Maryland Democrats opened their campaign headquarters today with a luncheon at the Hotel Emerson, where campaign offices will be maintained until roomier facilities become available.

The campaign is headed by former United States Sen. George L. Radcliffe.

EX-RULER DEAD—Ferdinand, modern Bulgaria's first king who abdicated in 1918, died yesterday at the age of 87 at his palace at Coburg, Germany.

Indian Troops To March Into State Of Hyderabad

NEW DELHI, Sept. 10 (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru said today that Indian troops will march into the princely state of Hyderabad regardless of opposition.

"We do not expect an easy march to Secuderabad (75 miles inside Hyderabad)", Nehru told newsmen. Asked what India would do if the Nizam of the big state opposes the entry of troops, he said:

"We will march."

India has asked the Nizam to faciliate posting of Indian troops at Secunderabad "to restore order." No answer has been received.

Actress Gloria De Haven Sues Payne For Divorce

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 10 (AP)—Actress Gloria De Haven, 23, sued Actor John Payne, 35, for divorce today.

The couple, married here December 28, 1944, has been separated several times.

The actress' complaint said the final parting occurred Sept. 2. She alleged cruelty and asked for division of community property and custody of their children, Kathleen, two, and Thomas, six months.

N.Y. Truckers' 'Divide And Conquer' Strategy Meets Immediate Success

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP)—New York' striking truckers today modified their wage demands and adopted a "divide and conquer" strategy which met immediate success in signing up some trucking firms.

Local 807, of the AFL Teamsters Union, announced two hours after the membership had approved the new policy that about 60 firms employing 1,400 men had met the terms and signed contracts.

Included were the A. & P and Bohack food chains which announced deliveries were being resumed to their stores at once. These were the two big retail food chains most affected by the strike.

The employers labor committee, representing many trucking firms, announced that it "rejects flatly the reported new demands."

But the union leadership remained confident it would be able to sign up the concerns one at a time until all had capitulated, as happened two years ago. Bohack was the first to break away from the employers' front at that time.

The union program was adopted at an afternoon mass meeting of 4,000 of the approximately 9,400 strikes. It calls for a 17½ cents an hour wage increase and welfare benefits including payments in case of sickness, accident or death.

The new wage hike figure represented a cut from the 25 cents an hour which the union originally had fixed as its "rock bottom" demand.

Prisoner Is Officially Released--By Mistake

CHICAGO, Sept. 10 (AP) — Cook County officials today were pondering the case of a prisoner who traded identities with his cellmate and walked out of the House of Correction officially freed—by mistake.

John Connors, 30, had until December 13 to serve on a six-month sentence for contributing to the delinquency of a minor. His cellmate, Harold Johnson, 30, was to have been released August 23 after serving a 17-day sentence for vagrancy.

But on August 23 it apparently was Connors—using the name of Johnson—who was released, Superintendent William J. Milota said today.

Milota said Connors apparently was released while posing as Johnson and answered all the clerk's questions satisfactorily.

Today Milota obtained warrants from Judge Charles S. Dougherty, of Felony Court, charging Johnson with aiding a prisoner to escape and Connors with conspiracy. Johnson will appear in court Tuesday on the charge.

Connors? They'll have to find him first.

Six Indicted For Failure To Pay Md. Income Tax

BALTIMORE, Sept. 10, (AP)—Six Baltimoreans were indicted by the grand jury today for failing to pay their state income tax.

The action was part of the State Comptroller's campaign to tighten up enforcement of Maryland income tax laws. The state has had only a meager system of checking up on returns and going after violators.

The comptroller has been putting out warnings every week or so that his agents are going down the list "A" to "Z".

The names of those indicted today were not made public, in line with a court policy that they may not be listed until they are in custody or have been put under bail.

Truman's Name

National Committee chairman, in an address in Chicago yesterday said a sound currency can not be restored in the United States until "subversives whose first allegiance is to the Kremlin" are weeded out of Washington.

Scott promised that the Republicans would see that they were ousted.

In a joint statement, Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt) and Rep. Clifford R. Hope (R-Kas) blasted at what they called the President's "campaign of fear."

They said it has now been carried to the nation's farmers by Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan who, the two Republicans charged, has declared the Republican Party "aims to destroy the farmers' price supports."

Man Whose Name Once Hated In Ireland Dies

LONDON, Sept. 10 (AP)—Viscount Greenwood of Holzourne whose name was once one of the most hated in Ireland, died today. He was 78.

As Sir Hamar Greenwood, he was Cabinet chief secretary for Ireland during the anti-British disorders of the early 1920s.

He held the post during the stormy days of the "Black and Tans," the police force sent into Southern Ireland to combat the underground Irish Republican Army.

Holy Land Clash

JERUSALEM, Sept. 10 (AP)—Ten armed Arab irregulars were killed and a quantity of arms captured early today in a clash between Stern group fighters and an Arab unit. The Arabs had infiltrated into Beth Iksa, a village about six miles northeast of Jerusalem, a Stern group source said.

Head Of West Penn Power Company Dies

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 10 (AP)—Harry Luzerne Mitchell, president of the West Penn Power Company and the affiliated West Penn Railways Company, died tonight after an illness of only a few days.

Mitchell, a native of Warren, Pa., rose from office boy to president of the power company which serves many Western Pennsylvania counties. He joined the firm in 1902 and was named president of the railways company in 1927 and of the power company in 1929.

Soviet Plan Rejected

VIENNA, Austria, Sept. 10 (AP)—Russia urged today that concentration camps be established for all Nazis, war criminals and war profiteers whose cases are not disposed of in three months by Austrian courts.

The Soviet proposal was rejected in the Allied council by France, Britain and the United States.

States' Rights Democrats Launch Maryland Drive

BALTIMORE, Sept. 10. (AP)—The States' Rights Democrats tonight launched a petition campaign to get the names of their presidential and vice-presidential candidates on the Maryland ballot.

The petition forms were circulated at a campaign get-together at the party's Baltimore headquarters, and leaders of the organization planned a system for circulating them throughout the state.

State law provides that 2,000 voters must sign the petitions before the party can appear on the ballot —but there is another hitch.

The law also says the petitions must be filed with the Secretary of State before the primaries in the spring preceding general elections.

The States' Rights Democrats plan a court test of that section of the law, since the Secretary of State is expected to turn down their plea for a place on the ballot.

Just Between Us

Maybe She Has Changed Her Mind; Women Do That

By NANCY MOTTRAM

Nancy Mottram

(Q) "Dear Nancy: During the last semester in high school, I began dating a girl steadily. We had wonderful times together, but after a couple of months, she didn't seem too happy to go out with me, although she still accepted when I asked for a date. She didn't explain her attitude, and finally she refused to see me again. She went away this summer, and I was very surprised to get a card from her the other day. She told me she was having a good time, and that she'd see me in September. I still like her, but I can't figure this out. When she gets home, should I call her? I'd like to see her, but I don't know if I should give it another try. Can you help me?"

(A) She might have thought better of the whole thing and want to pick up your friendship again. It might turn out the same way as before, but she could have realized that she made a mistake and would like to make amends. Try calling her when she gets back, and just chat for a few minutes. You'll have a good idea of the situation then, and if it looks good, wait a day or so, and ask her out.

(Q) "Dear Nancy: We are two teen-age girls, and both of us have the same problem. We have been going out with two fellows for quite some time, and they're very independent. If we have a date for a certain night, and they're unable to keep it, they don't bother to call and let us know. We're just left waiting and wondering. We've had enough of it, and we want to know what to do the next time they call."

(A) If they can be that independent, why not try a bit of the same technique? When they call after another example of "forgetting all about it," tell them you're sorry, but you spent the evening of your last date waiting, and you don't care to do it again. You would be wiser to start seeing lads who don't look upon a date so lightly, and perhaps the two in question will take the hint and decide to turn over a new leaf.

(Q) "Dear Nancy: I've taken a girl girl out not more than three times since we met a couple of weeks ago, and now she acts as though she owns me. I took another girl out last weekend, and when this gal found out, she really gave me what for. I was stunned, because I'd never given her any reason to think she was more to me than a pleasant date, but according to her, I'm practically going steady. She hasn't changed her opinion either, according to our hometown grapevine, and I want to know how to let her know that I think she's nice, but that's all!"

(A) When you see her, keep it to a friendly "Hi," and continue walking. Don't call or ask her out again, or it will add to your troubles. One of the best ways might be to date other girls. That way, the whole thing will become plain, and when she sees she was mistaken all along the line, you'll have no more difficulties with a too-close-for-comfort ball and chain.

If you have a school, family or friend problem, Nancy can help you. Letters will be answered in this column.

(A) When you see her, keep it to a friendly "Hi," and continue walking. Don't call or ask her out again, or it will add to your troubles. One of the best ways might be to date other girls. That way, the whole thing will become plain, and when she sees she was mistaken all along the line, you'll have no more difficulties with a too-close-for-comfort ball and chain.

Stassen Places Campaign On The Level It Deserves

In replying to President Truman's Labor Day address, former Governor Harold Stassen laid down the yardstick by which the presidential campaign should be waged, and in doing so lifted the battle for ballots to such a high level as to leave the Truman supporters wishing their candidate had never spoken.

It was most fitting that Governor Dewey should have asked Mr. Stassen to open officially his campaign. The former Governor is not running for any office, but his remarkable labor record in the state of Minnesota which matches that of Mr. Dewey's in New York state made him an ideal man to answer Mr. Truman's amazing harangue at Detroit.

At that "command performance" in Cadillac Square, the President not only tried to make American labor the tail of his political kite. He portrayed labor, in Stassen's words, as a "separate, distinct class in our society." Worse, he attempted to set class against class for his own political advantage and he used fear as his political weapon.

Mr. Stassen seized upon Truman's admonishing of labor, farmer and liberal to vote "right" to stress the duty of a President to work in the interest of all classes and not for special interests. He drove home that point when he said:

"The people of our country want a united America making progress toward better living, better housing and better health. They want a united America of the world. They want a united America striving earnestly and wisely for world peace. They want a united America with opportunities and freedom for young men and women in the years ahead. They know that a successful united America requires cooperation between labor and business and agriculture and every walk of life."

It is with such high ideal of purpose that the Republican Party comes before the electorate in its bid for support. There can hardly be any doubt as to what decision the American people will voice at the polls in November when they compare those aims with Mr. Truman's because his could only result in a quarreling and divided country.

It was Mr. Stassen's way of pointing up the fact that Mr. Truman stands for class conflict. The President attempted to stir within labor hatred for his opponent by telling it that the Republicans brought about high prices. But Mr. Stassen did not let him get away with it. He cited events since the end of the war which placed the blame for inflation where it belongs—in the lap of Mr. Truman. It was, as the former Governor pointed out, Mr. Truman who, on his own initiative, released wartime controls and set of the inflationary spiral.

Mr. Stassen did not gloss over the Taft-Hartley Act. He admitted the law is still imperfect but he defended it as one of the best pieces of legislation from the standpoint of labor, to be passed. He gave sufficient reasons for this opinion when he cited that the law had cut strikes and work stoppages from 116,000,000 man-days and more than a $1,000,000,000 lost in 1946 to about one-third that number. It is readily understood why a vast majority of labor is, day by day, coming to realize the benefits it has brought.

The Stassen reply amounted to an indictment of Harry Truman as President, and it was not too strong for the occasion. The Truman speech was a demagogue's utterance. He represented labor as the sole cause of the American standard of living. Now, Harold Stassen is not the man to underrate the value of labor—whether in factories, offices, or on farms—to the American economy. But neither does he ignore "the role management, the genius of invention and the wise use of capital." All these factors, working together as a team, are essential to prosperity in the United States and to the preservation of our national security. What we need, as Stassen says, is teamwork, "not class war and hatred between the people of America."

The Truman picture of assorted disasters that will engulf labor and the American people if he is not chosen in November was, of course, the product of his own fears. He is using the tactics of desperation. But no politician has the right to make his own fears an excuse for stirring up anxiety and dissension among the people.

Difference between White Russians and Red Russians is little understood by the average person, unless the former are the ones which wash.

New Deal Revealed As Hotbed Of Jealousies

If Franklin Roosevelt did nothing else for the men and women who served under him, he apparently left them a lucrative career as authors and columnists. No President, certainly, has ever spawned such a motely array of writers who show no compunction in airing the inside story of what went on under their chief.

The gossip that has been put down on paper about the New Deal is amazing. From Harry Hopkins and Henry Morgenthau, from Harold Ickes and Frances Perkins, the nation has been treated to millions of words of reminiscences, recriminations, finger-pointing and condemnation—always aimed at someone else, of course.

The inevitable conclusion is that the New Deal, as revealed, was a hotbed of jealousies, intrigues, fights and squabbles. The marvel of it all is that Mr. Roosevelt kept his official family in hand. The ordinary reader, however, cannot help but recall the truism that the organization that pulls together is the one that accomplishes the best work.

Both party platforms are enthusiastic about nationalism for Israel but fail to come out for its revival in the United States.

Russ Claims Shakespeare

The Russians now claim Shakespeare. His "spiritual home," according to a Moscow weekly, "is Russia." It goes on to explain that the Soviet Union is the only country where Shakespeare is appreciated by all sections of the population.

Probably true—probably there is great appreciation in Russia of Shakespeare's words: "Let me have men about me that are fat; sleek-headed and such as sleep o'nights." Yon Cassius, it will be recalled, had a lean and hungry look—"He thinks too much; such men are dangerous."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Burning Tongue

The tongue is the same old indicator that it was in Grandma's time and, when burning (glossodynia) is present, it still means that something is wrong. Nowadays, smoking is common; hence the number of individuals encountering the symptom is greater. But even if we exclude this habit from the list of causes ,the physician is left with a large variety of possible origins to investigate.

Dr. Van Dellen

The usual treatment of this condition consists of vitamins, iron, or liver because deficiencies along this line are frequent culprits. There are some who suffer periodically from anemia and whenever the tongue begins to burn, they know that the blood count needs attention. These persons are more often right than wrong because it is well known that this organ is affected by anemia. During the period of distress it may assume a beefy, red appearance and is so tender that swallowing is often difficult. Liver injections help when pernicious anemia is present, whereas iron tablets have a miraculous effect on the type in which this mineral is lacking.

The symptom may appear also when the quota of vitamin B, especially niacin and robiflavin, is inadequate. On the other hand, if a deficiency is not responsible, a barrel of vitamins will not help. This cause is likely to be found when the meals are lopsided due either to a fad or special diets because of an intestinal disturbance. Furthermore, other signs of nutritional deficiencies often accompany burning tongue, which will help the physician to make the diagnosis.

Abnormalities in the mouth likewise play a role. Local inflammation of irritation from dentures or carious, irregular teeth should always be considered, This source is not difficult to discover and, when corrected, discomfort disappears quickly. The tongue symptom maw occur after removal of molars which left a faulty "bite." This produces pressure on certain nerves leading to pain in the tongue. Some authorities believe that an electrogalvanic current can be set up between two dissimilar fillings, resulting in burning. Irritating food and drink are sometimes responsible. If no other abnormalities can be found, nervousness is always a possiblity. There are some who complain of this trouble only during periods of unrest or anxiety or during the menopause. When they are calm, and the sailing is smooth, the symptom is likely to disappear. Occasionally the nerves leading to the tongue are affected by a stroke, creating distress which appears to originate in the tongue.

Waldman and Pelner believe that a burning sensation of the tongue can be traced now and then to an insufficiency or thickening of the salivary secretion. Apparently the salivary glands are lazy and in some patients, the saliva is so tenacious that when the mouth is opened, the secretion looks like thin strings stretching from the soft palate to the tongue. By stimulating the glands with neostigmin or prostigmin, burning and dryness are diminished and may vanish entirely.

A liberal amount of fluids is suggested and smoking should be discontinued. The tobacco habit may not be entirely at fault but it often aggravates existing conditions and as such is contraindicated .

FLUID IN BRAIN

Mrs. T. O. writes: Is there any cure for hydrocephalus?

Reply

Must depends on the type but in general treatment has been unsatisfactory. Various surgical methods have been devised to drain the accumulated fluid as well as to relieve the obstruction but all have proved futile. Occasionally the process ceases spontaneously and the victim may live for years, although the child may go through life with an abnormally large head and impaired mentality.

DILATED VEINS

J. A. M. writes: What causes the blood vessels in back of the knees to break? They look like tiny red and blue threads. Can they be erased by treatment?

Reply

These are called "spider veins" and the cause is obscure. Treatment is rarely indicated except for cosmetic reasons.

SURGERY IN HEMORRHOIDS

P. A. writes: Is it true that certain types of hemorrhoids are inoperable?

Reply

Not that I know of, unless you refer to hemorrhoids that are so insignificant that they are not worth the bother or cases in which inflammation or other disease processes co-exist, taking precedence over hemorrhoidectomy.

INWARD SCARS

M. A. B. writes. What is the cause of adhesions of the bowel?

Reply

Inflammation or trauma associated with previous surgery are the usual origins. Adhesions are scars which can develop on the body just as on the surface.

PROSTATE TROUBLE

L. J. P. writes: What information can you give me on the prostate gland such as symptoms?

Reply

The prostate, like other organs, is susceptible to infection, cancer, etc. In addition, in older men it is prone to enlarge, which produces urinary obstruction because of its location. In this respect it differs from enlargement of a gland on the surface, which does little more than create a bump underneath the skin.

U. S. Chiefs of Staff Consider War Strategy In Case Berlin Explodes; Admiral Leahy Urges U. S. Withdrawal From Germany; Others Oppose

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10—Due to the dynamite-laden Berlin crisis, the U.S. joint Chiefs of Staff have held some of their most crucial meetings recently. It is no secret that it is their duty to discuss every eventuality facing the United States—including war. And as the Russians have become cockier in Berlin, American faces have become graver around the joint chiefs' conference table.

The American public, which probably does not fully realize how serious the Berlin situation is, has a right to know that at a recent meeting, Gen. Omar Bradley, Army Chief of Staff, outlined U. S. policy in case of war. He tabulated what the Russians already know — that we have about 300,000 troops in Europe, though only 30,000 combat troops. And, counting heavily on French and British support, General Bradley figured that the Allies could fall back on the Rhine.

Adm. William D. Leahy, President Truman's own Chief of Staff, interrupted at this point with a skeptical question, which illustrates how U. S. military chiefs follow the democratic principles of rough-and-tumble debate.

"How long did you say we could hold the Rhine, Omar?" he asked.

General Bradley said he didn't want to make any promises, but he believed we could hold the Rhine for some time — long enough to bring up reinforcements.

French Would Retreat

Admiral Leahy continued skeptical. The Russians, he pointed out, had 40 divisions in Germany or about 600,000 men. He doubted that we could hold the Rhine for more than ten days.

"The French will start for home," added Leahy, who once served as Ambassador to Vichy, "and they won't stop until they get to the Pyrenees, where they'll start an anti-Franco revolution.

"You've got three or four good bridges across the Rhine," Admiral Leahy continued, "and the French will keep them open to get their mistresses across."

Leahy did not exactly say so, but the insinuation was that this would give the Russians time to take the Bridges.

The Admiral concluded by warning that the United States couldn't hold the Rhine; in fact, couldn't hold more than Spain and perhaps Turkey.

One of his Army colleagues suggested that Leahy was echoing the Navy's point of view.

"And it's not such a bad point of view," countered the venerable sea dog, who once served as Commander of the U. S. Fleet and as Chief of Naval Operations. He went on to point out that the United States had to keep its line of communications open through the Mediterranean. "You're the ones who are always talking about that," he reminded the Army.

One of the air generals present then suggested that, given sixty days and the atomic bomb, the Air Forces could stop the Red Army dead in its tracks. Leahy disagreed. He argued that the United States should have left Berlin long ago.

U. S. Should Leave Berlin

"If war breaks now," he maintained, "we'll be sending raw, untrained National Guardsmen just as we did to the Pacific in the early days after Pearl Harbor. The only thing is to get out of Berlin and out of Germany. If we did that, I think, from the many talks I've had with Stalin, we'd have no more trouble.

"They call me a reactionary and an isolationist," Leahy concluded, "but I believe in being realistic."

General Bradley asked how democratic forces could have won the Italian elections if U. S. Army had been withdrawn from Europe. Others pointed out that the exit of U. S. troops from either Berlin or Germany would be just the victory the Kremlin was pushing for, that it would have a disastrous psychological effect on the European democracies, would be comparable to the appeasement Chamberlain gave Hitler at Munich.

After this free and open American type of debate, it was the unanimous opinion of everyone else at the joint Chiefs of Staffs conference that there would be no appeasement of Russia. There would be no withdrawal from Germany.

"Democrats-For-Dewey"

Barren-beaned Bill Bullitt, once an avid Roosevelt fan, is now busy organizing "Democrats-for-Dewey" clubs. Bullitt is the man who persuaded FDR to appoint him special assistant to Secretary of State Hull—without Hull's knowledge, and who also persuaded Roosevelt to recognize Russia.

Later, Bullitt became Ambassador to Russia, then to France.

Today, the millionaire Philadelphian is just as hot for Dewey as he once was for Roosevelt.

"I suppose," remarked a friend, "that you won't be averse to serving your country under the Republicans if Dewey is elected?"

"It's the duty of every man to serve his country," replied Bullitt. "If I am called, I shall make the sacrifice."

"I suggest," advised the cynical friend, "that you also contribute $50,000 to the Dewey campaign."

Merry-Go-Round

Lovely Peggy Palmer, widow of Woodrow Wilson's Attorney-General A. Mitchell Palmer, got a generous job offer from the Republican National Committee. A lifelong Democrat, she turned it down, later went round to offer her services to the Democratic National Committee. The grateful Democrats kept Mrs. Palmer waiting in an anteroom all morning, never let her see anyone. . . . It was the Los Angeles Daily News which goaded U. S. District Attorney James Carter into prosecuting housing frauds against veterans. It took some hot editorials to do it. . . . Ham Moses, Arkansas utility tycoon and the man who gave away nylon stockings to influence utility voting in Congress is out to defeat forthright young Congressman Jim Trimble of Berryville, Ark. Moses, a Democrat, is masking part of his operations behind Arkansas' GOP leader, Wallace Townsend, whom Moses put on the Arkansas Power and Light Company payroll. Besetting sin of Congressman Trimble is that he worked for rural electrification, flood control and public power projects.

No Body Of Democrats Want Truman; Support To Be Weak

By MARK SULLIVAN

In the first week of the campaign we have had a major opening speech by President Truman, a major reply on behalf of the Republicans by ex-Governor Stassen. Mr. Stassen really met and answered the President's speech, important issues in the campaign were joined head-on.

One issue, raised especially by Mr. Truman's rather raucous emphasis on it, is the Taft-Hartley labor law. Included in that and above that is the largest issue of the campaign, a condition which, local or latent, is in the minds of an immense number of voters. This, the ineptness of Mr. Truman as President. One glaring phase of his ineptness is the failure to get along with Congress, or even with his own party within that body. As Mr. Stassen compactly put it: "He failed when he had a Democratic Congress to work with, he failed when he had a Republican Congress to work with." (Mr. Truman had a Democratic Congress from his taking office in April, 1945 until January, 1947).

Truman Denounces Own Party

When Mr. Truman this week fiercely denounced the Taft-Hartley Act he was denouncing a law which, as Mr. Stassen put it, "was passed over his veto by a two-thirds majority of the members of Congress and by a majority vote of the members of his own party in Congress." In effect, Mr. Truman this week was saying and asking the public to believe and elect him in the belief that "two-thirds of Congress was wrong, and I was and am right; a majority of my own party in Congress was wrong, and I was and am right."

When Mr. Truman became President he had a party majority of 15 in the Senate, 51 in the House. For many reasons this Democratic majority was peculiarly willing to cooperate with Mr. Truman. They had sat with him in Congress and liked him. They welcomed him as a change from President Roosevelt, toward whom the Democratic Congress had become restive and refused to pass measures he had proposed, even war measures. Democrats of the type that control Congress were responsible for Mr. Truman becoming President. Less than a year before, in the National Convention of 1944, they had brought about the nomination of him for Vice President. In this they rejected Mr. Henry A. Wallace, then Vice President and fighting for renomination, whom Roosevelt had forced upon the party four years preceding. Toward a Congress controlled by this type of Democrat Mr. Truman practiced in personal relations geniality and fraternity. But as President he sent to Congress more than a score of measures which the Democratic majority in that body regarded as a proposed continuation and extension of the Roosevelt New Deal. Almost without exception, Congress rejected the measures or ignored them. This offense to the Democrats in Congress was increased by Mr. Truman's keeping Mr. Wallace in the cabinet post to which Roosevelt had appointed him after he had been rejected for the Vice Presidential nomination.

Faced With Own Ineptness

All this took place while Mr. Truman had a Democratic Congress. And it is the result of this ineptness as President and as party leader that confronts Mr. Truman today. Mr. Wallace, whom Mr. Truman was obliged to dismiss from his cabinet after some year and a half, has led the extreme left wing New Dealers into a new party of which he is the Presidential candidate and which is expected to poll five million votes. Whatever the number, every vote for Mr. Wallace will be a vote subtracted from Mr. Truman—It is difficult to imagine that any Wallace voter would otherwise have voted for Mr. Dewey. Anod when now Mr. Truman tries to, as ex-Governor Stassen says, "set class against class" he makes votes for Mr. Wallace rather than for himself. In that sort of competition Mr. Wallace can out-demagogue him.

Meanwhile the conservative wing of the party is not loyal to Mr. Truman. A group of them have a candidate of their own, Governor Thurmond of the States' Rights Party. And of the Democrats who remain Democrats, practically all the important leaders tried strenuously to prevent Mr. Truman's nomination. Publicly and conspicuously and repeatedly they declared he could not be elected.

In the net, there is no body of Democrats, important either in number or power, who has consistently wanted Mr. Truman to be their party's candidate for President. So far as they support him against their wish, they do so with no spirit of either loyalty or zeal or hope.

Analyst's Announcement Of No More Presidential Polls

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 10—When Elmo Roper, the distinguished analyst of public opinion, announced this week that he isn't going to take any more polls because governor Dewey "is almost as good as elected," he pointed out also that "liberals" may believe that by so stating he is contributing his mite to President Truman's defeat and he doesn't intend anything of the sort.

But, it will also be argued by Republicans, such a statement by Mr. Roper may cause a large number of Republicans to stay away from the polls on the ground that it isn't necessary to vote.

The truth is that public-opinion polls have a variety of influences on the electorate. Lots of people like to vote for a winner. But there are signs that many a public-opinion poll in a given state has led to redoubled effort and sometimes to closer contests than otherwise might have been the case.

Qualifies His Prediction

Mr. Roper qualifies his prediction somewhat by saying that he is assuming that no serious change in the international situation—such as war, perhaps—may develop between now and the election or that Governor Dewey will not make any serious mistakes.

Public-opinion polls are for the most part still a puzzle to many people. There are many who say they never heard of any of their friends or neighbors who had been interviewed. They misunderstand the nature of modern polling or sampling methods. The present-day poll doesn't go in for quantity or for a canvass of the same group but applies to different groups. By knowing the percentage of people in income groups—the government publishes this—and by knowing the population data and eligible voters and other factors, a small sample is taken that has again and again proved correct.

The same technique has been used successfully in market analyses to determine the acceptability of products or resistances to price or other characteristics before nationwide selling campaigns are undertaken. The small sample invariably tells what the larger sample would tell if carried on to higher and higher numbers.

So when Mr. Roper says that, conditions being the same two months hence, the electorate will not change its mind, he really means that the margin or lead of Governor Dewey is so substantial already that nothing short of an international crisis or gross error on the Republican side would change the outcome. This is in line with previous experience. In fact, many public-opinion tests have indicated that the voters make up their minds long before election and that campaigns on the whole change relatively few votes.

But, with the Roper announcement, what will the campaign managers do? Certainly there are no signs that the President or his associates are going to relax their efforts. The Republican management has announced that the party workers must guard against overconfidence.

Wallace Role In Polls

Basically the reason why the public-opinion polls at the moment indicate an easy Dewey victory is that Henry Wallace is subtracting in pivotal states enough votes to make it easy for the Republicans to win. It is somewhat analogous to 1912 when a third party under Theodore Roosevelt split the Republican vote, and the Democratic candidate, Woodrow Wilson, had a large electoral vote because he got a plurality in nearly every important state.

The effect of the polls and the Roper announcement may be to bring about a last-minute effort to draw the followers of Henry Wallace back into the party. It is apparent that Wallace himself is not yet willing to talk about withdrawal, though the "left wing" and liberal elements in the Democratic Party are working day and night to persuade the Wallace followers, especially in labor unions, not to throw away their votes and help the Republicans by supporting Wallace. They are saying, in effect, that "a vote for Wallace is a vote for Dewey."

It is difficult to see what the Wallace followers can gain. If Dewey is elected and becomes a one-term President due to economic conditions, would any political leader inside the Democartic Party, smarting under the defeat handed the party in 1948 by Wallace, be likely to aid Wallace in getting the Democratic nomination in 1952? To ask the question is to answer it. Hence pressure to bring the Wallace followers in line may be one of the unintended but realistic sequels to Mr. Roper's announcement.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

A Raw Deal

Robert C. Alexander, Assistant Chief of the Visa Division of the State Department, has been and is, throughout tough years, when official policy favored Communists, a loyal, patriotic and efficient public official. He has been an American without pink or red trimmings.

Called before a committee of Congress, he told the truth, namely that a large number of Russian and satellite agents come into the United States through the United Nations, which enjoys special privileges. Mr. Alexander knows whereof he speaks because watching those who enter the United States is his business. He has been noting the abuse of American hospitality during all the years that alien agents were given sanctuary here—some of whom, at long last, and during a campaign when Communism is an issue, are being deported to their mother country.

Incidentally, he knows, because of his official position, that when Soviet Russia declines to accept a deportee he remains in this country, benefitting from our free and prosperous institutions while hating this country and working against it. I once suggested that such persons be placed on an island in the Bering Sea where they could look at Siberia and worship the Kremlin from afar ..without any of the amenities and benefits of American life.

As soon as Mr. Alexander testified, the officials of the United Nations let out a howl and those Americans who bootlick everything alien and un-American complained. Mr. Victor Hoo, a Chinese official of the United Nations, spoke about the difficult conditions under which they work here, which astonished me because Mr. Hoo would have had to work under much more difficult conditions in Nanking where he has not resided for many years during the past quarter of a century. Life in the United States, as a UN official, is exceedingly pleasant for Mr. Hoo as it is for all UN folks who come from countries where conditions are tough.

So Mr. Marshall, our Secretary of State, let down one of his subordinates, who could not have testified at all without his chief's consent, saying some such stupidity as that Mr. Alexander is like a policeman and therefore is exaggerating wrongdoing, which silliness has nothing to do with anything except that it let Marshall out. That is an old army game and has no uses in civilian life.

Then they appointed a three-man citizens committee which quickly exonerated the United Nations, producing no evidence of any kind except its own obiter dicta that what Mr. Alexander said is not so. It is suggested that their whitewash must have been arranged by James H. Rowe, Jr., the only careerist of the three men who were permitted to see government files that had been refused to an official Congressional Committee by Mr. Truman.

Then, as is now becoming usual, the whole business explodes in all their highly polished faces. Mr. Jacob Lomakin is kicked out of the United States and even before he leaves our shores he intimates that he will soon be back, and on board ship he says that he expects to be back in the United States. How does he expect to come to this country? Why, naturally, through the United Nations.

In other words, because the United Nations is situated in the United States, this country has lost control of its gates. Anybody can get in if he can manage to be appointed to a United Nations job, to one of its Commissions, to one of its delegations, or even as a correspondent assigned to it.

If that its not an opening for spies, for subversive agents, for enemies of this country, then nothing can be. And what is more, many of these people enjoy extraterritorial privileges, which means that they can live in the United States without being subject to our laws.

If Jacob Lomakin comes back to the United States via the United Nations and our government does nothing about it, the citizens ought to rise up and dump that kidnaper ex-Soviet Consul-General in the Atlantic Ocean. Let him swim to his Motherland.

And if Secretary of State Marshall, to win some applause from the Leftists, tries to crucify a fine American official, such as Robert C. Alexander is, the Congress ought to act and quick.

Stassen Places Campaign On The Level It Deserves

In replying to President Truman's Labor Day address, former Governor Harold Stassen laid down the yardstick by which the presidential campaign should be waged, and in doing so lifted the battle for ballots to such a high level as to leave the Truman supporters wishing their candidate had never spoken.

It was most fitting that Governor Dewey should have asked Mr. Stassen to open officially his campaign. The former Governor is not running for any office, but his remarkable labor record in the state of Minnesota which matches that of Mr. Dewey's in New York state made him an ideal man to answer Mr. Truman's amazing harangue at Detroit.

At that "command performance" in Cadillac Square, the President not only tried to make American labor the tail of his political kite. He portrayed labor, in Stassen's words, as a "separate, distinct class in our society." Worse, he attempted to set class against class for his own political advantage and he used fear as his political weapon.

Mr. Stassen seized upon Truman's admonishing of labor, farmer and liberal to vote "right" to stress the duty of a President to work in the interest of all classes and not for special interests. He drove home that point when he said:

"The people of our country want a united America making progress toward better living, better housing and better health. They want a united America of the world. They want a united America striving earnestly and wisely for world peace. They want a united America with opportunities and freedom for young men and women in the years ahead. They know that a successful united America requires cooperation between labor and business and agriculture and every walk of life."

It is with such high ideal of purpose that the Republican Party comes before the electorate in its bid for support. There can hardly be any doubt as to what decision the American people will voice at the polls in November when they compare those aims with Mr. Truman's because his could only result in a quarreling and divided country.

It was Mr. Stassen's way of pointing up the fact that Mr. Truman stands for class conflict. The President attempted to stir within labor hatred for his opponent by telling it that the Republicans brought about high prices. But Mr. Stassen did not let him get away with it. He cited events since the end of the war which placed the blame for inflation where it belongs—in the lap of Mr. Truman. It was, as the former Governor pointed out, Mr. Truman who, on his own initiative, released wartime controls and set of the inflationary spiral.

Mr. Stassen did not gloss over the Taft-Hartley Act. He admitted the law is still imperfect but he defended it as one of the best pieces of legislation from the standpoint of labor, to be passed. He gave sufficient reasons for this opinion when he cited that the law had cut strikes and work stoppages from 116,000,000 man-days and more than a $1,000,000,000 lost in 1946 to about one-third that number. It is readily understood why a vast majority of labor is, day by day, coming to realize the benefits it has brought.

The Stassen reply amounted to an indictment of Harry Truman as President, and it was not too strong for the occasion. The Truman speech was a demagogue's utterance. He represented labor as the sole cause of the American standard of living. Now, Harold Stassen is not the man to underrate the value of labor—whether in factories, offices, or on farms—to the American economy. But neither does he ignore "the role management, the genius of invention and the wise use of capital." All these factors, working together as a team, are essential to prosperity in the United States and to the preservation of our national security. What we need, as Stassen says, is teamwork, "not class war and hatred between the people of America."

The Truman picture of assorted disasters that will engulf labor and the American people if he is not chosen in November was, of course, the product of his own fears. He is using the tactics of desperation. But no politician has the right to make his own fears an excuse for stirring up anxiety and dissension among the people.

Difference between White Russians and Red Russians is little understood by the average person, unless the former are the ones which wash.

New Deal Revealed As Hotbed Of Jealousies

If Franklin Roosevelt did nothing else for the men and women who served under him, he apparently left them a lucrative career as authors and columnists. No President, certainly, has ever spawned such a motely array of writers who show no compunction in airing the inside story of what went on under their chief.

The gossip that has been put down on paper about the New Deal is amazing. From Harry Hopkins and Henry Morgenthau, from Harold Ickes and Frances Perkins, the nation has been treated to millions of words of reminiscences, recriminations, finger-pointing and condemnation—always aimed at someone else, of course.

The inevitable conclusion is that the New Deal, as revealed, was a hotbed of jealousies, intrigues, fights and squabbles. The marvel of it all is that Mr. Roosevelt kept his official family in hand. The ordinary reader, however, cannot help but recall the truism that the organization that pulls together is the one that accomplishes the best work.

Both party platforms are enthusiastic about nationalism for Israel but fail to come out for its revival in the United States.

Russ Claims Shakespeare

The Russians now claim Shakespeare. His "spiritual home," according to a Moscow weekly, "is Russia." It goes on to explain that the Soviet Union is the only country where Shakespeare is appreciated by all sections of the population.

Probably true—probably there is great appreciation in Russia of Shakespeare's words: "Let me have men about me that are fat; sleek-headed and such as sleep o'nights." Yon Cassius, it will be recalled, had a lean and hungry look—"He thinks too much; such men are dangerous."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Burning Tongue

The tongue is the same old indicator that it was in Grandma's time and, when burning (glossodynia) is present, it still means that something is wrong. Nowadays, smoking is common; hence the number of individuals encountering the symptom is greater. But even if we exclude this habit from the list of causes ,the physician is left with a large variety of possible origins to investigate.

Dr. Van Dellen

The usual treatment of this condition consists of vitamins, iron, or liver because deficiencies along this line are frequent culprits. There are some who suffer periodically from anemia and whenever the tongue begins to burn, they know that the blood count needs attention. These persons are more often right than wrong because it is well known that this organ is affected by anemia. During the period of distress it may assume a beefy, red appearance and is so tender that swallowing is often difficult. Liver injections help when pernicious anemia is present, whereas iron tablets have a miraculous effect on the type in which this mineral is lacking.

The symptom may appear also when the quota of vitamin B, especially niacin and robiflavin, is inadequate. On the other hand, if a deficiency is not responsible, a barrel of vitamins will not help. This cause is likely to be found when the meals are lopsided due either to a fad or special diets because of an intestinal disturbance. Furthermore, other signs of nutritional deficiencies often accompany burning tongue, which will help the physician to make the diagnosis.

Abnormalities in the mouth likewise play a role. Local inflammation of irritation from dentures or carious, irregular teeth should always be considered, This source is not difficult to discover and, when corrected, discomfort disappears quickly. The tongue symptom maw occur after removal of molars which left a faulty "bite." This produces pressure on certain nerves leading to pain in the tongue. Some authorities believe that an electrogalvanic current can be set up between two dissimilar fillings, resulting in burning. Irritating food and drink are sometimes responsible. If no other abnormalities can be found, nervousness is always a possiblity. There are some who complain of this trouble only during periods of unrest or anxiety or during the menopause. When they are calm, and the sailing is smooth, the symptom is likely to disappear. Occasionally the nerves leading to the tongue are affected by a stroke, creating distress which appears to originate in the tongue.

Waldman and Pelner believe that a burning sensation of the tongue can be traced now and then to an insufficiency or thickening of the salivary secretion. Apparently the salivary glands are lazy and in some patients, the saliva is so tenacious that when the mouth is opened, the secretion looks like thin strings stretching from the soft palate to the tongue. By stimulating the glands with neostigmin or prostigmin, burning and dryness are diminished and may vanish entirely.

A liberal amount of fluids is suggested and smoking should be discontinued. The tobacco habit may not be entirely at fault but it often aggravates existing conditions and as such is contraindicated .

FLUID IN BRAIN

Mrs. T. O. writes: Is there any cure for hydrocephalus?

Reply

Must depends on the type but in general treatment has been unsatisfactory. Various surgical methods have been devised to drain the accumulated fluid as well as to relieve the obstruction but all have proved futile. Occasionally the process ceases spontaneously and the victim may live for years, although the child may go through life with an abnormally large head and impaired mentality.

DILATED VEINS

J. A. M. writes: What causes the blood vessels in back of the knees to break? They look like tiny red and blue threads. Can they be erased by treatment?

Reply

These are called "spider veins" and the cause is obscure. Treatment is rarely indicated except for cosmetic reasons.

SURGERY IN HEMORRHOIDS

P. A. writes: Is it true that certain types of hemorrhoids are inoperable?

Reply

Not that I know of, unless you refer to hemorrhoids that are so insignificant that they are not worth the bother or cases in which inflammation or other disease processes co-exist, taking precedence over hemorrhoidectomy.

INWARD SCARS

M. A. B. writes. What is the cause of adhesions of the bowel?

Reply

Inflammation or trauma associated with previous surgery are the usual origins. Adhesions are scars which can develop on the body just as on the surface.

PROSTATE TROUBLE

L. J. P. writes: What information can you give me on the prostate gland such as symptoms?

Reply

The prostate, like other organs, is susceptible to infection, cancer, etc. In addition, in older men it is prone to enlarge, which produces urinary obstruction because of its location. In this respect it differs from enlargement of a gland on the surface, which does little more than create a bump underneath the skin.

U. S. Chiefs of Staff Consider War Strategy In Case Berlin Explodes; Admiral Leahy Urges U. S. Withdrawal From Germany; Others Oppose

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10—Due to the dynamite-laden Berlin crisis, the U.S. joint Chiefs of Staff have held some of their most crucial meetings recently. It is no secret that it is their duty to discuss every eventuality facing the United States—including war. And as the Russians have become cockier in Berlin, American faces have become graver around the joint chiefs' conference table.

The American public, which probably does not fully realize how serious the Berlin situation is, has a right to know that at a recent meeting, Gen. Omar Bradley, Army Chief of Staff, outlined U. S. policy in case of war. He tabulated what the Russians already know — that we have about 300,000 troops in Europe, though only 30,000 combat troops. And, counting heavily on French and British support, General Bradley figured that the Allies could fall back on the Rhine.

Adm. William D. Leahy, President Truman's own Chief of Staff, interrupted at this point with a skeptical question, which illustrates how U. S. military chiefs follow the democratic principles of rough-and-tumble debate.

"How long did you say we could hold the Rhine, Omar?" he asked.

General Bradley said he didn't want to make any promises, but he believed we could hold the Rhine for some time — long enough to bring up reinforcements.

French Would Retreat

Admiral Leahy continued skeptical. The Russians, he pointed out, had 40 divisions in Germany or about 600,000 men. He doubted that we could hold the Rhine for more than ten days.

"The French will start for home," added Leahy, who once served as Ambassador to Vichy, "and they won't stop until they get to the Pyrenees, where they'll start an anti-Franco revolution.

"You've got three or four good bridges across the Rhine," Admiral Leahy continued, "and the French will keep them open to get their mistresses across."

Leahy did not exactly say so, but the insinuation was that this would give the Russians time to take the Bridges.

The Admiral concluded by warning that the United States couldn't hold the Rhine; in fact, couldn't hold more than Spain and perhaps Turkey.

One of his Army colleagues suggested that Leahy was echoing the Navy's point of view.

"And it's not such a bad point of view," countered the venerable sea dog, who once served as Commander of the U. S. Fleet and as Chief of Naval Operations. He went on to point out that the United States had to keep its line of communications open through the Mediterranean. "You're the ones who are always talking about that," he reminded the Army.

One of the air generals present then suggested that, given sixty days and the atomic bomb, the Air Forces could stop the Red Army dead in its tracks. Leahy disagreed. He argued that the United States should have left Berlin long ago.

U. S. Should Leave Berlin

"If war breaks now," he maintained, "we'll be sending raw, untrained National Guardsmen just as we did to the Pacific in the early days after Pearl Harbor. The only thing is to get out of Berlin and out of Germany. If we did that, I think, from the many talks I've had with Stalin, we'd have no more trouble.

"They call me a reactionary and an isolationist," Leahy concluded, "but I believe in being realistic."

General Bradley asked how democratic forces could have won the Italian elections if U. S. Army had been withdrawn from Europe. Others pointed out that the exit of U. S. troops from either Berlin or Germany would be just the victory the Kremlin was pushing for, that it would have a disastrous psychological effect on the European democracies, would be comparable to the appeasement Chamberlain gave Hitler at Munich.

After this free and open American type of debate, it was the unanimous opinion of everyone else at the joint Chiefs of Staffs conference that there would be no appeasement of Russia. There would be no withdrawal from Germany.

"Democrats-For-Dewey"

Barren-beaned Bill Bullitt, once an avid Roosevelt fan, is now busy organizing "Democrats-for-Dewey" clubs. Bullitt is the man who persuaded FDR to appoint him special assistant to Secretary of State Hull—without Hull's knowledge, and who also persuaded Roosevelt to recognize Russia.

Later, Bullitt became Ambassador to Russia, then to France.

Today, the millionaire Philadelphian is just as hot for Dewey as he once was for Roosevelt.

"I suppose," remarked a friend, "that you won't be averse to serving your country under the Republicans if Dewey is elected?"

"It's the duty of every man to serve his country," replied Bullitt. "If I am called, I shall make the sacrifice."

"I suggest," advised the cynical friend, "that you also contribute $50,000 to the Dewey campaign."

Merry-Go-Round

Lovely Peggy Palmer, widow of Woodrow Wilson's Attorney-General A. Mitchell Palmer, got a generous job offer from the Republican National Committee. A lifelong Democrat, she turned it down, later went round to offer her services to the Democratic National Committee. The grateful Democrats kept Mrs. Palmer waiting in an anteroom all morning, never let her see anyone. . . . It was the Los Angeles Daily News which goaded U. S. District Attorney James Carter into prosecuting housing frauds against veterans. It took some hot editorials to do it. . . . Ham Moses, Arkansas utility tycoon and the man who gave away nylon stockings to influence utility voting in Congress is out to defeat forthright young Congressman Jim Trimble of Berryville, Ark. Moses, a Democrat, is masking part of his operations behind Arkansas' GOP leader, Wallace Townsend, whom Moses put on the Arkansas Power and Light Company payroll. Besetting sin of Congressman Trimble is that he worked for rural electrification, flood control and public power projects.

No Body Of Democrats Want Truman; Support To Be Weak

By MARK SULLIVAN

In the first week of the campaign we have had a major opening speech by President Truman, a major reply on behalf of the Republicans by ex-Governor Stassen. Mr. Stassen really met and answered the President's speech, important issues in the campaign were joined head-on.

One issue, raised especially by Mr. Truman's rather raucous emphasis on it, is the Taft-Hartley labor law. Included in that and above that is the largest issue of the campaign, a condition which, local or latent, is in the minus of an immense number of voters. This, the ineptness of Mr. Truman as President. One glaring phase of his ineptness is the failure to get along with Congress, or even with his own party within that body. As Mr. Stassen compactly put it: "He failed when he had a Democratic Congress to work with, he failed when he had a Republican Congress to work with." (Mr. Truman had a Democratic Congress from his taking office in April, 1945 until January, 1947).

Truman Denounces Own Party

When Mr. Truman this week fiercely denounced the Taft-Hartley Act he was denouncing a law which, as Mr. Stassen put it, "was passed over his veto by a two-thirds majority of the members of Congress and by a majority vote of the members of his own party in Congress." In effect, Mr. Truman this week was saying and asking the public to believe and elect him in the belief that "two-thirds of Congress was wrong, and I was and am right; a majority of my own party in Congress was wrong, and I was and am right."

When Mr. Truman became President he had a party majority of 15 in the Senate, 51 in the House. For many reasons this Democratic majority was peculiarly willing to cooperate with Mr. Truman. They had sat with him in Congress and liked him. They welcomed him as a change from President Roosevelt, toward whom the Democratic Congress had become restive and refused to pass measures he had proposed, even war measures. Democrats of the type that control Congress were responsible for Mr. Truman becoming President. Less than a year before, in the National Convention of 1944, they had brought about the nomination of him for Vice President. In this they rejected Mr. Henry A. Wallace, then Vice President and fighting for renomination, whom Roosevelt had forced upon the party four years preceding. Toward a Congress controlled by this type of Democrat Mr. Truman practiced in personal relations geniality and fraternity. But as President he sent to Congress more than a score of measures which the Democratic majority in that body regarded as a proposed continuation and extension of the Roosevelt New Deal. Almost without exception, Congress rejected the measures or ignored them. This offense to the Democrats in Congress was increased by Mr. Truman's keeping Mr. Wallace in the cabinet post to which Roosevelt had appointed him after he had been rejected for the Vice Presidential nomination.

Faced With Own Ineptness

All this took place while Mr. Truman had a Democratic Congress. And it is the result of this ineptness as President and as party leader that confronts Mr. Truman today. Mr. Wallace, whom Mr. Truman was obliged to dismiss from his cabinet after some year and a half, has led the extreme left wing New Dealers into a new party of which he is the Presidential candidate and which is expected to poll five million votes. Whatever the number, every vote for Mr. Wallace will be a vote subtracted from Mr. Truman—It is difficult to imagine that any Wallace voter would otherwise have voted for Mr. Dewey. Anod when now Mr. Truman tries to, as ex-Governor Stassen says, "set class against class" he makes votes for Mr. Wallace rather than for himself. In that sort of competition Mr. Wallace can out-demagogue him.

Meanwhile the conservative wing of the party is not loyal to Mr. Truman. A group of them have a candidate of their own, Governor Thurmond of the States' Rights Party. And of the Democrats who remain Democrats, practically all the important leaders tried strenuously to prevent Mr. Truman's nomination. Publicly and conspicuously and repeatedly they declared he could not be elected.

In the net, there is no body of Democrats, important either in number or power, who has consistently wanted Mr. Truman to be their party's candidate for President. So far as they support him against their wish, they do so with no spirit of either loyalty or zeal or hope.

Analyst's Announcement Of No More Presidential Polls

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 10—When Elmo Roper, the distinguished analyst of public opinion, announced this week that he isn't going to take any more polls because governor Dewey "is almost as good as elected," he pointed out also that "liberals" may believe that by so stating he is contributing his mite to President Truman's defeat and he doesn't intend anything of the sort.

But, it will also be argued by Republicans, such a statement by Mr. Roper may cause a large number of Republicans to stay away from the polls on the ground that it isn't necessary to vote.

The truth is that public-opinion polls have a variety of influences on the electorate. Lots of people like to vote for a winner. But there are signs that many a public-opinion poll in a given state has led to redoubled effort and sometimes to closer contests than otherwise might have been the case.

Qualifies His Prediction

Mr. Roper qualifies his prediction somewhat by saying that he is assuming that no serious change in the international situation—such as war, perhaps—may develop between now and the election or that Governor Dewey will not make any serious mistakes.

Public-opinion polls are for the most part still a puzzle to many people. There are many who say they never heard of any of their friends or neighbors who had been interviewed. They misunderstand the nature of modern polling or sampling methods. The present-day poll doesn't go in for quantity or for a canvass of the same group but applies to different groups. By knowing the percentage of people in income groups—the government publishes this—and by knowing the population data and eligible voters and other factors, a small sample is taken that has again and again proved correct.

The same technique has been used successfully in market analyses to determine the acceptability of products or resistances to price or other characteristics before nationwide selling campaigns are undertaken. The small sample invariably tells what the larger sample would tell if carried on to higher and higher numbers.

So when Mr. Roper says that, conditions being the same two months hence, the electorate will not change its mind, he really means that the margin or lead of Governor Dewey is so substantial already that nothing short of an international crisis or gross error on the Republican side would change the outcome. This is in line with previous experience. In fact, many public-opinion tests have indicated that the voters make up their minds long before election and that campaigns on the whole change relatively few votes.

But, with the Roper announcement, what will the campaign managers do? Certainly there are no signs that the President or his associates are going to relax their efforts. The Republican management has announced that the party workers must guard against overconfidence.

Wallace Role In Polls

Basically the reason why the public-opinion polls at the moment indicate an easy Dewey victory is that Henry Wallace is subtracting in pivotal states enough votes to make it easy for the Republicans to win. It is somewhat analogous to 1912 when a third party under Theodore Roosevelt split the Republican vote, and the Democratic candidate, Woodrow Wilson, had a large electoral vote because he got a plurality in nearly every important state.

The effect of the polls and the Roper announcement may be to bring about a last-minute effort to draw the followers of Henry Wallace back into the party. It is apparent that Wallace himself is not yet willing to talk about withdrawal, though the "left wing" and liberal elements in the Democratic Party are working day and night to persuade the Wallace followers, especially in labor unions, not to throw away their votes and help the Republicans by supporting Wallace. They are saying, in effect, that "a vote for Wallace is a vote for Dewey."

It is difficult to see what the Wallace followers can gain. If Dewey is elected and becomes a one-term President due to economic conditions, would any political leader inside the Democartic Party, smarting under the defeat handed the party in 1948 by Wallace, be likely to aid Wallace in getting the Democratic nomination in 1952? To ask the question is to answer it. Hence pressure to bring the Wallace followers in line may be one of the unintended but realistic sequels to Mr. Roper's announcement.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

A Raw Deal

Robert C. Alexander, Assistant Chief of the Visa Division of the State Department, has been and is, throughout tough years, when official policy favored Communists, a loyal, patriotic and efficient public official. He has been an American without pink or red trimmings.

Called before a committee of Congress, he told the truth, namely that a large number of Russian and satellite agents come into the United States through the United Nations, which enjoys special privileges. Mr. Alexander knows whereof he speaks because watching those who enter the United States is his business. He has been noting the abuse of American hospitality during all the years that alien agents were given sanctuary here—some of whom, at long last, and during a campaign when Communism is an issue, are being deported to their mother country.

Incidentally, he knows, because of his official position, that when Soviet Russia declines to accept a deportee he remains in this country, benefitting from our free and prosperous institutions while hating this country and working against it. I once suggested that such persons be placed on an island in the Bering Sea where they could look at Siberia and worship the Kremlin from afar without any of the amenities and benefits of American life.

As soon as Mr. Alexander testified, the officials of the United Nations let out a howl and those Americans who bootlick everything alien and un-American complained. Mr. Victor Hoo, a Chinese official of the United Nations, spoke about the difficult conditions under which they work here, which astonished me because Mr. Hoo would have had to work under much more difficult conditions in Nanking where he has not resided for many years during the past quarter of a century. Life in the United States, as a UN official, is exceedingly pleasant for Mr. Hoo as it is for all UN folks who come from countries where conditions are tough.

So Mr. Marshall, our Secretary of State, let down one of his subordinates, who could not have testified at all without his chief's consent, saying some such stupidity as that Mr. Alexander is like a policeman and therefore is exaggerating wrongdoing, which silliness has nothing to do with anything except that it let Marshall out. That is an old army game and has no uses in civilian life.

Then they appointed a three-man citizens committee which quickly exonerated the United Nations, producing no evidence of any kind except its own obiter dicta that what Mr. Alexander said is not so. It is suggested that their whitewash must have been arranged by James H. Rowe, Jr., the only careerist of the three men who were permitted to see government files that had been refused to an official Congressional Committee by Mr. Truman.

Then, as is now becoming usual, the whole business explodes in all their highly polished faces. Mr. Jacob Lomakin is kicked out of the United States and even before he leaves our shores he intimates that he will soon be back, and on board ship he says that he expects to be back in the United States. How does he expect to come to this country? Why, naturally, through the United Nations.

In other words, because the United Nations is situated in the United States, this country has lost control of its gates. Anybody can get in if he can manage to be appointed to a United Nations job, to one of its Commissions, to one of its delegations, or even as a correspondent assigned to it.

If that its not an opening for spies, for subversive agents, for enemies of this country, then nothing can be. And what is more, many of these people enjoy extraterritorial privileges, which means that they can live in the United States without being subject to our laws.

If Jacob Lomakin comes back to the United States via the United Nations and our government does nothing about it, the citizens ought to rise up and dump that kidnaper ex-Soviet Consul-General in the Atlantic Ocean. Let him swim to his Motherland.

And if Secretary of State Marshall, to win some applause from the Leftists, tries to crucify a fine American official, such as Robert C. Alexander is, the Congress ought to act and quick.

Proof? I give you the case history of Mrs. Fishman and her no-good son, Joey, heart-tug by heart-tug . . . .

When I was knee-high to the Allen Street gutter, I used to buy my licorice whips and jawbreakers in a tiny candy store run by a Mrs. Fishman who was only a few years removed from a village in the Ukraine. There was also a Mr. Fishman, but I only remember him as a sad-faced little gent who stayed home and coughed a lot.

Somewhere around the time that Cautious Cal became our Chief Executive, life started kicking the candy-store lady around. One December day she gave birth to a son named Joey, and the following April, rode out to Brooklyn in a black carriage and watched them bury Mr. Fishman. And for the next 20 years, life never let up on her.

Joey, raised in the kill-or-cure incubator that is the East Side, grew up to be a no-good, and the residents of Allen Street seldom mentioned his name without adding, "Poor Mrs. Fishman." For years he divided his time regularly between the pool room and the police line-up, but I never once heard Mrs. Fishman run her son down. According to her, it was only a matter of time before he settled down and made something of himself.

One day a couple of years ago, I went back to the old neighborhood for a look-see and a listen-hear, and Sam Carmel, who has been carrying the Allen Street mail for 35 years, brought me up to date on Joey and his activities.

Sam is the kind of mailman you're supposed to find only in small towns. In addition to getting the mail through, he acts as family counsellor, information dispenser and all-around letter-writer. He speaks both Yiddish and Italian fluently, and many's the time I've seen him squat on a stoop and write a letter in one language while it was being dictated in another.

I met Sam as he was going into the walk-up tenement where Mrs. Fishman still lives. He had a long, brown envelope in his hand. "For your old friend," he explained.

"Is Joey writing her from Sing Sing?" I asked.

"Joey isn't writing from any place," said Sam. "He was killed in the war, and this is the check his mother gets every month from the Government."

"I'm not surprised to hear Joey's dead," I said, "but I always thought the blessed event would take place in a back alley."

"That's what we all thought," said Sam, "and it probably would have if it hadn't been for Mitch Riley."

It didn't take much coaxing to get the rest of the story from Sam. A couple of years before the war, Joey started seeing a lot of a nice kid named Mitch Riley. No one could understand what this Cohen-&-Kelly combine had in common but the fact is that the pair became inseparable, and it wasn't long before Mitch was having most of his meals in Mrs. Fishman's kitchen.

Mitch was an orphan, and in return for this bit of home life, he took it on himself to keep Joey out of trouble, and out of the $30 a week he made as a truckers' helper, he would usually make good whenever Joey heaved a brick through somebody's plate glass window or found something that hadn't been lost. Although she never said anything about it. It's my guess that Mrs. Fishman had an idea of what was going on, for she treated Mitch like another son, and space and finances permitting, would have adopted him.

When the war began, Mitch enlisted. Joey did everything he could to beat the draft, but it finally caught up with him, and the two buddies wound up in the same infantry outfit. When they went overseas, Mrs. Fishman got regular letters signed "Joe and Mitch," but according to Sam Carmel who translated the letters for the old lady, they were always in Mitch's handwriting.

Then one day Mrs. Fishman got an official letter from the Government—and with it, a long letter from Mitch telling how Joey had died a hero's death for a cause he'd believed in. Mitch said his pal had proved himself to be a son any mother would be proud to call her own, and according to Sam, it was the most touching letter he had ever translated.

When Mitch was discharged, he came to see Mrs. Fishman, bringing a pile of Joey's personal effects, a couple of medals and a Congressional citation for valor and heroism over and beyond the call of duty. Mrs. Fishman dried her eyes, had the document framed, and hung it over the parlor mantle. Then, when she found out that Mitch didn't have a place, to live, she insisted that he move in with her. Joey's bed was empty, and he had room for him at last.

When Sam told me the story, I said, "That's a nice finish, and Joey's mom must feel pretty good about her kid turning out so well after all."

"There's a little more to the story," said Sam. "The day after Mitch came back, Mrs. Fishman showed me the citation, and since then almost everybody on Allen Street has been up to see it. Most of the folks now can read and write English—it's not like the old days—but not a single person has ever thought it necessary to tell the old lady that the name on the scroll isn't Joseph Fishman but Mitchell Riley . . . ."

QUICK—GENTLE—KIND to your hands

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

NEW YORK, as anyone who lives west of the Kill van Kull will tell you, is a cold and unfriendly town. Its inhabitants don't know a starling from a starlet and, what's even worse, never borrow cups of sugar from each other.

Billy Rose

Well, the only sugar I've borrowed had pictures of Presidents on it, but I do know a mansized myth when I see one. And, in my book, the chestnut about New York being heartless is a myth that's as good as a mile, if not better.

Proof? I give you the case history of Mrs. Fishman and her no-good son, Joey, heart-tug by heart-tug . . . .

When I was knee-high to the Allen Street gutter, I used to buy my licorice whips and jawbreakers in a tiny candy store run by a Mrs. Fishman who was only a few years removed from a village in the Ukraine. There was also a Mr. Fishman, but I only remember him as a sad-faced little gent who stayed home and coughed a lot.

Somewhere around the time that Cautious Cal became our Chief Executive, life started kicking the candy-store lady around. One December day she gave birth to a son named Joey, and the following April, rode out to Brooklyn in a black carriage and watched them bury Mr. Fishman. And for the next 20 years, life never let up on her.

Joey, raised in the kill-or-cure incubator that is the East Side, grew up to be a no-good, and the residents of Allen Street seldom mentioned his name without adding, "Poor Mrs. Fishman." For years he divided his time regularly between the pool room and the police line-up, but I never once heard Mrs. Fishman run her son down. According to her, it was only a matter of time before he settled down and made something of himself.

One day a couple of years ago, I went back to the old neighborhood for a look-see and a listen-hear, and Sam Carmel, who has been carrying the Allen Street mail for 35 years, brought me up to date on Joey and his activities.

Sam is the kind of mailman you're supposed to find only in small towns. In addition to getting the mail through, he acts as family counsellor, information dispenser and all-around letter-writer. He speaks both Yiddish and Italian fluently, and many's the time I've seen him squat on a stoop and write a letter in one language while it was being dictated in another.

I met Sam as he was going into the walk-up tenement where Mrs. Fishman still lives. He had a long, brown envelope in his hand. "For your old friend," he explained.

"Is Joey writing her from Sing Sing?" I asked.

"Joey isn't writing from any place," said Sam. "He was killed in the war, and this is the check his mother gets every month from the Government."

"I'm not surprised to hear Joey's dead," I said, "but I always thought the blessed event would take place in a back alley."

"That's what we all thought," said Sam, "and it probably would have if it hadn't been for Mitch Riley."

It didn't take much coaxing to get the rest of the story from Sam. A couple of years before the war, Joey started seeing a lot of a nice kid named Mitch Riley. No one could understand what this Cohen-&-Kelly combine had in common but the fact is that the pair became inseparable, and it wasn't long before Mitch was having most of his meals in Mrs. Fishman's kitchen.

Mitch was an orphan, and in return for this bit of home life, he took it on himself to keep Joey out of trouble, and out of the $30 a week he made as a truckers' helper, he would usually make good whenever Joey heaved a brick through somebody's plate glass window or found something that hadn't been lost. Although she never said anything about it. It's my guess that Mrs. Fishman had an idea of what was going on, for she treated Mitch like another son, and space and finances permitting, would have adopted him.

When the war began, Mitch enlisted. Joey did everything he could to beat the draft, but it finally caught up with him, and the two buddies wound up in the same infantry outfit. When they went overseas, Mrs. Fishman got regular letters signed "Joe and Mitch," but according to Sam Carmel who translated the letters for the old lady, they were always in Mitch's handwriting.

Then one day Mrs. Fishman got an official letter from the Government—and with it, a long letter from Mitch telling how Joey had died a hero's death for a cause he'd believed in. Mitch said his pal had proved himself to be a son any mother would be proud to call her own, and according to Sam, it was the most touching letter he had ever translated.

When Mitch was discharged, he came to see Mrs. Fishman, bringing a pile of Joey's personal effects, a couple of medals and a Congressional citation for valor and heroism over and beyond the call of duty. Mrs. Fishman dried her eyes, had the document framed, and hung it over the parlor mantle. Then, when she found out that Mitch didn't have a place, to live, she insisted that he move in with her. Joey's bed was empty, and she had room for him at last.

When Sam told me the story, I said, "That's a nice finish, and Joey's mom must feel pretty good about her kid turning out so well after all."

"There's a little more to the story," said Sam. "The day after Mitch came back, Mrs. Fishman showed me the citation, and since then almost everybody on Allen Street has been up to see it. Most of the folks now can read and write English—it's not like the old days—but not a single person has ever thought it necessary to tell the old lady that the name on the scroll isn't Joseph Fishman but Mitchell Riley . . . ."

The double ring, candlelight ceremony was solemnized by Rev. Charles E. Shaw in Park Place Methodist Church. Mrs. Guy Mallow, Frostburg, was the matron of honor and Miss Norma Lea Davis and Miss June Alday were the bridesmaids. C. Arthur Lancaster, brother of the bride, served as Mr. Alday's best man and Roger Lancaster, cousin of the bride, and James Robinette, Jr., were the ushers.

White gladioli and candelabra of lighted tapers were used in the decorations of the church. Miss Mary Lou Gross sang "Because" and "O Promise Me," accompanied by Mrs. William Ludman. Ralph Martin played the traditional wedding processional from the opera Lohengrin and Mendelssohn's recessional.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a white satin gown, fashioned with a low neckline, wide bertha, long pointed sleeves, fitted bodice buttoned down the front, and a full skirt with medium train. Her three-quarter length French illusion veil was held by a tiara of seed pearls. A single string of pearls was her only ornament. She carried a white Bible with white rosebuds and orchid marker and satin streamers.

Her attendants' gowns were duplicates of hers. They all wore shoulder length veiling headdress to match their frocks and taffeta gloves. They all carried old fashioned nosegays of corresponding colors. Mrs. Mallow wore pastel yellow taffeta, Miss Davis pastel pink and Miss Alday pastel blue.

Mrs. Lancaster chose a Navy blue silk dress for her daughter's wedding. With it she wore gray accessories and a corsage of red roses. Mrs. Alday wore a taupe satin dress with green accessories and had a corsage of red roses.

The bride is a graduate of Allegany High School, class of 1945, where she was a member of the Spanish Club and Choral Club, and a graduate of Memorial Hospital School of Nursing. She has been doing private duty nursing at the hospital.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Allegany High School, class of 1940, where he was active in sports. Arthur Lancaster, Mrs. Lester Smith and Mrs. Harold Lancaster assisted in serving.

The Most Important People on Earth

Boys and girls with a great heritage and a glorious future! They're the most important people on earth . . . for they still have time to accomplish so many things we left undone.

We have given them our love and all the material blessings our means would allow. And we have given them America . .

But one thing more we must provide, if they are to live up to the opportunities they face. We must give them a vital religious faith. We must give it to them in larger measure than we have possessed it ourselves.

Religious Education is a task for our churches. But the foundation of religious interest must be laid in the home. Sincere parents, setting an example of Christian worship and life, can lay the surest foundation for the Church's character-building program for our boys and girls.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

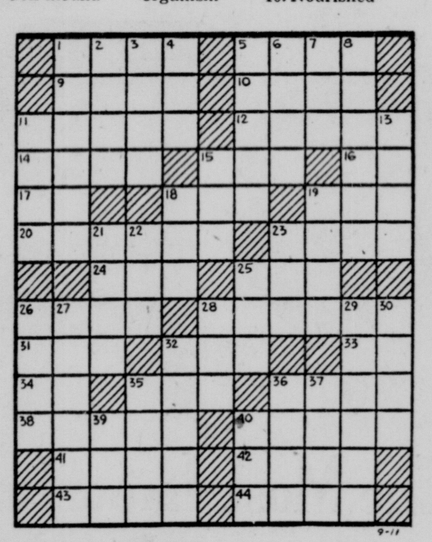
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

S E Q Z E V K E V S E O W M M W L T N H S A W M S K A Q Z E V N A O F A E Y Q W Z F M — U W X K A N W A T.

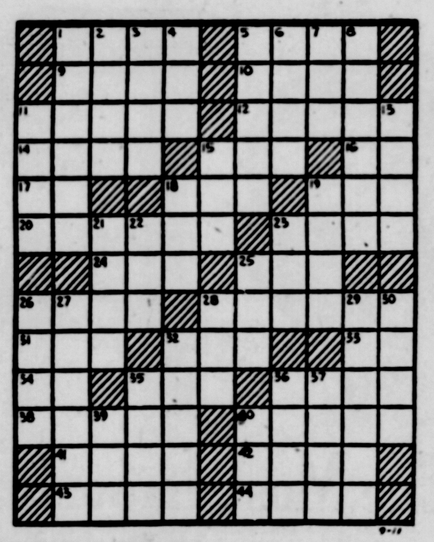
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Pep Whips DeMarco In New York Scrap

Featherweight Champ Suffers Cut Over Eye

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP) — Featherweight Champion Willie Pep of Hartford, Conn., used all his superior boxing skill tonight to whip rough house Paddy DeMarco of Brooklyn by a unanimous decision in a non-title 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

Giving away 5¼ pounds to his rugged opponent, Pep survived a severe cut over his left eye in the ninth round to win going away, to the delight of a crowd of 9,819 which paid $29,869. Pep weighed 128¼ to 133½ for DeMarco.

Referee Arthur Donovan had 5-3 for Pep with two even; Judge Joe Agnello voted Pep 8-2 and Judge Charley Rosen had it 6-3 with one even. The Associated Press card found for the stylish champ 8-2.

Bustling from his corner like the young bull that he is, DeMarco started after Pep at the opening bell, but soon found himself on the receiving end of a free boxing lesson.

New Heavy Champ To Be Recognized When Louis Quits

Topic Is On Agenda When NBA Convenes

By ED CORRIGAN

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 10 (AP) — Notwithstanding sundry rumors to the contrary, President Abe Greene of the National Boxing Association said today no new heavyweight champion will be declared until Joe Louis retires officially.

That puts the damper on any hopes of matching the winners of the Jimmy Bivins-Ezzard Charles and Jersey Joe Walcott-Gus Lesnevich fights and calling it a title contest. Bivins and Charles tangle in Washington Monday, and Walcott is slated to meet Lesnevich in Jersey City, Sept. 21.

NBA Convenes Monday

Greene, however, did leave the door open. He said that the heavyweight muddle probably would be the main topic on the agenda when the NBA convenes for its annual meeting for three days starting Monday in Philadelphia.

"Obviously, the winners of the two fights would be considered the outstanding fighters in the heavyweight division," Greene said, "but that's not news. Who else is there?"

Greene said that Louis would be the guest at the NBA's dinner Tuesday night, and that he expected some definite word to be forthcoming from the champion at the time.

"We hope to have the whole thing straightened out by then," Greene commented. "However, until we hear from Louis one way or the other we certainly can and will not declare another man the heavyweight champion."

100 Delegates To Attend

Concerning the convention, he said that close to 100 delegates from every NBA state in the country plus Cuba and Hawaii will be present for the meeting. The only states which will not be represented officially are New York and Massachusetts.

"We will have an unofficial observer on hand from Massachusetts," he said, "and we expect that state to join after the next session of the legislaure when funds probably will be appropriated for the merger."

He would not comment on what, if any, steps would be taken to effect a "truce" with the New York State Athletic Commission, which is not a member of the NBA.

In the past, Greene continually has expressed a desire to come to an agreement with the New York group.

The vanguard of the convention will arrive in Philadelphia on Sunday, and will watch Walcott work out in his Grenloch, N. J., camp.

Foxcatcher 'Chase Will Be Run Today

Ten Expected To Vie For Cup At Fair Hill

FAIR HILL, Md., Sept. 10 (AP)—The gilt-edged and very social Foxcatcher National Cup Steeplechase makes its post-war debut tomorrow and ten of the country's leading jumpers are expected to race over the fences for $7,500, a silver plate and well modulated admiration.

There are 18 names at the moment on Secretary Gil Haus's entry list, but he guesses only ten of them will brave the three-mile grind over 19 fences.

One of the barriers is the 6 foot 4 inch "Chinese wall," highest jump on an American course. Another is only three feet high but has 24 feet of water on the other side.

While none of the horses is exactly a Citation by way of being a fixture on the public tongue, the list of owners looks like a scrambled excerpt from the social register and the underwriters of a billion dollar bond issue.

Mrs. Esther Dupont Weir has named Zodiac II. Paul Mellon has entered the champion Genancocke from his Rokeby Stable. Cousin Richard K. Mellon will be represented by Replica II. G. H. (Pete) Bostwick, plans to try with Little Sammie. Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane's entry is Greek Flag, Bayard Sharp is in with Tourist Pride, and Miss Ella A. Widener with Chance Bullet.

There are also Auburn Farm's Floating Isle, Henry S. Horkheimer's Rank, L. H. Nelles' Danny Deever, and Lowry Watkins' Tourist List.

The affair is held at the showplace farm of William Dupont, Jr., along with a cattle show sponsored by the Cecil County Breeders' Fair, Inc.

Three other races will be run during the afternoon, with the first going off at 2:45 (EST) and the Foxcatcher scheduled for 3:45.

Bearden Is Victor Over Detroit, 10-1

Cleveland Southpaw Scores 14th Victory

CLEVELAND, Sept. 10 (AP) — Southpaw Gene Bearden hurled a neat six-hitter for his 14th triumph of the season today as the Cleveland Indians rolled to their fourth straight victory by trouncing the Detroit Tigers, 10-1.

Joe Gordon belted his 25th homer of the year with none aboard in the sixth and Ken Keltner and Manager Lou Boudreau rapped three hits apiece to pace the Tribe's 14-hit attack against loser Dizzy Trout, Al Benton and Hal White.

Bearden also struck out six as he held the Tigers hitless until the fifth inning, when they took advantage of his momentary wildness to score their only run on a walk with the bases loaded. Gene contributed a double and single to the Cleveland attack and drove in two runs. Box:

Zivic Likes Jim Folk — Drumm Is Hospitalized
Pennsy Insures Boxers — Pat Creegan Enters WVU

By C. V. BURNS

That was quite a compliment Fritzie Zivic of Pittsburgh, former welterweight champion, paid Jim Folk, the Royale Athletic Club's junior lightweight, after the latter's victory over Carl Baer of Coalport, at Altoona, Pa., Thursday night.

Fritzie Zivic

After the match Zivic, who was the third man in the ring for the five-rounder, told Presley W. "Red" Mauk, Folk's manager:

"Folk is the best looking amateur at his weight I've seen for some time. He's strong, he's game and he's a real prospect."

It was Folk's 15th amateur match in six months and his 12th victory against three defeats.

Jim lost his first amateur fight March 8, 1948, won ten in a row, and split even in four matches in Johnstown and Altoona during the past two months.

Folk is 18 and is still atending Meyersdale (Pa.) High School. He fought as a featherweight last spring. Now he tips the beam at 132.

Under a new plan outlined by the State Athletic Commission any fighter appearing in a Pennsylvania ring will be covered by insurance regardless of where he comes from.

The program, now in effect, provides for six weeks of hospitalization, surgical treatment up to $250 and a $500 death benefit.

Money to finance the program will be provided by taking 35 cents from every boxer's purse. Each fighter will be issued an insurance certificate.

The commission will finance the plan at the start through payment of $1,000. It will receive a rebate at the end of each six months if the amount is not used. The commission also will make up any amount necessary in excess of the fund collected by the 35-cent assessments.

Remember Walter Drumm, the husky catcher, batterymate of Robert Emmett (Em) Flynn, our present chief of police, and a flock of other good sandlot pitchers back in the 1920s?

Well, Walter has been a patient in Allegany Hospital for the past month, recovering from a broken ankle he suffered when struck by an air hose while at work at the B. & O. shops.

Drumm was the receiver for the topnotch Western Maryland Railway teams of a quarter of a century ago and we haven't seen his equal as an all-around catcher since those days. He tipped the beam around the 200 mark and he had a good arm and could sock the ball.

Walter's baseball idol was John J. McGraw, leader of the New York Giants.

We last saw Drumm about a year ago. He was a football fan then and he just about Lujack-ed us all over Baltimore Street. A great guy, that fellow Drumm.

Here's hoping he is out of the hospital in time to see Notre Dame play Pitt or Navy.

Pat Creegan, Cumberland's youthful southpaw strikeout artist, who lost four games by the margin of one run, including a pair of 1-0 contests, while pitching for LaSalle last spring, had better luck with the American Legion team of the Interstate League.

Winning four and losing five for the weak Explorer nine, Pat came back in faster company and notched four wins against a single loss—the latter a 6-5 setback.

Pat averaged 12 strikeouts per game for LaSalle and bettered that mark in the Interstate for he racked up 35 victims (17 and 18) in a pair of games with Ridgeley, whiffed 25 Eagles (16 and 9) in two games and fired the third strike past 13 Moorefield and 16 Moose batsmen. That's 89 in six games, an average of 16 per game, with reports of at least two other contests still missing.

Creegan, incidentally, has enrolled at West Virginia University, and will do his pitching next spring under the watchful eye of Steve Harrick, one of the best college baseball coaches in the country.

When Randall "Skeets" Starkey steps through the ropes to engage Leon Douty in the feature attraction of St. Mary's A.C. amateur show Monday, September 20 at the State Armory, it will be the Wiley Ford battler's 34th bout in three years.

Douty is the lad who TKO'd Starkey in the second round in the Olympic Regional tryouts in May at Philadelphia. In his last match here "Skeets" stopped Bill Mann.

Starkey has won 23 and lost 10 matches.

His record against out-of-town opposition is 14 wins, 9 losses. He has won nine bouts in 10 starts against local opponents.

He has gone to the post 22 times here, winning 16 and losing 6. His out-of-town record is 7-4.

Here are some of the changes adopted by the P.I.A.A.—:

Maximum of four time-outs each half, instead of previous three, with additional time-outs when player is injured.

Time allowed to get ball into play reduced from 30 to 25 seconds.

Scoreboard clocks become automatically legal. Heretofore both coaches had to agree on whether game was to be timed by an electric scoreboard clock.

Size of players' jersey numerals enlarged. Number must be at least 10 inches high on players' back and at least eight inches high in front. Formerly they were eight and six inches.

Goal posts are out of bounds. If a player leans against a goal post when he catches a pass, the ball is out of bounds on contact.

Royale A. C. Fighter Avenges July Defeat

Jim Folk, the "Fighting High School Boy," who represents the Royale Athletic Club of this city, avenged a defeat he suffered in Johnstown, Pa., on July 29 when he won an unanimous decision over Carl Baer of Coalport, Pa., in the five-round feature match of an amateur fistic show at Jaffa Mosque, Altoona, Pa., on Thursday night.

Cumberland boxers were decisioned in two other bouts on the card. Mike Leslie, lightweight, lost to Chappie Lloyd of Indiana, Pa., and Bobby Britton of Indiana, Pa., won the "duke" over Bob Smith, 140, newcomer of the Royale A.C. team.

Yankee Clipper Clinches Game In Tenth Frame

Joe Wallops No. 34; Shea Is Winner, 11-6

By JOSEPH B. KELLEY

BOSTON, Sept. 10 (AP)—Joe DiMaggio, one of the "Old Yankees," lined a terrific four-run homer into the center field bleachers in the tenth inning today, powering the New Yorkers to an 11-6 victory over the American League leading Red Sox before 27,329 fans.

It was DiMaggio's 34th homer of the season, his second grand slammer and boosted his runs batted in output to 134.

The triumph, only their second here this season in nine games, pulled the Yanks to within two-and-a-half-games of the Sox whose winning streak ended at nine.

By winning the Yanks also kept a game ahead of the third place Cleveland Indians, who smothered the Detroit Tigers, 10-1.

Another of the "Old Yankees," Tommy Henrich, also batted—and fielded—in championship form to keep the visitors in the three hour and 20 minute contest.

Henrich poled a two-run homer in the opening inning and his diving stop of a hard Ted Williams drive ended a Sox rally in the sixth after three runs had scored.

DiMaggio belted his titanic four-bagger off Earl Caldwell, fourth of five Boston pitchers, with two out.

Caldwell set the stage for the Yankee Clipper to do his stuff. He started the inning by walking Gus Niarhos and hitting Frank Shea, the victorious Yankee hurler, on the left knee.

Pinch-hitter Charlie Keller went out swinging and Henrich drew a walk to fill the bases. Hank Bauer struck out and up came big DiMag.

The count ran to two and two, one of the strikes was a soaring line drive which just curved foul before leaving the playing field. Then came the game winning smash.

Shea, who had entered the game in the sixth when the Sox rallied to drive out starter Vic Raschi, retired the Bostonians in order in the last of the tenth.

He fanned Ted Williams for the last out of the game and walked off the field grinning broadly. It was the chubby right hander's ninth victory against 10 defeats. Box:

New Heavy Champ To Be Recognized When Louis Quits

Topic Is On Agenda When NBA Convenes

By ED CORRIGAN

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 10 (AP) — Notwithstanding sundry rumors to the contrary, President Abe Greene of the National Boxing Association said today no new heavyweight champion will be declared until Joe Louis retires officially.

That puts the damper on any hopes of matching the winners of the Jimmy Bivins-Ezzard Charles and Jersey Joe Walcott-Gus Lesnevich fights and calling it a title contest. Bivins and Charles tangle in Washington Monday, and Walcott is slated to meet Lesnevich in Jersey City, Sept. 21.

NBA Convenes Monday

Greene, however, did leave the door open. He said that the heavyweight muddle probably would be the main topic on the agenda when the NBA convenes for its annual meeting for three days starting Monday in Philadelphia.

"Obviously, the winners of the two fights would be considered the outstanding fighters in the heavyweight division," Greene said, "but that's not news. Who else is there?"

Greene said that Louis would be the guest at the NBA's dinner Tuesday night, and that he expected some definite word to be forthcoming from the champion at the time.

"We hope to have the whole thing straightened out by then," Greene commented. "However, until we hear from Louis one way or the other we certainly can and will not declare another man the heavyweight champion."

100 Delegates To Attend

Concerning the convention, he said that close to 100 delegates from every NBA state in the country plus Cuba and Hawaii will be present for the meeting. The only states which will not be represented officially are New York and Massachusetts.

"We will have an unofficial observer on hand from Massachusetts," he said, "and we expect that state to join after the next session of the legislaure when funds probably will be appropriated for the merger."

He would not comment on what, if any, steps would be taken to effect a "truce" with the New York State Athletic Commission, which is not a member of the NBA.

In the past, Greene continually has expressed a desire to come to an agreement with the New York group.

The vanguard of the convention will arrive in Philadelphia on Sunday, and will watch Walcott work out in his Grenloch, N. J., camp.

Foxcatcher 'Chase Will Be Run Today

Ten Expected To Vie For Cup At Fair Hill

FAIR HILL, Md., Sept. 10 (AP)—The gilt-edged and very social Foxcatcher National Cup Steeplechase makes its post-war debut tomorrow and ten of the country's leading jumpers are expected to race over the fences for $7,500, a silver plate and well modulated admiration.

There are 18 names at the moment on Secretary Gil Haus's entry list, but he guesses only ten of them will brave the three-mile grind over 19 fences.

One of the barriers is the 6 foot 4 inch "Chinese wall," highest jump on an American course. Another is only three feet high but has 24 feet of water on the other side.

While none of the horses is exactly a Citation by way of being a fixture on the public tongue, the list of owners looks like a scrambled excerpt from the social register and the underwriters of a billion dollar bond issue.

Mrs. Esther Dupont Weir has named Zodiac II. Paul Mellon has entered the champion Genancocke from his Rokeby Stable. Cousin Richard K. Mellon will be represented by Replica II. G. H. (Pete) Bostwick, plans to try with Little Sammie. Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane's entry is Greek Flag. Bayard Sharp is in with Tourist Pride, and Miss Ella A. Widener with Chance Bullet.

There are also Auburn Farm's Floating Isle, Henry S. Horkheimer's Rank, L. H. Nelles' Danny Deever, and Lowry Watkins' Tourist List.

The affair is held at the showplace farm of William Dupont, Jr., along with a cattle show sponsored by the Cecil County Breeders' Fair, Inc.

Three other races will be run during the afternoon, with the first going off at 2:45 (EST) and the Foxcatcher scheduled for 3:45.

Cleveland Southpaw Scores 14th Victory

CLEVELAND, Sept. 10 (AP) — Southpaw Gene Bearden hurled a neat six-hitter for his 14th triumph of the season today as the Cleveland Indians rolled to their fourth straight victory by trouncing the Detroit Tigers, 10-1.

Joe Gordon belted his 25th homer of the year with none aboard in the sixth and Ken Keltner and Manager Lou Boudreau rapped three hits apiece to pace the Tribe's 14-hit attack against loser Dizzy Trout. Al Benton and Hal White.

Bearden also struck out six as he held the Tigers hitless until the fifth inning, when they took advantage of his momentary wildness to score their only run on a walk with the bases loaded. Gene contributed a double and single to the Cleveland attack and drove in two runs. Box:

Zivic Likes Jim Folk | Drumm Is Hospitalized
Pennsy Insures Boxers | Pat Creegan Enters WVU

By C. V. BURNS

Fritzie Zivic

After the match Zivic, who was the third man in the ring for the five-rounder, told Presley W. "Red" Mauk, Folk's manager:

"Folk is the best looking amateur at his weight I've seen for some time. He's strong, he's game and he's a real prospect."

It was Folk's 15th amateur match in six months and his 12th victory against three defeats.

Jim lost his first amateur fight March 8, 1948, won ten in a row, and split even in four matches in Johnstown and Altoona during the past two months.

Folk is 18 and is still atending Meyersdale (Pa.) High School. He fought as a featherweight last spring. Now he tips the beam at 132.

Under a new plan outlined by the State Athletic Commission any fighter appearing in a Pennsylvania ring will be covered by insurance regardless of where he comes from.

The program, now in effect, provides for six weeks of hospitalization, surgical treatment up to $250 and a $500 death benefit.

Money to finance the program will be provided by taking 35 cents from every boxer's purse. Each fighter will be issued an insurance certificate.

The commission will finance the plan at the start through payment of $1,000. It will receive a rebate at the end of each six months if the amount is not used. The commission also will make up any amount necessary in excess of the fund collected by the 35-cent assessments.

Remember Walter Drumm, the husky catcher, batterymate of Robert Emmett (Em) Flynn, our present chief of police, and a flock of other good sandlot pitchers back in the 1920s?

Well, Walter has been a patient in Allegany Hospital for the past month, recovering from a broken ankle he suffered when struck by an air hose while at work at the B. & O. shops.

Drumm was the receiver for the topnotch Western Maryland Railway teams of a quarter of a century ago and we haven't seen his equal as an all-around catcher since those days. He tipped the beam around the 200 mark and he had a good arm and could sock the ball.

Walter's baseball idol was John J. McGraw, leader of the New York Giants.

We last saw Drumm about a year ago. He was a football fan then and he just about Lujack-ed us all over Baltimore Street. A great guy, that fellow Drumm.

Here's hoping he is out of the hospital in time to see Notre Dame play Pitt or Navy.

Pat Creegan, Cumberland's youthful southpaw strikeout artist, who lost four games by the margin of one run, including a pair of 1-0 contests, while pitching for LaSalle last spring, had better luck with the American Legion team of the Interstate League.

Winning four and losing five for the weak Explorer nine, Pat came back in faster company and notched four wins against a single loss—the latter a 6-5 setback.

Pat averaged 12 strikeouts per game for LaSalle and bettered that mark in the Interstate for he racked up 35 victims (17 and 18) in a pair of games with Ridgeley, whiffed 25 Eagles (16 and 9) in two games and fired the third strike past 13 Moorefield and 16 Moose batsmen. That's 89 in six games, an average of 16 per game, with reports of at least two other contests still missing.

Creegan, incidentally, has enrolled at West Virginia University, and will do his pitching next spring under the watchful eye of Steve Harrick, one of the best college baseball coaches in the country.

When Randall "Skeets" Starkey steps through the ropes to engage Leon Douty in the feature attraction of St. Mary's A.C. amateur show Monday, September 20 at the State Armory, it will be the Wiley Ford battler's 34th bout in three years.

Douty is the lad who TKO'd Starkey in the second round in the Olympic Regional tryouts in May at Philadelphia. In his last match here "Skeets" stopped Bill Mann.

Starkey has won 23 and lost 10 matches.

His record against out-of-town opposition is 14 wins, 9 losses. He has won nine bouts in 10 starts against local opponents.

He has gone to the post 22 times here, winning 16 and losing 6. His out-of-town record is 7-4.

Pennsylvania has streamlined its schoolboy football with some forty rules changes for the 1948 season.

Here are some of the changes adopted by the P.I.A.A.—:

Maximum of four time-outs each half, instead of previous three, with additional time-outs when player is injured.

Time allowed to get ball into play reduced from 30 to 25 seconds.

Scoreboard clocks become automatically legal. Heretofore both coaches had to agree on whether game was to be timed by an electric scoreboard clock.

Size of players' jersey numerals enlarged. Number must be at least 10 inches high on players' back and at least eight inches high in front. Formerly they were eight and six inches.

Goal posts are out of bounds. If a player leans against a goal post when he catches a pass, the ball is out of bounds on contact.

Royale A. C. Fighter Avenges July Defeat

Jim Folk, the "Fighting High School Boy," who represents the Royale Athletic Club of this city, avenged a defeat he suffered in Johnstown, Pa., on July 29 when he won an unanimous decision over Carl Baer of Coalport, Pa., in the five-round feature match of an amateur fistic show at Jaffa Mosque, Altoona, Pa., on Thursday night.

Cumberland boxers were decisioned in two other bouts on the card. Mike Leslie, lightweight, lost to Chappie Lloyd of Indiana, Pa., and Bobby Britton of Indiana, Pa., won the "duke" over Bob Smith, 140, newcomer of the Royale A.C. team.

BUCS FINED, LOSE THIS PLAYER

BASEBALL CZAR A. B. CHANDLER has fined the Pittsburgh Pirates $2,000 for what he said was an attempt to pay a hidden bonus to Dan Lynch, Jr., (above) of the Waco, Tex., team. Lynch was declared a free agent and Chandler voided a $1,200-a-year scouting contract awarded the boy's father, Dan Lynch, Sr. (International)

Yankee Clipper Clinches Game In Tenth Frame

Joe Wallops No. 34; Shea Is Winner, 11-6

By JOSEPH B. KELLEY

BOSTON, Sept. 10 (AP)—Joe DiMaggio, one of the "Old Yankees," lined a terrific four-run homer into the center field bleachers in the tenth inning today, powering the New Yorkers to an 11-6 victory over the American League leading Red Sox before 27,329 fans.

It was DiMaggio's 34th homer of the season, his second grand slammer and boosted his runs batted in output to 134.

The triumph, only their second here this season in nine games, pulled the Yanks to within two-and-a-half-games of the Sox whose winning streak ended at nine.

By winning the Yanks also kept a game ahead of the third place Cleveland Indians, who smothered the Detroit Tigers, 10-1.

Another of the "Old Yankees," Tommy Henrich, also batted—and fielded—in championship form to keep the visitors in the three hour and 20 minute contest.

Henrich poled a two-run homer in the opening inning and his diving stop of a hard Ted Williams drive ended a Sox rally in the sixth after three runs had scored.

DiMaggio belted his titanic four-bagger off Earl Caldwell, fourth of five Boston pitchers, with two out.

Caldwell set the stage for the Yankee Clipper to do his stuff. He started the inning by walking Gus Niarhos and hitting Frank Shea, the victorious Yankee hurler, on the left knee.

Pinch-hitter Charlie Keller went out swinging and Henrich drew a walk to fill the bases. Hank Bauer struck out and up came big DiMag.

The count ran to two and two, one of the strikes was a soaring line drive which just curved foul before leaving the playing field. Then came the game winning smash.

Shea, who had entered the game in the sixth when the Sox rallied to drive out starter Vic Raschi, retired the Bostonians in order in the last of the tenth.

He fanned Ted Williams for the last out of the game and walked off the field grinning broadly. It was the chubby right hander's ninth victory against 10 defeats. Box:

Frostburg Will Abolish Flat $25 Rate For Water And Sewer Taps

System Costs City Hundreds Of Dollars

FROSTBURG—It was learned at the City Hall yesterday that a complete change in the rate for water and sewer taps for property owners of Frostburg is being planned by the Mayor and City Council, effective as soon as details can be worked out.

The old custom, established in 1922, of making a flat charge of $25 for a sewer tap regardless of the number of hours required to do the work and the amount of pipe and fittings necessary to do the job, according to statements made by members of the City Council at the monthly meeting Tuesday, has cost the city hundreds of dollars in excess of the actual cost of the work during the past few years.

If the present plans of the City Council are carried out, the custom of securing a permit for a tap for $25 on application to the City Clerk will be abolished and no permit for a tap will be issued until the cost of the work is determined by the City Engineer and City Water Superintendent, according to price schedules adopted by the Mayor and Council.

Similar adjustments are to be made with reference to water taps, which are being made for a flat rate of $9. City Clerk Alex G. Close stated yesterday that he can find no place in the city records where or when the $9 rate was authorized. He added that $9 has been the amount collected for water taps since he has been in charge of the city's records.

The purpose of the City Council is not to make a profit for the city on either a sewer or water tap, but to have the job done at the actual cost without any loss to the city, city officials stated.

Frostburg Water Pipe Is Delivered

FROSTBURG — Street Commissioner W. W. Sluss, Jr., reported yesterday that three carloads of the largest sewer pipe of the several sizes in carrying surface water from the Mt. Pleasant Street section to the city's main sewer on Green Street had arrived and one carload was already hauled to the city lot on Mechanic Street.

Asked about the size of the pipe, Sluss stated they were large enough for a man to crawl through. The largest pipe will be used for the sewer main to laid from Eckhart Flat down Sleeman Street and past the intersection of Washington and McCulloh Streets. Smaller lines from these streets will connect with the larger mains. Sluss stated the work of laying the pipe will be started at once.

Deep Creek Quarry Owners Accused Of Court Contempt

Terms Of Injunction Claimed Violated

OAKLAND—Declaring that the operators of a stone quarry on Deep Creek Lake have not carried out the provisions of an injunction decision which the court rendered last fall, the proprietors of Will-o-the-Wisp have petitioned the court for an order for the defendants to show cause why they should not be adjudged in contempt of court for their violations.

The case will come up before Associate Judge Joseph D. Mish when he comes to Oakland next Monday morning.

Judge Mish is expected to be on the bench when the grand jury convenes next Monday, and following the usual charge to the grand jurors will take up the equity case.

In a decision rendered by the court last year Vetter Brothers, Inc., and the owners, Edwin and Louise Fry, were enjoined and prohibited from blasting or permitting blasting to be done in such a way as to throw rocks and stones on the Gus Heise property and from carrying on operations as to cause clouds of dust to blow over the property.

During the period from June 15 to September 15, blasting was restricted to reasonable periods during the week days only with no work on Saturdays and Sundays. A whistle signal prior to and upon completion of blasting was also required.

The operation of the stone crusher during the summer was likewise restricted, and blasting of such force as to cause cottages to shake and be damaged, causing concern to the occupants, was prohibited.

The petition delares the provisions of the injunction are not being "carried out in a manner believed contemplated by the court."

It further states that counsel for the plaintiffs has complained to the defendants in an effort to avoid litigation but that "violations have continued," and they now feel attention should be called to the court so that proper action may be taken.

Lack Of Facilities Gives Friendsville Children Vacation Every Other Day

Garrett County Pupils Overflow School Walls

OAKLAND — Crowded conditions in the Friendsville schools will make it necessary for grade school children to attend classes only on alternate days, R. Bowen Hardesty, assistant superintendent of schools, announced.

Grades 1, 4 and 5 reported Wednesday and will report every other day. Grades 2, 3 and 6 attended Thursday and will attend on alternate days. Junior and senior high students will have classes every day.

Hardesty said that a temporary structure for extra classrooms is being built at Friendsville which will take from four to six weeks to complete.

Schools throughout Garrett County are crowded, he stated, especially in the five population centers, although the Friendsville situation is the most desperate.

Two extra rooms had to be rented in Grantsville to take care of the students, while at Accident all are under one roof but crowded. A temporary structure is being built which will be used as a shop.

Kitzmiller school is crowded but is managaing with its present facilities.

With the opening of the fall term of public schools, Oakland now has a student population of 1,082. The new enrollment exceeds by 13 that of last year which was one of the largest in history. Some forty additional persons are expected to register before another week is ended.

At Oakland High School, Principal Grayson Burrier announced that 553 persons registered thus far. There are 116 seniors, 134 sophomore, 134 9th graders and 169 8th graders. There is no junior class this year because of the new 12-year program which got under way two years ago. There were 258 boys and 295 girls. The 9th grade was the only one with more boys than girls.

Four hundred sixty-seven students enrolled in the elementary school, Joseph Sollars, principal, announced. They were listed as follows: Grade 1, 88; grade 2, 61; grade 3, 41; grade 4, 72; grade 5, 65; grade 6, 74; grade 7, 65.

Sixty-two students were enrolled at St. Peter's Parolichial school.

The high school schedule is being run daily on seven periods and this week students were dismissed for lunch at 11:30, creating a problem in Oakland restaurants, since business people had accustomed themselves to eating at 11:30. Mr. Burrier said he expected that the dismissal would be back to the regular time by next Monday to lessen confusion in the downtown areas.

Moorefield High Registers 402

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — Moorefield High School enrollment totaled 402 on the opening day of school, according to the announcement of John Mathias, principal. This figure compares with last year's total of 376.

By classes the enrollments were seniors, 44, juniors, 37, sophomores, 60, freshmen, 98, eighth grade 89 and seventh grade 74.

Moorefield graded school fell to 300 this year from 335 last year. The decrease was due to the building of the new Old Fields school which took some of the student load away from Moorefield.

Wardensville Graded School enrollment is down to 120 as compared with 148 last year. Clifton Jenkins, principal, state that 133 were expected to enroll before the end of the first week.

Wardensville's enrollment is down because of the new school at Baker. When the school at Baker burned, part of the student body was sent to Wardensville.

The two men were making repairs to a 440 volt line when the accident occurred. A short circuit was the cause of the flash.

Beaver Sabotages Water System

WESTERNPORT — That nature sometimes laughs at men who try to imitate her inventions, was proved by a dam-building beaver who was well on his way to undermining the Westernport water system.

The 50-pound animal had begun to build a dam of its own between the screen and the outlet of the Westernport dam on Savage River. Discoverers of the beaver found that it had moved a steel ladder from one side to the other and had amassed four pieces of wood two feet long, about a dozen pieces 12 to 15 inches long and enough wood from three-fourths to two inches long to fill a wheelbarrow.

It cost the town about $200 to discover the blackish - brownish saboteur, F. D. Glass, water superintendent, estimated. This week, members of the Westernport Water Department began searching for the cause of low water pressure and found the animal around the intake.

Not knowing that it was a beaver, Burt Reed, a member of the department, killed the animal. Those who saw it were of the opinion that it was a groundhog.

Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, was informed of the incident Thursday, and identified the animal. He said that while the animal has become very scarce in this area, they are slowly being brought back into Western Maryland.

The beaver is harmles, ordinarily, Minke stated, and is valuable for fur. However, there is no open season in Maryland, and penalties for killing them run from $25 to $100.

St. Joseph School Enrollment Higher

MIDLAND.—St. Joseph School, Midland, opened Wednesday with mass and benediction. The enrollment showed a marked increase in each grade over last year, the total reaching 146. Of this number, 46 children are from Lonaconing, due to the encouragement of Father Charles Bogan, the pastor at St. Mary's.

After mass, when the pupils assembled in their various classrooms, Father McVeigh, who is carrying on the work of Father Reiley in St. Joseph's during his absence, visited each room and welcomed the children back to school. He encouraged the pupils to do their best work so that there would be no regrets due to failure in their class work later on.

Before dismissal, the children gathered in church where prayers were offered for the speedy and complete recovery of their pastor, Father Reiley. Practice was also begun to prepare the children for their part in the Forty Hours' Devotion which will open in the parish on Sunday, September 12, at the high mass at 10 o'clock.

Uniform Taxation For Sanitation Asked By Deep Creek Landowners

OAKLAND, — Further discussion on the possibilities of repeal of the sanitary district law, or an amendment to it which would provide for uniform taxation to the property owners there, took place at the semi-annual meeting of the Property Owners Association of Deep Creek Lake, Inc. The meeting was held Labor day at McHenry, with Dr. W. B. Mehring, president, in charge.

Speakers were Senator Lawrence M. Fraley and Horace Whitworth, Westernport, member of the House of Delegates.

Whitworth spoke in detail concerning the sanitary district law and its meaning and Fraley discussed the need of some form of sanitation in the Deep Creek area.

F. C. Clayter, vice president of the organization, said that everybody was agreed on the need of sanitation but felt that the law in its present status was "over-taxation." He said the members felt that there should be a uniform garbage collection fee from each cottage owner instead of assessment according to evaluation of the property.

Also discussed was what the members termed unfair fishing and hunting license fees for property owners who happen to be out of state residents.

He said the group hoped to name committees that would report at the annual meeting next year on the constitution and by-laws, on a long-range program on road repair, police protection and other problems.

Frostburg Will Abolish Flat $25 Rate For Water And Sewer Taps

System Costs City Hundreds Of Dollars

FROSTBURG—It was learned at the City Hall yesterday that a complete change in the rate for water and sewer taps for property owners of Frostburg is being planned by the Mayor and City Council, effective as soon as details can be worked out.

The old custom, established in 1922, of making a flat charge of $25 for a sewer tap regardless of the number of hours required to do the work and the amount of pipe and fittings necessary to do the job, according to statements made by members of the City Council at the monthly meeting Tuesday, has cost the city hundreds of dollars in excess of the actual cost of the work during the past few years.

If the present plans of the City Council are carried out, the custom of securing a permit for a tap for $25 on application to the City Clerk will be abolished and no permit for a tap will be issued until the cost of the work is determined by the City Engineer and City Water Superintendent, according to price schedules adopted by the Mayor and Council.

Similar adjustments are to be made with reference to water taps, which are being made for a flat rate of $9. City Clerk Alex G. Close stated yesterday that he can find no place in the city records where or when the $9 rate was authorized. He added that $9 has been the amount collected for water taps since he has been in charge of the city's records.

The purpose of the City Council is not to make a profit for the city on either a sewer or water tap, but to have the job done at the actual cost without any loss to the city, city officials stated.

Frostburg Water Pipe Is Delivered

FROSTBURG — Street Commissioner W. W. Sluss, Jr., reported yesterday that three carloads of the largest sewer pipe of the several sizes in carrying surface water from the Mt. Pleasant Street section to the city's main sewer on Green Street had arrived and one carload was already hauled to the city lot on Mechanic Street.

Asked about the size of the pipe, Sluss stated they were large enough for a man to crawl through. The largest pipe will be used for the sewer main to laid from Eckhart Flat down Sleeman Street and past the intersection of Washington and McCulloh Streets. Smaller lines from these streets will connect with the larger mains. Sluss stated the work of laying the pipe will be started at once.

Deep Creek Quarry Owners Accused Of Court Contempt

Terms Of Injunction Claimed Violated

OAKLAND—Declaring that the operators of a stone quarry on Deep Creek Lake have not carried out the provisions of an injunction decision which the court rendered last fall, the proprietors of Will-o-the-Wisp have petitioned the court for an order for the defendants to show cause why they should not be adjudged in contempt of court for their violations.

The case will come up before Associate Judge Joseph D. Mish when he comes to Oakland next Monday morning.

Judge Mish is expected to be on the bench when the grand jury convenes next Monday, and following the usual charge to the grand jurors will take up the equity case.

In a decision rendered by the court last year Vetter Brothers, Inc., and the owners, Edwin and Louise Fry, were enjoined and prohibited from blasting or permitting blasting to be done in such a way as to throw rocks and stones on the Gus Heise property and from carrying on operations as to cause clouds of dust to blow over the property.

During the period from June 15 to September 15, blasting was restricted to reasonable periods during the week days only with no work on Saturdays and Sundays. A whistle signal prior to and upon completion of blasting was also required.

The operation of the stone crusher during the summer was likewise restricted, and blasting of such force as to cause cottages to shake and be damaged, causing concern to the occupants, was prohibited.

The petition delares the provisions of the injunction are not being "carried out in a manner believed contemplated by the court."

It further states that counsel for the plaintiffs has complained to the defendants in an effort to avoid litigation but that "violations have continued," and they now feel attention should be called to the court so that proper action may be taken.

Lack Of Facilities Gives Friendsville Children Vacation Every Other Day

Garrett County Pupils Overflow School Walls

OAKLAND — Crowded conditions in the Friendsville schools will make it necessary for grade school children to attend classes only on alternate days, R. Bowen Hardesty, assistant superintendent of schools, announced.

Grades 1, 4 and 5 reported Wednesday and will report every other day. Grades 2, 3 and 6 attended Thursday and will attend on alternate days. Junior and senior high students will have classes every day.

Hardesty said that a temporary structure for extra classrooms is being built at Friendsville which will take from four to six weeks to complete.

Schools throughout Garrett County are crowded, he stated, especially in the five population centers, although the Friendsville situation is the most desperate.

Two extra rooms had to be rented in Grantsville to take care of the students, while at Accident all are under one roof but crowded. A temporary structure is being built which will be used as a shop.

Kitzmiller school is crowded but is managaing with its present facilities.

With the opening of the fall term of public schools, Oakland now has a student population of 1,082. The new enrollment exceeds by 13 that of last year which was one of the largest in history. Some forty additional persons are expected to register before another week is ended.

At Oakland High School, Principal Grayson Burrier announced that 553 persons registered thus far. There are 116 seniors, 134 sophomore, 134 9th graders and 169 8th graders. There is no junior class this year because of the new 12-year program which got under way two years ago. There were 258 boys and 295 girls. The 9th grade was the only one with more boys than girls.

Four hundred sixty-seven students enrolled in the elementary school, Joseph Sollars, principal, announced. They were listed as follows: Grade 1, 88; grade 2, 61; grade 3, 41; grade 4, 72; grade 5, 65; grade 6, 74; grade 7, 65.

Sixty-two students were enrolled at St. Peter's Parolichial school.

The high school schedule is being run daily on seven periods and this week students were dismissed for lunch at 11:30, creating a problem in Oakland restaurants, since business people had accustomed themselves to eating at 11:30. Mr. Burrier said he expected that the dismissal would be back to the regular time by next Monday to lessen confusion in the downtown areas.

Moorefield High Registers 402

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — Moorefield High School enrollment totaled 402 on the opening day of school, according to the announcement of John Mathias, principal. This figure compares with last year's total of 376.

By classes the enrollments were seniors, 44, juniors, 37, sophomores, 60, freshmen, 98, eighth grade 89 and seventh grade 74.

Moorefield graded school fell to 300 this year from 335 last year. The decrease was due to the building of the new Old Fields school which took some of the student load away from Moorefield.

Wardensville Graded School enrollment is down to 120 as compared with 148 last year. Clifton Jenkins, principal, state that 133 were expected to enroll before the end of the first week.

Wardensville's enrollment is down because of the new school at Baker. When the school at Baker burned, part of the student body was sent to Wardensville.

The two men were making repairs to a 440 volt line when the accident occurred. A short circuit was the cause of the flash.

Beaver Sabotages Water System

WESTERNPORT — That nature sometimes laughs at men who try to imitate her inventions, was proved by a dam-building beaver who was well on his way to undermining the Westernport water system.

The 50-pound animal had begun to build a dam of its own between the screen and the outlet of the Westernport dam on Savage River. Discoverers of the beaver found that it had moved a steel ladder from one side to the other and had amassed four pieces of wood two feet long, about a dozen pieces 12 to 15 inches long and enough wood from three-fourths to two inches long to fill a wheelbarrow.

It cost the town about $200 to discover the blackish - brownish saboteur, F. D. Glass, water superintendent, estimated. This week, members of the Westernport Water Department began searching for the cause of low water pressure and found the animal around the intake.

Not knowing that it was a beaver, Burt Reed, a member of the department, killed the animal. Those who saw it were of the opinion that it was a groundhog.

Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, was informed of the incident Thursday, and identified the animal. He said that while the animal has become very scarce in this area, they are slowly being brought back into Western Maryland.

The beaver is harmles, ordinarily, Minke stated, and is valuable for fur. However, there is no open season in Maryland, and penalties for killing them run from $25 to $100.

St. Joseph School Enrollment Higher

MIDLAND.—St. Joseph School, Midland, opened Wednesday with mass and benediction. The enrollment showed a marked increase in each grade over last year, the total reaching 146. Of this number, 46 children are from Lonaconing, due to the encouragement of Father Charles Bogan, the pastor at St. Mary's.

After mass, when the pupils assembled in their various classrooms, Father McVeigh, who is carrying on the work of Father Reiley in St. Joseph's during his absence, visited each room and welcomed the children back to school. He encouraged the pupils to do their best work so that there would be no regrets due to failure in their class work later on.

Before dismissal, the children gathered in church where prayers were offered for the speedy and complete recovery of their pastor, Father Reiley. Practice was also begun to prepare the children for their part in the Forty Hours' Devotion which will open in the parish on Sunday, September 12, at the high mass at 10 o'clock.

Uniform Taxation For Sanitation Asked By Deep Creek Landowners

OAKLAND, — Further discussion on the possibilities of repeal of the sanitary district law, or an amendment to it which would provide for uniform taxation to the property owners there, took place at the semi-annual meeting of the Property Owners Association of Deep Creek Lake, Inc. The meeting was held Labor day at McHenry, with Dr. W. B. Mehring, president, in charge.

Speakers were Senator Lawrence M. Fraley and Horace Whitworth, Westernport, member of the House of Delegates.

Whitworth spoke in detail concerning the sanitary district law and its meaning and Fraley discussed the need of some form of sanitation in the Deep Creek area.

P. C. Clayter, vice president of the organization, said that everybody was agreed on the need of sanitation but felt that the law in its present status was "over-taxation." He said the members felt that there should be a uniform garbage collection fee from each cottage owner instead of assessment according to evaluation of the property.

Also discussed was what the members termed unfair fishing and hunting license fees for property owners who happen to be out of state residents.

He said the group hoped to name committees that would report at the annual meeting next year on the constitution and by-laws, on a long-range program on road repair, police protection and other problems.

Code Provisions For Accepting Streets Outlined

Buchholtz Urges Strict Enforcemen

Strict enforcement of city code provisions regarding official acceptance by the Mayor and Council of plans and detailed plats for new and existing property developments within the city is needed to aid in future planning and zoning, Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz said yesterday.

Buchholtz warned that prospective buyers of property should make certain that the subdivision has been officially accepted by the city if they expect the city to maintain streets thereafter.

He pointed out that in many instances the city is never officially notified of the creation of a real estate subdivision, and that no attempt is made to supply an accurate map of the area as the code requires.

Must Submit Plans

Chapter Four, Section 17 of the code requires the owner of any property within the city limits which is to be laid out into building lots, streets and alleys to prepare detailed plans and a complete plat for the city engineer.

In addition, such an owner must communicate with the Mayor and Council, offering the proposed streets and alleys for dedication to the public use.

After the plans are approved, the city engineer is required under the code to report that fact to the Mayor and Council, submitting a correct plat and full description of the property involved.

Upon approval by the Mayor and Council, the streets and alleys in the subdivision become formally accepted by the city.

Sections 18 and 19 of the same chapter provide that all streets and alleys in such subdivisions must correspond to the streets and alleys of which they are designed to be extension, or to adjacent streets and alleys, and that they must be graded and improved to the satisfaction of the city engineer.

Unacceptably Laid Out

Although in recent months more rigid inspection of such subdivisions has been made, in many instances properties have been laid out in a manner unacceptable to the city, Buchholtz said.

Purchasers of lots in such developments later encounter difficulty and unnecessary expense when they seek to have the streets accepted and paved and graded by the city, he declared.

The mere fact that a subdivision is located within the city limits does not mean that the city is obligated to open and maintain streets Buchholtz said.

Only way in which the subdivisions are accepted is either through formal approval of the plans and maps or through the city's maintaining or repairing the streets involved.

"Often so-called 'streets' in property developments exist only on paper and yet people buy there and feel the city should go ahead and build the streets," Buchholtz added.

"The commission does not seek to exercise police policies in regard to the situation," Lane added. "It only wants to get the problems down pat and overcome them by mutual co-operation from everyone involved."

they ought to be won last nights bathing suit preliminary.

She has a 34-inch bust, 24-inch waist and 36-inch hips. The brown-haired, hazel-eyed winner has had dancing instruction for 14 years.

For a stird straight night the girls from 43 states, nine cities, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and Canada appeared in preliminary bathing suit, evening gown and talent contests.

Only 15 will be chosen for tonight's final. From them a new Miss America will be selected.

Selections are not made on a comparison basis. One judge does not know how the other votes. A pair of public accountants tally the votes at the conclusion of each event. In the preliminaries winners of bathing suit and talent divisions are announced, but no public decision is made for the evening gown competition.

In addition to the girls selected last night as bathing suit and talent winners, these four girls already hold cups:

Talent—Dorothy Free of Chattanooga, "Miss Tennessee;" and Marilyn Robinson of Ogdon, "Miss Utah."

The six girls virtually were assured places among tonight's 15 finalists. That select group will share in $25,000 worth of scholarships with the top prize of $5,000 going to the new Miss America.

For the first time in the pageant's 22 years, an additional prize will go to the beauty queen. She will be awarded a $3,000 automobile by one of the scholarship sponsors.

Mt. Savage

The Majestic was ordered to cease Sunday operation Wednesday when Sheriff Edward R. Muir and Deputy William Chappell went to Bishield's home and said they "had orders" to close the place if it opens Sunday.

This action followed the last Sunday night closing of the Potomac Drive-In Theater at Cresaptown by the sheriff and his deputy. A formal charge was lodged against Kenneth Baker, operator of the Drive-In, and he is at liberty under $500 bond pending a hearing at a date to be set.

The Drive-In and Mt. Savage Majestic are the only theaters in the county operating on Sunday outside incorporated communities. Theaters in Cumberland, Frostburg, Lonaconing, Westernport, Luke, and Midland operate under local town ordinances passed by the respective mayors and councils.

Other Movie Men Protest

In other communities outside Cumberland, theater operators last night voiced their disapproval of the move. These are typical comments:

Ronald Clark, who operates a picture house at Midland, said, "I think it is a one-sided situation and I certainly feel every theater operator should have the right to run his business the same as every other picture house."

William Spates, of the Frostburg theaters, said last night, "We have made no complaints and believe anyone who makes an investment in a business should have the right to run his business the same as others in the field." Spates was asked if he would sign a petition urging that the Mt. Savage Majestic and Potomac Drive-In be permitted to operate, and he declared, "We certainly would. We believe in a fair deal for everybody."

The action of the state's attorney in closing the Drive-In and the Majestic has aroused more comment throughout the county than any other subject in many months, observers declared last night. Some are even predicting that this might be the beginning of the end of Sunday baseball, basketball and other normal Sunday recreation. Clergymen who bitterly fought the innovation of Sunday movies in the county now speak of the injustice which has grown out of the Sunday movie law and condemn the current action as "unfair."

Law May Be Tested

It was indicated yesterday that an effort may be made to challenge the legality of the Cumberland Sunday motion picture ordinance, on the grounds that it was not published in newspapers as required by law when it was amended and re-enacted to change the time of picture shows.

An effort was made to get an opinion from Mayor Thomas S. Post on this question, but he is out of the city attending a meeting at Hagerstown on river sanitation and flood control.

City Solicitor Thomas B. Finan said he has had no occasion to check the question.

The State's Attorney is out of the city and is not expected to return until Monday, people close to him indicated.

Buchholtz Urges Strict Enforcemen

Strict enforcement of city code provisions regarding official acceptance by the Mayor and Council of plans and detailed plats for new and existing property developments within the city is needed to aid in future planning and zoning, Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz said yesterday.

Buchholtz warned that prospective buyers of property should make certain that the subdivision has been officially accepted by the city if they expect the city to maintain streets thereafter.

He pointed out that in many instances the city is never officially notified of the creation of a real estate subdivision, and that no attempt is made to supply an accurate map of the area as the code requires.

Must Submit Plans

Chapter Four, Section 17 of the code requires the owner of any property within the city limits which is to be laid out into building lots, streets and alleys to prepare detailed plans and a complete plat for the city engineer.

In addition, such an owner must communicate with the Mayor and Council, offering the proposed streets and alleys for dedication to the public use.

After the plans are approved, the city engineer is required under the code to report that fact to the Mayor and Council, submitting a correct plat and full description of the property involved.

Upon approval by the Mayor and Council, the streets and alleys in the subdivision become formally accepted by the city.

Sections 18 and 19 of the same chapter provide that all streets and alleys in such subdivisions must correspond to the streets and alleys of which they are designed to be extension, or to adjacent streets and alleys, and that they must be graded and improved to the satisfaction of the city engineer.

Unacceptably Laid Out

Although in recent months more rigid inspection of such subdivisions has been made, in many instances properties have been laid out in a manner unacceptable to the city, Buchholtz said.

Purchasers of lots in such developments later encounter difficulty and unnecessary expense when they seek to have the streets accepted and paved and graded by the city, he declared.

The mere fact that a subdivision is located within the city limits does not mean that the city is obligated to open and maintain streets Buchholtz said.

Only way in which the subdivisions are accepted is either through formal approval of the plans and maps or through the city's maintaining or repairing the streets involved.

"Often so-called 'streets' in property developments exist only on paper and yet people buy there and feel the city should go ahead and build the streets," Buchholtz added.

Lutheran Church Being Redecorated

A program of redecoration at St. John's Lutheran Church, corner Fourth and Arch Streets, is being continued, and no church service will be held tomorrow. Sunday school will be held as usual together with regular sessions of the primary, beginners and cradle roll departments.

Work being done now is to the interior walls. Woodwork of the exterior has already been repainted. The project is being completed, according to Rev. D. F. Brake, pastor, by Seaber Art Decorating Company, Westernport.

A full program of service will be resumed Sunday, September 19, including a rededication program at the morning service, Rev. Brake announced.

probably for action on legal aspects by the two Legislatures and the municipalities involved.

An election of officers opened the two-day session this morning and resulted in the renaming of the present leaders.

These include Raymond V. Long, director of the Virginia State Planning Board, chairman; Harold A. Kemp, Sanitary Engineer for Washington, vice chairman; Oliver Gash, Assistant Corporation Counsel for the District of Columbia, general counsel, and Dr. David L. Seckinger, Assistant Health Officer of the District of Columbia, treasurer.

Gov. Lane of Maryland, scheduled to address the Commission at the afternoon session, was late in arriving and talked to the members at tonight's dinner meeting instead.

Governor Lane said tonight that "a creditable pollution abatement job can be done on the Potomac River if everyone approaches the task in the manner" requested by the river basin's interstate commission.

Lane, speaking at a commission dinner meeting, said the group "requests a mutual study of the problems involved and the co-operation of industry, public and private, in working out a solution."

She has a 34-inch bust, 24-inch waist and 36-inch hips. The brown-haired, hazel-eyed winner has had dancing instruction for 14 years.

For a stird straight night the girls from 43 states, nine cities, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and Canada appeared in preliminary bathing suit, evening gown and talent contests.

Only 15 will be chosen for tonight's final. From them a new Miss America will be selected.

Selections are not made on a comparison basis. One judge does not know how the other votes. A pair of public accountants tally the votes at the conclusion of each event. In the preliminaries winners of bathing suit and talent divisions are announced, but no public decision is made for the evening gown competition.

The six girls virtually were assured places among tonight's 15 finalists. That select group will share in $25,000 worth of scholarships with the top prize of $5,000 going to the new Miss America.

For the first time in the pageant's 22 years, an additional prize will go to the beauty queen. She will be awarded a $3,000 automobile by one of the scholarship sponsors.

The Majestic was ordered to cease Sunday operation Wednesday when Sheriff Edward R. Muir and Deputy William Chappell went to Bishield's home and said they "had orders" to close the place if it opens Sunday.

This action followed the last Sunday night closing of the Potomac Drive-In Theater at Cresaptown by the sheriff and his deputy. A formal charge was lodged against Kenneth Baker, operator of the Drive-In, and he is at liberty under $500 bond pending a hearing at a date to be set.

The Drive-In and Mt. Savage Majestic are the only theaters in the county operating on Sunday outside incorporated communities. Theaters in Cumberland, Frostburg, Lonaconing, Westernport, Luke, and Midland operate under local town ordinances passed by the respective mayors and councils.

Other Movie Men Protest

Ronald Clark, who operates a picture house at Midland, said, "I think it is a one-sided situation and I certainly feel every theater operator should have the right to run his business the same as every other picture house."

William Spates, of the Frostburg theaters, said last night, "We have made no complaints and believe anyone who makes an investment in a business should have the right to run his business the same as others in the field." Spates was asked if he would sign a petition urging that the Mt. Savage Majestic and Potomac Drive-In be permitted to operate, and he declared, "We certainly would. We believe in a fair deal for everybody."

The action of the state's attorney in closing the Drive-In and the Majestic has aroused more comment throughout the county than any other subject in many months, observers declared last night. Some are even predicting that this might be the beginning of the end of Sunday baseball, basketball and other normal Sunday recreation. Clergymen who bitterly fought the innovation of Sunday movies in the county now speak of the injustice which has grown out of the Sunday movie law and condemn the current action as "unfair."

Law May Be Tested

It was indicated yesterday that an effort may be made to challenge the legality of the Cumberland Sunday motion picture ordinance, on the grounds that it was not published in newspapers as required by law when it was amended and re-enacted to change the time of picture shows.

An effort was made to get an opinion from Mayor Thomas S. Post on this question, but he is out of the city attending a meeting at Hagerstown on river sanitation and flood control.

City Solicitor Thomas B. Finan said he has had no occasion to check the question.

The State's Attorney is out of the city and is not expected to return until Monday, people close to him indicated.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 10—(INS)—Welcome back to Hollywood, Rita.

Rita Hayworth will arrive from Europe early tomorrow, ready for work. I happen to know that she will star "Sirocco" for Charles Vidor before she makes "Lona Hansen."

Ann Sheridan

"Sirocco" is the story Vidor has been working on and is an adventure tale about the French foreign legion. The author, Joseph Kessell, is in town and he has had a number of conferences at Columbia, with Harry Cohn, of course.

This story would be perfect for Robert Taylor, and I have a hunch he may be loaned to Columbia to co-star with Rita. Wouldn't they be a handsome pair? Now don't tell I told you this, but I happen to know it's a big possibility, and negotiations will soon be started.

Darryl Zanuck, who continues to amaze me, the way he works and the intensity he puts into his job, says he is having the rushes from Tyrone Power's picture, "Prince of Foxes," flown here to him daily. While I was talking to him he was waiting for long distance calls from both Germany and Rome.

He said Tyrone Power never mentioned his marriage to Linda Christian until the newspapers carried the denial.

Darryl told me that 20th has rented a hotel on the outskirts of Heidelberg, Germany, for the "I Married a Male War Bride" company. He said that Cary Grant and Ann Sheridan have already gone to Germany and they are, of course, in the American zone, under military supervision.

If all the stories MGM producers want for Clark Gable were put end to end, they would reach from here to New York and back again. But "Any Number Can Play," a he-man yarn about a father and son who are gamblers, sounds very Gable-like and that's what Arthur Freed, its producer, believes, so he is having it prepared, hoping Clark will agree with him.

Perhaps you remember "Any Number Can Play" by Edward Harris Heph was bought originally by 20th Century-Fox, then sold to MGM. Richard Richard, who did some fine scripts such as "The Killers" and "Key Largo," has been engaged to write the screen adaptation.

Shirley Temple and Margaret O'Brien made fortunes in having dolls and clothes named for them. Sam Goldwyn has the same idea for seven-year-old Gigi Perreau, who played Teresa Wright as a little girl in "Enchantment," and is with Claudette Colbert in "Family Honeymoon." Sam's calling the little girl's clothes "Enchantment Dresses."

Gigi, who is an enchanting little girl, has a seven-year contract with Goldwyn, who has given her the role of Joan Evans' little sister in "Roseanna McCoy." By the way, all the Hatfield and McCoy descendents are offering to shoot it out in this picture, which is the story of their historical feud.

Eddie Norris and Sheila Ryan have parted again. At least, that's the way it was at Charlie Foy's a few nights ago when he told all who would listen that he was an unhappy man, that Sheila had left him again. She is his third wife.

Betsy Drake now in New York, canceled her passage on the Queen Mary just a few hours before sailing, because of publicity. She's flying to England later.

Jimmy Horne, twin brother of Mrs. Jackie Cooper, and son of the well-known director, was married this morning. His bride is Ann Frederickson, and the marriage took place on the "Bride and Groom" program. They celebrated later at Ciro's and will fly to Canada tomorrow morning on a honeymoon.

Ted Briskin cabled from London that Betty Hutton's opening was sensational and that the press was wonderful to her. There wasn't a seat to be had at the Palladium.

When someone asked Victor Mature how marriage had changed him, he said, "Well, I now wear socks that match."

Bob Arthur, who was so good in "Green Grass of Wyoming," and Betty Lynn are stargazing.

Steve Hannagan stopped in the Brown Derby while we were having luncheon. He said if Ann Sheridan isn't back by Christmas, he will fly to see her.

Advice To The Lovelorn

These Teen-Age Girls Are Making Mountain Out Of A Molehill

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My girl friend and I are both 18 and we have been going out together with two boys either in a crowd or on double dates.

Lately I have begun to think that I like my girl friend's boy friend better than mine though I like him too. My girl friend doesn't know I like her boy friend so much and besides, she trusts me because we are best friends. Anyway, I don't show him I like him because I don't want to like him.

One reason why I find this disturbing is that when we were 14 we both had boy friends and somehow I got to like her boy friend better than my own. I didn't tell her that time either but it always made me feel guilty and I tried to avoid seeing him because I felt like a heel.

Now the same thing has happened again and I don't want my girl friend or her boy friend either to know I like him. It might end our friendship and my girl friend wouldn't ever trust me again. I wouldn't want to hurt my boy friend either by letting him know that I like the other boy better. Please help me in this situation as I don't want to hurt anyone.

"TROUBLED"

Dear "Troubled":

What I think you are doing is making a great big mountain out of a very small molehill. You may not believe me but you and your girl friend are not going to be permanently concerned about these two boys. They just happen to be a couple of chaps who are passing through your lives and will be succeeded by another couple and probably several more couples before either of you is ready to make anything serious of it. That is the natural way for things to be at your age.

So if I were you, I would stop worrying immediately and just have as good times as you can altogether while the foursome lasts without doing so much analyzing of who likes whom best.

Invite Him To Your Party

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I would like to have a party to celebrate my 19th birthday and I want to invite a fellow I used to go with. But I don't know if I should because we had a misunderstanding and broke up.

I wrote him a letter telling him how much I cared for him but never received an answer. I don't think he cares for me and I think by asking him to come to my party it might patch things up again. When I see him around, he just says hello and never stops to talk about the letter I wrote him. Since we broke up, his boy friend doesn't even say hello.

Please tell me if I should invite him or not and if so, how should I go about asking him?

"UNDECIDED"

Dear "Undecided":

It seems to me that your boy friend has shown you pretty plainly that he is not much interested in patching things up, but of course if you want to make another try, there is no harm in that. Perhaps you are right and if you asked him to the party, it might do the trick. As for how to ask him, I suppose you are afraid that if you just wrote him a note, it will suffer the same fate as your other letter. So why don't you try calling him up and without getting serious or referring in any way to your misunderstanding, just tell him that you are giving a party and would like to have him come. You'll certainly be able to tell by the way he acts when you call him up whether there is any hope for you and if he brushes you off, you'd better just accept the fact that there's nothing more you can do about it.

Red Barber Back On Radio; "Whiz Quiz" In Debut

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Sept. 10—Red Barber, who has been ailing for some weeks is due back to his regular CBS schedule on Saturday. He hopes he is well enough recovered. He has two shows, the 10 a. m. sports quiz and the 6:30 p. m. Catbird seat observations on sports.

The quota of quizzes on the radio apparently still needs some more filling in the opinion of ABC and a sponsor. So they are readying what they call the "Whiz Quiz" for a start at 10. This is the spot previously occupied by Prof Quiz.

The first of a two-part series of interviews on the question of "What Are the Causes of Industrial Peace," will be made available in Cross Section of CBS at 3:30.

Horse racing usually gets some Saturday matinee attention, and this week is no exception. Three hookups, NBC, CBS and MBS, have listed for description at 4:15 the Beldame handicap at Aqueduct, while ABC, just to be different, goes to Atlantic City for the Olympic handicap at 4:30.

Ralph Norman is to conduct the ABC symphony hour at 3:30. Earl Wild plays piano . . . E. Robert Schmitz is to guest piano for the NBC Symphony at 6:30 as Hans Lange does the conducting.

Old Ship Beats Sea

DARWIN, Australia — (AP) — Outside Darwin harbor the other night, Captain Tom Eschelby, master of the freighter Phoenix, shaved off his beard and trimmed his long curls. It was just three months after Captain Tom had left Darwin to transport supplies and equipment to the Australian-American scientific expedition in Arnhem Land. Naturally his beard and hair had grown in that time.

The Phoenix before the war was a barge that carried beer along the Swan River at Perth. War came. She was drafted to a battle station at Darwin, and survived Japanese air raids. The war ended and Captain Tom bought her for $32.50, painted her 60 feet of squat ugliness, fitted her with a diesel engine.

The Australian and American scientists from the Smithsonian Institution called on Captain Tom and his Phoenix. She hit a rock outcrop above Skirmish Point on the Northern Arnhem Land coast. When the seas moderated they cut away the Phoenix's stem where she was fastened to the rocks. From then on, sometimes making only one knot, she battled on against heavy weather. The 80 tons of valuable cargo aboard groaned and moved. Sharks cruised by. She took three months to the day to cover 1200 miles.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Bats, Singing Commercials And Jukeboxes

My brief tussle with the independent stations has pretty well confirmed a suspicion I've long held, namely that there is a lot of unsung talent on them. This isn't entirely surprising in light of the fact that Dinah Shore and Frank Sinatra used to sing duets in blissful obscurity over WNEW in New York, that Arthur Godfrey was just an early morning disk jockey in Washington not so many years ago and that Henry Morgan used to talk nonsense over a local independent at 10 in the morning. New York's independents boast announcers, singers and even—bless us all—comedians who sound just as good and a lot fresher than some of the 30-point Hooper entertainers. Fame in radio, it appears, depends less on talent than on wattage. If you're on 170 stations you're 170 times as famous but not anywhere near 170 times as good.

John Crosby

The singing commercial blossoms on the independent more flagrantly than anywhere else and, while I don't plan to go into the subject fully at this time, I'd like to say a word about just one singing commercial. This one has distressed me all summer because it doesn't scan properly. There's something the matter with this singing commercial and, after lying awake a good many nights, I've finally figured out what it is. There's one word in there that doesn't belong there. I have taken it out and it sings much better this way:

Border to border and shore to shore
More people are smoking than ever before.

The word that had to be dropped is, I'm afraid, the brand name of the cigarette. I'm sorry about this, R. J. Reynolds, but that word wrecks the meter.

More, more, more, more.
More people are smoking than ever before.

Has a lot more bounce that way, don't you think?

Just one more small story which has only a vague relationship with independent stations. One station—and I don't know which one—persists in playing an old twelve-inch record by Benny Goodman of "More Than You Know." Well, there's a summer cottage near here whose chimney is infested with bats and the man who lives there says this old Benny Goodman record has a startling effect on the bats. They come out of the chimney and swoop around the living room every time the record is played. The bats won't budge for any other record, just "More Than You Know." The man has tried other recordings of "More Than You Know" but the bats pay no attention. They insist on Goodman.

After brooding about it for some time, the man has reached the conclusion it has something to do with radar. Bats, he points out, are supposed to have their own private radar system which keeps them from bumping into things. Mr. Goodman's clarinet—right here the man starts waving his arms around excitedly — probably has struck the one note which upsets the radar system, makes the bats think walls are closing in all around them, drives them into wild, radarless flight.

"If we can just put this thing on a scientific basis," he babbles, "just think of the effect on national security. That clarinet could drive the guided missiles right back to Moscow." Last time I saw the man he was thinking of making a short trip to the Pentagon. Fair warning, Secretary Forrestal.

In the ten years I've been coming to this lovely beach, Fire Island hasn't changed much except in one respect which out here assumes unusual importance. I refer to the jukeboxes. The juke boxes of ten years ago, imposing and wonderfully complicated in their day, were horse and buggy contraptions next to the staggering mechanisms that operate here now. The old ones used to play what ever they pleased, irregardless of what number you punched; sometimes, when they felt tired, they stopped playing entirely and just glared at the customers.

The new jobs are more docile, but have, I feel, less character. They digest your nickel, make electric calculations, never make mistakes, never break down and do everything but stir the martinis. This evidence of progress stops abruptly at the machine or mechanistic level. When you come to make your selections, you find among others "Love Thy Neighbor," an old Bing Crosby record I used to play in high school: "Mississippi Mud," a tune I first heard when I was in knee pants, and "Sunrise Boogie," which used to be known as "Sunrise Serenade." (Well, they've brought the tempo up to date, anyhow.)

The composers appear to have lagged behind the machine. Or perhaps with such agile machinery, composers aren't needed any more. The jukebox of the future, I predict, won't play melodies at all, just do card tricks with the Andrews Sisters records. Keep six of them in the air at once and catch them in their teeth, probably.

When you come to make your selections, you find among others "Love Thy Neighbor," an old Bing Crosby record I used to play in high school; "Mississippi Mud," a tune I first heard when I was in knee pants, and "Sunrise Boogie," which used to be known as "Sunrise Serenade." (Well, they've brought the tempo up to date, anyhow.)

The composers appear to have lagged behind the machine. Or perhaps with such agile machinery, composers aren't needed any more. The jukebox of the future, I predict, won't play melodies at all, just do card tricks with the Andrews Sisters records. Keep six of them in the air at once and catch them in their teeth, probably.

In Memoriam

In memory of our dear daughter and sister, Mrs. Catherine Landis Lemon, who passed away thirteen (13) years ago today, Sept. 11, 1948.

Your memory is as dear today
As in the hour you passed away.
To have, to hold and then to part,
Is the greatest sorrow of our hearts.

And free from care and pain,
This world would seem like heaven
If we had you back again.

Sadly missed by her
Mother, Father, Sisters and Brother.

Card of Thanks

We wish to take this opportunity to express our sincere thanks and appreciation for the kindness and sympathy shown us during the illness and following the death of our beloved daughter and sister, Geraldine Brown. We wish to thank Rev. Maring, the Dunlap family. Also wish to thank those who sent floral tributes and those who furnished cars for the service.

Mrs. Della Brown, Son and Daughter.

In Memoriam

In memory of our dear daughter and sister, Mrs. Catherine Landis Lemon, who passed away thirteen (13) years ago today, Sept. 11, 1948.

Your memory is as dear today
As in the hour you passed away,
To have, to hold and then to part,
Is the greatest sorrow of our hearts.

Although your soul is now at rest,
And free from care and pain,
This world would seem like heaven
If we had you back again.

Sadly missed by her

Card of Thanks

We wish to take this opportunity to express our sincere thanks and appreciation for the kindness and sympathy shown us during the illness and following the death of our beloved daughter and sister, Geraldine Brown. We wish to thank Rev. Maring, the Dunlap family. Also wish to thank those who sent floral tributes and those who furnished cars for the service.

Mrs. Della Brown, Son and Daughter.

Late Rally Snaps Irregularly Lower Market Out Of Its Downward Trend

NEW YORK, Sept. 10—(AP)—An irregularly lower stock market was snapped out of its downward trend today by a late rally that left it virtually unchanged on the day.

Today there were no news developments of marked significance so far as the market was concerned.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advance .1 of a point. Industrials and rails each also advanced .1 of a point while utilities declined .1 of a point.

The total number of shares traded was 970,000, also the second highest for the short week.

Steel shares came up from their lows of the day with United States Steel closing off three-eighth at 78¾ while Youngstown Steel & Tube was up one at 81½ and Bethlehem gained one-fourth at 36¼.

Some relatively wide additions were made by Mission Corporation up 1¼ at 54¾ and American Smelting up the same amount at 56¼. General Electric rose seven-eighth to 40⅝ on an increased dividend.

Although General Motors was down slightly, Chrysler, Packard and Studebaker gained. In the mail order field it was somewhat similar with Montgomery Ward down and Sears Roebuck up.

Stocks started off the day in a highly mixed manner out of which grew an upward movement. Around midday that was cut down into a definitely lower swing accompanied by an expansion of volume.

From then to near the close there was a drift rippled by somewhat frequent fractional changes in either direction. The final rally among leading issues, however, pulled the trend over to the advancing side.

Property Sold For $15,000

A deed for sale of two Mapleside lots by Harry L. Couter, executor of the estate of Mrs. Virgie V. Couter, to Alice M. Manges, trustee for six of Mrs. Couter's children and their respective spouses, was recorded in the land records office at the Court House.

The amount of sale was $15,000. The two lots, Nos. 4 and 5 in Reinhart's and Chaney's Additions, were sold to Mrs. Manges with the stipulation that she would later deed them back to six of the executors.

The executors were listed as Harry L. Couter and Albert H. Couter, both of Washington; Earl J. Couter and his wife, Catherine M. Couter; Rena P. Keyser and her husband, Thomas R. Keyser; Ruth N. Pardew and her husband, Carroll Pardew; Mary E. Hartman and her husband, Charles H. Hartman; Wilson R. Couter and his wife, Mary Couter.

Mrs. Manges was listed as trustee for Harry, Albert, Earl and Catherine Couter and Mr. and Mrs. Keyser.

County Board Is Billed For Costs In Liquor Case

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners was asked by the state auditor yesterday to pay court costs in the case of Eldred A. Cromwell against the late Clerk of Court Robert Jackson over issuance of a liquor license.

The Cromwell case resulted in the 1933 Allegany county liquor law being declared unconstitutional by Circuit Court here. After the case was completed the costs of $322.88 in the case were paid by Jackson in his capacity of clerk of court.

The state auditor's request today was to the effect that the county board should pay the costs as the payment by Jackson was made with state money. All fees collected by the clerk of court, with the exception of necessary expenses and certain fees which the county obtains by law, are turned over to the state.

The state auditor is asking that the costs paid by Jackson be disallowed and the county board be required to pay the costs. John T. Fey, attorney to the board, said that an opinion of Attorney General Hall Hammond, would be sought in the matter.

Fey said that in his opinion the county board was not liable as the county was not an intervenor in the legal action and its only connection with the case was obtaining fees from liquor licenses.

Ray F. Van Horn asked the commissioners to do something about water washing across Brice Hollow Road near his home. The request was referred to John J. Smith, acting county engineer.

Coal Cleaning Plants Seen In Area Soon

Small coal operators in Western Maryland will soon be forced to install cleaning plants if they are to meet large company competition in the area, William J. Morgan, secretary of the United Mine Workers of America, District 16, said yesterday.

A slight decline in the coal market throughout this area was reported yesterday for small operations in Allegany and Garrett Counties in Maryland, and Tucker, Grant and Mineral Counties in West Virginia.

The only coal cleaning plant in this area is located at Bayard, W. Va., according to Morgan, and the competition for large operations that are able to clean and grade coal is begininng to envelope the smaller dealers.

The local market is also proving fertile ground to the large operations becaouse supplies formerly exported are now available to the local consumers which gives them a chance to be choosy about the coal they purchase.

MICHAEL APPEALS PRISON SENTENCE

Henry Michael, 38, of McCoole, who was sentenced to two years in the Maryland House of Correction Wednesday in Juvenile Court on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, Thursday took an appeal.

Michael and his teen-age bride of 14 were separated Tuesday after their marriage last Saturday in Oakland. The young bride was sentenced to Montrose School for Girls for an indefinite period.

At the time of their arrest, Michael produced a marriage certificate obtained in Garrett County which showed the girl had given her age as 18. He said they were married in Red House by Rev. Alvah K. Jones.

AAUW PLANS PICNIC MEETING TODAY

Arrangements are being completed for the first general fall meeting of Cumberland branch, American Association of University Women, to be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the form of a picnic outing at the farm home of Mrs. John J. Hafer near Frostburg.

Mrs. C. Erich Roeder, social chairman, said the program will include an outline by the various chairmen of their plans for activities during the year. The presentations will be made through mock radio skits.

A picnic supper will be served after the program, with the Misses Ruth McColly and Yola Hudson in charge. They are being assisted by Miss Evelyn Miller, Miss Ruth Clauson, Miss Dorothy Dunkle, Mrs. Henry Swearingen, Miss Mildred Willison, Miss Helen McFerran, Mrs. Ralph Webster and Miss Lola Burrall.

Husbands Sentenced In Assault Cases

Leo M. Walizer, Corriganville, pleaded guilty today in Trial Magistrates' Court to assaulting his wife, Mrs. Hazel Walizer, and was given a suspended 30-day jail sentence.

Magistrate Frank A. Perdew paroled Walizer for one year and ordered him to refrain from the use of intoxicants and stop abusing his wife.

Another husband, John W. Crabtree, Picardy, drew a suspended sentence of six months in the Maryland House of Correction yesterday afternoon on a similar charge preferred by his wife, Mrs. Zada Crabtree. He entered plea of guilty.

Late Rally Snaps Irregularly Lower Market Out Of Its Downward Trend

NEW YORK, Sept. 10—(AP)—An irregularly lower stock market was snapped out of its downward trend today by a late rally that left it virtually unchanged on the day.

Today there were no news developments of marked significance so far as the market was concerned.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advance .1 of a point. Industrials and rails each also advanced .1 of a point while utilities declined .1 of a point.

The total number of shares traded was 970,000, also the second highest for the short week.

Steel shares came up from their lows of the day with United States Steel closing off three-eighth at 78¾ while Youngstown Steel & Tube was up one at 81½ and Bethlehem gained one-fourth at 36¼.

Some relatively wide additions were made by Mission Corporation up 1¼ at 54¾ and American Smelting up the same amount at 56¼. General Electric rose seven-eighth to 40⅝ on an increased dividend.

Although General Motors was down slightly, Chrysler, Packard and Studebaker gained. In the mail order field it was somewhat similar with Montgomery Ward down and Sears Roebuck up.

Stocks started off the day in a highly mixed manner out of which grew an upward movement. Around midday that was cut down into a definitely lower swing accompanied by an expansion of volume.

From then to near the close there was a drift rippled by somewhat frequent fractional changes in either direction. The final rally among leading issues, however, pulled the trend over to the advancing side.

Government bond prices continued their slow slide in market, many holding at or near support levels in over-the-counter dealings.

County Board Is Billed For Costs In Liquor Case

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners was asked by the state auditor yesterday to pay court costs in the case of Eldred A. Cromwell against the late Clerk of Court Robert Jackson over issuance of a liquor license.

The Cromwell case resulted in the 1933 Allegany county liquor law being declared unconstitutional by Circuit Court here. After the case was completed the costs of $322.88 in the case were paid by Jackson in his capacity of clerk of court.

The state auditor's request today was to the effect that the county board should pay the costs as the payment by Jackson was made with state money. All fees collected by the clerk of court, with the exception of necessary expenses and certain fees which the county obtains by law, are turned over to the state.

The state auditor is asking that the costs paid by Jackson be disallowed and the county board be required to pay the costs. John T. Fey, attorney to the board, said that an opinion of Attorney General Hall Hammond, would be sought in the matter.

Fey said that in his opinion the county board was not liable as the county was not an intervenor in the legal action and its only connection with the case was obtaining fees from liquor licenses.

Ray P. Van Horn asked the commissioners to do something about water washing across Brice Hollow Road near his home. The request was referred to John J. Smith, acting county engineer.

Coal Cleaning Plants Seen In Area Soon

Small coal operators in Western Maryland will soon be forced to install cleaning plants if they are to meet large company competition in the area, William J. Morgan, secretary of the United Mine Workers of America, District 16, said yesterday.

A slight decline in the coal market throughout this area was reported yesterday for small operations in Allegany and Garrett Counties in Maryland, and Tucker, Grant and Mineral Counties in West Virginia.

The only coal cleaning plant in this area is located at Bayard, W. Va., according to Morgan, and the competition for large operations that are able to clean and grade coal is begininng to envelope the smaller dealers.

The local market is also proving fertile ground to the large operations because supplies formerly exported are now available to the local consumers which gives them a chance to be choosy about the coal they purchase.

Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., Named Judge In Fourth Judicial Circuit Of Md.

Appointed To Fill Unexpired Term Of Judge W. A. Huster

Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., local trial magistrate and chairman of the Allegany County Democratic State Central Committee, yesterday named associate judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit by Governor William Preston Lane, Jr.

Bruce, a former president of the Allegany County Bar Association, will succeed Chief Judge William A. Huster whose retirement is effective Sunday, when he becomes 70 years of age.

One of six Allegany County attorneys recommanded by the State Bar Association, Bruce will serve in the circuit with Judges Joseph D. Mish, Washington County, and George Henderson, Allegany County.

Mish To Be Chief Judge

Bruce has been a trial magistrate in Cumberland since 1939. Prior to that he practiced law in this county after serving as a justice of the peace in the Cumberland Police Court from 1917 to 1927.

Married and the father of two sons, both of whom are now serving in the armed forces, the newly appointed judge began his career as a lawyer after being graduated from Dickinson College's School of Law where he received his L.L.B. degree. He was admitted to the bar in 1910.

A native of Westernport, where he was born in 1882, Bruce received his primary education in that community, where his father, the late Oliver H. Bruce, served as principal of the high school for 48 years.

Term Expires In 1950

Bruce, an ardent Democrat has served as head of the party's State Central Committee in this county for a number of years. He headed the county campaign for the Roosevelt-Garner presidential ticket in 1932.

Bruce's term on the Fourth Judicial bench will run to 1950 by virtue of the fact that he is filling the unexpired term of Judge Huster. At that time the position will be filled by an elected candidate.

Before being admitted to the bar, he was employed for two years—1905 and 1906 in a clerical capacity on first, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and then on the Western Maryland Railway.

He presently holds membership in the B.P.O. Elks, is a Fourth Degree member of the Knights of Columbus, the Loyal Order of Moose, Maryland's Historical Society, and both the county and state bar associations, as well as the Holy Name Society.

His wife is the former Margaret L. Kavanaugh, whom he married in 1913. They reside at 224 Fayette Street.

Bruce's successor in Trial Magistrates Court has not been named.

Maryland Legion Votes To Demand $500 State Bonus

Frostburg Post Introduces Bill

OCEAN CITY, Md., Sept. 10 (AP)—There was opposition and sharp debate, but Maryland American Legion members voted at their state convention today to demand a state bonus up to $500 for World War II veterans.

The proposal was passed by a voice vote after two hours of discussion and parliamentary maneuvering.

It was sent back to the resolutions committee at one point for adjustment of clauses which would set the requirements for eligibility.

The proposed bonus would grant to eligible veterans payments of $10 for each month of domestic service and $15 for every month of foreign duty between September 16, 1940, and September 2, 1945. The maximum payment, in any case, would be $500.

When the important test vote came, on a motion to table it, 77 delegations voted against tabling and only 21 were in favor of killing the proposal.

The resolution first was submitted by the Frostburg Post and went to the Resolutions Committee along with a similar measure from another unit.

Bel Air Opposes Move

When is was reported out to the floor, Charles Reed, a World War II veteran from Bel Air, spoke in opposition.

He said Maryland is not in a financial position to pay such a bonus. The fact that the state has to have a sales tax, he said, indicates it doesn't have enough resources to pay a bonus.

The legion, he declared, is not meeting its responsibilities to the community as a whole if it demands a bonus. Besides, he said, it would result in higher living costs.

He said his organization took a poll and found 45,000 state veterans are in favor of the bonus.

It is the sales tax, he declared, that has given Maryland enough revenue so it is able to pay a bonus. The state this year expects to take in $13,000,000 more revenue than it did last year, he argued, and promises to have a $25,730,000 surplus when the fiscal year ends next July 1.

Seeks War I Bonus

Nelson G. Tyman, 50-year-old veteran of both World Wars and a member of the Cheverly Post in the Prince Georges County suburbs of Washington, proposed an amendment extending the bonus to World War I veterans.

Discussion of this proposal held up the vote and Tyman finally agreed to withdraw it. He served notice, however, that he will introduce a separate resolution calling for a World War I bonus before the convention ends Sunday noon.

Saturday is the meeting's big day, with a drum and bugle corps contest, a demonstration of aerial war-

Baby Rushed To Baltimore With Poliomyelitis

Dale Middleton Is Third County Victim

A 14-month-old East Side boy was rushed to Sydenham Hospital, Baltimore, yesterday morning suffering from poliomyelitis. He is the county's third and the city's second infantile paralysis case this year.

The child, Dale Middleton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl H. Middleton, 707 Lincoln Street, became drowsy about noon Thursday and seemed to have difficulty in moving his feet, his parents said. Since Dale was wearing a new pair of shoes, his parents at first were not worried.

At about 6 p. m., however, Dale lost all power and co-ordination in his legs. The Middletons then called a local physician, who expressed his belief the child had polio. He was rushed to Memorial Hospital for a spinal fluid test, which confirmed the doctor's diagnosis.

Dale was rushed to Sydenham Hospital at 9 a. m. yesterday in the State Police ambulance. His parents went to Baltimore with him.

The other two cases in the county both developed in the past two weeks, county health officials said yesterday. Mrs. Marjorie Fletcher, 24, Braddock Road, is still a patient in Sydenham Hospital, and Sue Crabtree, Westernport, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dayson Crabtree, Westernport, is undergoing treatment at her home.

Health officials said the polio condition in the county is much better this year than it was last year at the same time, pointing out that there were or had been 13 cases in the county at this time last year.

TALENT-- Miss Juanita Melrose Lookabaugh, Narrows Park, one of the three youngest contestants in the Miss America Pageant at Atlantic City, is seen here in a bathing suit of Hawaiian motif which she designed and made for her dance number in the talent contest. Entered as "Miss Maryland," Miss Lookabaugh appeared last night in the third phase, with 17 other girls in the bathing suit revue.

Miss America Pageant Winner Will Be Selected Late Tonight

Juanita Lookabaugh Has Chance At Prize

Miss Juanita Lookabaugh, "Miss Maryland," made her final appearance in competition last night in the Miss America pageant in the bathing suit phase of the contest, as the ninth to appear in her group of 18 girls.

With many of the audience remembering Miss Lookabaugh's appearance in talent the night before, she was greeted with a roar of applause as she walked down the runway.

Believed to be among the top scoring girls, Miss Lookabaugh failed to break into the ranks of announced division winners, and still has an excellent chance to be among the top 15 prize winners, since it is the accumulated point score that counts.

Yesterday, Miss Lookabaugh greeted her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Lookabaugh, who registered at the Morton Hotel to be on hand for the final phase of the contest and the crowning of the new Miss America tonight.

Juanita recevied several telegrams wishing her luck and success. One was from Capt. John Burk, who served as her aide and escort when she was a guest of the 115th Regiment National Guard at Camp Ritchie. Others were sent by last year's Miss Maryland, Miss Jean Dixon; Radio Station WCUM; and another was signed, "All Your Neighbors in Narrows Park."

Mt. Savage Citizens Plan Theater Mass Meeting

Residents To Protest Sunday Closing Order

A rally of citizens of Mt. Savage and other parts of Allegany County will be held in the Majestic Theater at Mt. Savage tomorrow at 8:30 p. m. to protest the Sunday closing of the Mt. Savage motion picture house and the Potomac Drive-In Theater by the state's attorney.

A citizens committee, representing veterans organizations, volunteer firemen, business houses, and others was being formed in Mt. Savage last night, and invitations are being made to officials and a number of prominent people in the county, to attend the meeting.

Members of the Allegany County delegation to the General Assembly are invited to the meeting, along with county commissioners, and representatives of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and other civic, patriotic and fraternal groups.

The purpose of the meeting is to demonstrate the indignation of the townspeople on the closing of the only recreation and amusement center in the town, and to attempt to devise a means by which the theater can operate legally.

Ask Commissioners Aid

Yesterday, Mrs. Yolanda Bishields Hutzell and her sisted, Mrs. Matilda Norris, appeared before the County Commissioners here and appealed for assistance.

Mrs. Hutzell explained that she and her brother, George Bishields, operate the Majestic Theater in Mt. Savage and have run two shows each Sunday, one in the afternoon and the other at night, for more than 10 years.

The young woman asked the Commissioners if the Board can pass an order legalizing Sunday movies in unincorporated areas, since the law does permit governing bodies of towns and municipalities to legalize Sunday operation.

John T. Fey, attorney to the Board and a member of the House of Delegates, checked the law and found that the Commissioners are not empowered to take such action.

Commissioner William H. Lemmert, Frostburg, and Commissioner James Holmes, Lonaconing, expressed their sympathy toward theater operators in outlying areas, but said the Board is powerless to help.

It's A Good Question

During the discussion, Commissioner Lemmert said it appears odd that the state's attorney has just discovered the Mt. Savage Theater has been operating on Sunday.

Commissioner Holmes, in reply to Mrs. Hutzell's querry, "Why didn't the state's attorney stop us before?" said, "It's a good question."

Attorney Fey and the two commissioners recommended that all members of the county delegation to the General Assembly be contacted so the law can be amended to legalize Sunday movies throughout the entire county, or to enable the County Commissioners to handle the situation by some equitable method.

All three, as did Clerk to the Board James Stevenson, agreed repeatedly that "everyone should be treated fairly, and no business should be penalized because it happens to be outside a corporate limit."

Circulate Petition

People in Mt. Savage are bitter and vehement in their comment over the action. A petition is being circulated protesting the closing of the Majestic and the Potomac Drive-In, and urging legislative action to eliminate the inequity.

Even people opposed to Sunday movies are signing the petition because their indignation rises when they realize that some can operate and others must close, merely because of a technicality in the law.

One prominent Mt. Savage resident said, "This thing borders on the police state method."

Another, a World War II veteran, said, "And I helped fight a war to protect freedom and democracy. This thing is dicatorship, purely and simply."

A business man said, "I do not think any official or group of officials should use technicalities in the law to favor some and hinder others in the right of free enterprise."

Bishields said yesterday he has never operated his theater in anything but a proper manner. Sunday shows have always been conducted so as not to interfere with church services in the community. The afternoon show runs between the hours of 2 and 5 p. m. and the night film is exhibited between 8:30 and 11 p. m.

Family Sleeps As 'Guest' Has Coffee

An unwelcome guest had breakfast at the home of Mrs. C. C. Chaney, Wempe Drive extended, yesterday morning and police got stuck—in the mud.

Police used five vehicles and about three hours of time trying to reach the residence, after the Chaney family awoke at 7:30 a. m. to find that someone had cleaned out the icebox and made coffee while they slept.

Police dispatched the first cruiser immediately after being notified of the breaking. Within 15 minutes a radio message came into headquarters that the car was stuck on a muddy road.

A towing truck was ordered to the scene. It got stuck, too. About three hours after the initial report was received the mired down cruisers and one tow truck were freed by a second tow truck sent to the scene.

A third cruiser ordered to the home shortly before the other vehicles were freed arrived at the Chaney home, investigated the free breakfast and reported that the intruder left behind an "old blue shirt" and a coat.

The downstairs was completely ransacked, the officer said, and a bundle of children's clothing was carried from the cellar to the kitchen but apparently forgotten after the intruder got a full meal.

The question that puzzled everyone was how did the third cruiser get to the home without getting stuck in the mud. The officer said it was simple. "I went down one more block on the hard surfaced road, made a right turn. There the home was."

Man Seeks $2,000 For Wrecked Auto

Suit was docketed in Circuit Court yesterday by Robert M. Hughes for $2,000 damages against the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, as the result of a train hitting and demolishing Hughes' automobile.

According to the suit, filed by Robert MacDonald Bruce and Matthew J. Mullaney, Train No. 79, westbound, struck Hughes' machine at the Franklin Street crossing at 3:40 a. m. last March 28.

Hughes claims the watchman failed to give a warning as he started across the tracks in his sedan, and the train bore down on him and wrecked the car.

The plaintiff claims he is an independent brick-layer contractor and was working in Corriganville at the time, using his car to travel to and from work and haul tools and material. He says the wrecking of the car resulted in 22 days idleness because of his lack of transportation.

Trooper Involved In Auto Collision

Three motorists, one a Maryland State Policeman, escaped injury yesterday in a three-car collision at Washington Square in Hagerstown, but damage to the vehicles was estimated at $1,200.

Trooper G. M. Rotruck, who was operating a police cruiser, and an automobile operated by Daniel Weiland, Hagerstown, collided, witnesses said, and then both vehicles struck a parked automobile owned by Frank MacDonald.

No charges were preferred pending completion of investigation.

The Weather

The high schools have real foot ball weather for their first game if it would only stop raining long enough so that the teams could run instead of wade. Late last night the thermometer read 57 which was the same as the previous night's low. The highest reading was 8 and the Thursday night "drizzle" netted 1.03 inches of rain. Rainproof blankets would probably be the best bet for pigskin enthusiasts to take care of today's cool and cloudy weather.

Potomac River Commission Gets First Thorough Pollution Report

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Sept. 10 (AP)—An interstate group set up to fight pollution in the Potomac River today got its first thorough-going report on where, how much and why the stream is impure.

Edward R. Cotton, director of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin, presented the results of a year-long survey at a meeting of the Commission.

Cotton said 1,100 samples of water show that in most sections it is still below the first level of purity set by the Commission as its objective.

The group is made up of representatives from Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia.

The pollution study is the result of tests made up and down the Potomac at 56 sampling points, run mostly by municipal and county agencies and industries located along the river.

"The lack of careful checks on impurities in the water has hindered our planning," Cotton explained. "So we initiated this study last year. Now we should be able to make definate progress in planning the control and abatement of pollution in the watershed."

The first result, he said, probably will be a cooperative plan to be worked on by Maryland and West Virginia on the upper reaches of the river, where there are many industries.

Cotton reported such a program already has been formulated. It will be presented to the conference tomorrow. It is likely, he said, that the Commission will adopt it as a recommendation to the two states.

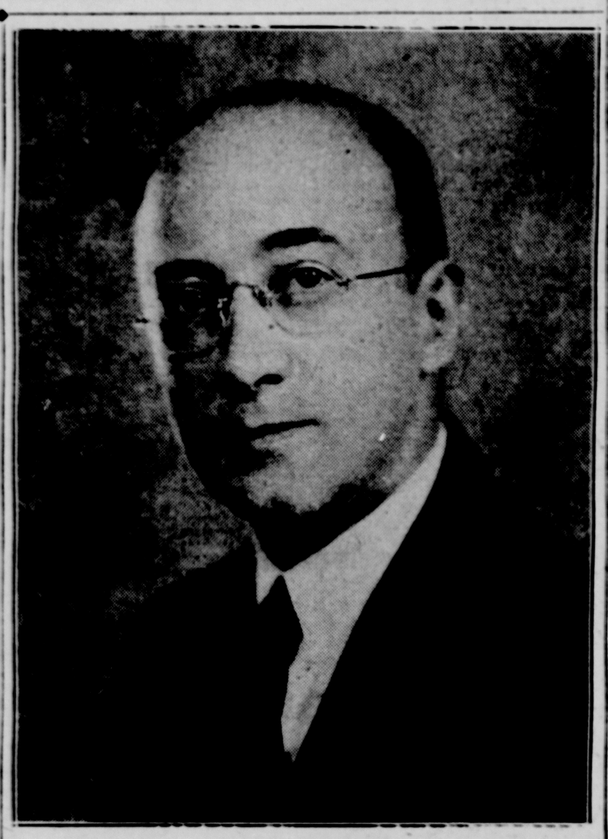
Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., Named Judge In Fourth Judicial Circuit Of Md.

Appointed To Fill Unexpired Term Of Judge W. A. Huster



OLIVER H. BRUCE, JR.

Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., local trial magistrate and chairman of the Allegany County Democratic State Central Committee, yesterday named associate judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit by Governor William Preston Lane, Jr.

Bruce, a former president of the Allegany County Bar Association, will succeed Chief Judge William A. Huster whose retirement is effective Sunday, when he becomes 70 years of age.

One of six Allegany County attorneys recommanded by the State Bar Association, Bruce will serve in the circuit with Judges Joseph D. Mish, Washington County, and George Henderson, Allegany County.

Mish To Be Chief Judge

Bruce has been a trial magistrate in Cumberland since 1939. Prior to that he practiced law in this county after serving as a justice of the peace in the Cumberland Police Court from 1917 to 1927.

Married and the father of two sons, both of whom are now serving in the armed forces, the newly appointed judge began his career as a lawyer after being graduated from Dickinson College's School of Law where he received his L.L.B. degree. He was admitted to the bar in 1910.

A native of Westernport, where he was born in 1882, Bruce received his primary education in that community, where his father, the late Oliver H. Bruce, served as principal of the high school for 48 years.

Term Expires In 1950

Bruce, an ardent Democrat has served as head of the party's State Central Committee in this county for a number of years. He headed the county campaign for the Roosevelt-Garner presidential ticket in 1932.

Bruce's term on the Fourth Judicial bench will run to 1950 by virtue of the fact that he is filling the unexpired term of Judge Huster. At that time the position will be filled by an elected candidate.

Before being admitted to the bar, he was employed for two years—1905 and 1906 in a clerical capacity on first, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and then on the Western Maryland Railway.

He presently holds membership in the B.P.O. Elks, is a Fourth Degree member of the Knights of Columbus, the Loyal Order of Moose, Maryland's Historical Society, and both the county and state bar associations, as well as the Holy Name Society.

His wife is the former Margaret L. Kavanaugh, whom he married in 1913. They reside at 224 Fayette Street.

Bruce's successor in Trial Magistrates Court has not been named.

The Sunday movie tax accounted for $1,176.25 of that amount, with $849.35 from the five-cent bingo admission tax; $444 for general licenses and $5 for produce permits.

Maryland Legion Votes To Demand $500 State Bonus

Frostburg Post Introduces Bill

OCEAN CITY, Md., Sept. 10 (AP)—There was opposition and sharp debate, but Maryland American Legion members voted at their state convention today to demand a state bonus up to $500 for World War II veterans.

The proposal was passed by a voice vote after two hours of discussion and parliamentary maneuvering.

It was sent back to the resolutions committee at one point for adjustment of clauses which would set the requirements for eligibility.

The proposed bonus would grant to eligible veterans payments of $10 for each month of domestic service and $15 for every month of foreign duty between September 16, 1940, and September 2, 1945. The maximum payment, in any case, would be $500.

When the important test vote came, on a motion to table it, 77 delegations voted against tabling and only 21 were in favor of killing the proposal.

The resolution first was submitted by the Frostburg Post and went to the Resolutions Committee along with a similar measure from another unit.

Bel Air Opposes Move

When is was reported out to the floor, Charles Reed, a World War II veteran from Bel Air, spoke in opposition.

He said Maryland is not in a financial position to pay such a bonus. The fact that the state has to have a sales tax, he said, indicates it doesn't have enough resources to pay a bonus.

The legion, he declared, is not meeting its responsibilities to the community as a whole if it demands a bonus. Besides, he said, it would result in higher living costs.

Reed won loud applause for his statement, but it was countered immediately by John F. Rowe, member of the Frostburg Post.

He said his organization took a poll and found 45,000 state veterans are in favor of the bonus.

It is the sales tax, he declared, that has given Maryland enough revenue so it is able to pay a bonus. The state this year expects to take in $13,000,000 more revenue than it did last year, he argued, and promises to have a $25,730,000 surplus when the fiscal year ends next July 1.

Seeks War I Bonus

Nelson G. Tyman, 50-year-old veteran of both World Wars and a member of the Cheverly Post in the Prince Georges County suburbs of Washington, proposed an amendment extending the bonus to World War I veterans.

Discussion of this proposal held up the vote and Tyman finally agreed to withdraw it. He served notice, however, that he will introduce a separate resolution calling for a World War I bonus before the convention ends Sunday noon.

Saturday is the meeting's big day, with a drum and bugle corps contest, a demonstration of aerial war-

Baby Rushed To Baltimore With Poliomyelitis

Dale Middleton Is Third County Victim

A 14-month-old East Side boy was rushed to Sydenham Hospital, Baltimore, yesterday morning suffering from poliomyelitis. He is the county's third and the city's second infantile paralysis case this year.

The child, Dale Middleton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl H. Middleton, 707 Lincoln Street, became drowsy about noon Thursday and seemed to have difficulty in moving his feet, his parents said. Since Dale was wearing a new pair of shoes, his parents at first were not worried.

At about 6 p. m., however, Dale lost all power and co-ordination in his legs. The Middletons then called a local physician, who expressed his belief the child had polio. He was rushed to Memorial Hospital for a spinal fluid test, which confirmed the doctor's diagnosis.

Dale was rushed to Sydenham Hospital at 9 a. m. yesterday in the State Police ambulance. His parents went to Baltimore with him.

The other two cases in the county both developed in the past two weeks, county health officials said yesterday. Mrs. Marjorie Fletcher, 24, Braddock Road, is still a patient in Sydenham Hospital, and Sue Crabtree, Westernport, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dayson Crabtree, Westernport, is undergoing treatment at her home.

Health officials said the polio condition in the county is much better this year than it was last year at the same time, pointing out that there were or had been 13 cases in the county at this time last year.

TALENT—Miss Juanita Melrose Lookabaugh, Narrows Park, one of the three youngest contestants in the Miss America Pageant at Atlantic City, is seen here in a bathing suit of Hawaiian motif which she designed and made for her dance number in the talent contest. Entered as "Miss Maryland," Miss Lookabaugh appeared last night in the third phase, with 17 other girls in the bathing suit revue.

Miss America Pageant Winner Will Be Selected Late Tonight

Juanita Lookabaugh Has Chance At Prize

Miss Juanita Lookabaugh, "Miss Maryland," made her final appearance in competition last night in the Miss America pageant in the bathing suit phase of the contest, as the ninth to appear in her group of 18 girls.

With many of the audience remembering Miss Lookabaugh's appearance in talent the night before, she was greeted with a roar of applause as she walked down the runway.

Believed to be among the top scoring girls, Miss Lookabaugh failed to break into the ranks of announced division winners, and still has an excellent chance to be among the top 15 prize winners, since it is the accumulated point score that counts.

Yesterday, Miss Lookabaugh greeted her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Lookabaugh, who registered at the Morton Hotel to be on hand for the final phase of the contest and the crowning of the new Miss America tonight.

Juanita recevied several telegrams wishing her luck and success. One was from Capt. John Burk, who served as her aide and escort when she was a guest of the 115th Regiment National Guard at Camp Ritchie. Others were sent by last year's Miss Maryland, Miss Jean Dixon; Radio Station WCUM; and another was signed, "All Your Neighbors in Narrows Park."

Mt. Savage Citizens Plan Theater Mass Meeting

Residents To Protest Sunday Closing Order

A rally of citizens of Mt. Savage and other parts of Allegany County will be held in the Majestic Theater at Mt. Savage tomorrow at 8:30 p. m. to protest the Sunday closing of the Mt. Savage motion picture house and the Potomac Drive-In Theater by the state's attorney.

A citizens committee, representing veterans organizations, volunteer firemen, business houses, and others was being formed in Mt. Savage last night, and invitations are being made to officials and a number of prominent people in the county, to attend the meeting.

Members of the Allegany County delegation to the General Assembly are invited to the meeting, along with county commissioners, and representatives of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and other civic, patriotic and fraternal groups.

The purpose of the meeting is to demonstrate the indignation of the townspeople on the closing of the only recreation and amusement center in the town, and to attempt to devise a means by which the theater can operate legally.

Ask Commissioners Aid

Yesterday, Mrs. Yolanda Bishields Hutzell and her sisted, Mrs. Matilda Norris, appeared before the County Commissioners here and appealed for assistance.

Mrs. Hutzell explained that she and her brother, George Bishields, operate the Majestic Theater in Mt. Savage and have run two shows each Sunday, one in the afternoon and the other at night, for more than 10 years.

The young woman asked the Commissioners if the Board can pass an order legalizing Sunday movies in unincorporated areas, since the law does permit governing bodies of towns and municipalities to legalize Sunday operation.

John T. Fey, attorney to the Board and a member of the House of Delegates, checked the law and found that the Commissioners are not empowered to take such action.

Commissioner William H. Lemmert, Frostburg, and Commissioner James Holmes, Lonaconing, expressed their sympathy toward theater operators in outlying areas, but said the Board is powerless to help.

It's A Good Question

During the discussion, Commissioner Lemmert said it appears odd that the state's attorney has just discovered the Mt. Savage Theater has been operating on Sunday.

Commissioner Holmes, in reply to Mrs. Hutzell's querry, "Why didn't the state's attorney stop us before?" said, "It's a good question."

Attorney Fey and the two commissioners recommended that all members of the county delegation to the General Assembly be contacted so the law can be amended to legalize Sunday movies throughout the entire county, or to enable the County Commissioners to handle the situation by some equitable method.

All three, as did Clerk to the Board James Stevenson, agreed repeatedly that "everyone should be treated fairly, and no business should be penalized because it happens to be outside a corporate limit."

Circulate Petition

People in Mt. Savage are bitter and vehement in their comment over the action. A petition is being circulated protesting the closing of the Majestic and the Potomac Drive-In, and urging legislative action to eliminate the inequity.

Even people opposed to Sunday movies are signing the petition because their indignation rises when they realize that some can operate and others must close, merely because of a technicality in the law.

One prominent Mt. Savage resident said, "This thing borders on the police state method."

Another, a World War II veteran, said, "And I helped fight a war to protect freedom and democracy. This thing is dicatorship, purely and simply."

A business man said, "I do not think any official or group of officials should use technicalities in the law to favor some and hinder others in the right of free enterprise."

Bishields said yesterday he has never operated his theater in anything but a proper manner. Sunday shows have always been conducted so as not to interfere with church services in the community. The afternoon show runs between the hours of 2 and 5 p. m. and the night film is exhibited between 8:30 and 11 p. m.
